13 Killed as Big Airliner Crashes Near Pittsburgh

FORMATION OF ICE ON WINGS OF SHIP IS BELIEVED CAUSE

TEN PASSENGERS AMONG THOSE DEAD

Commerce Department

Investigation of Tragedy;
Three of Crew Also Lost.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, March 25.—A glant white Transcontinental Airways skyliner crashed nose first tonight about 10 miles south of Pittsburgh, killing its crew of three and ten passengers.

Robert McWilliams, a Washington, Pa., taxicab operator, said he saw the liner about 6:45 p. m., cruising slowly, headed toward the Pittsburgh airport, its engines laboring.

"The pilot kept dropping gradually toward the end of a narrow valley. He seemed to try to make a turn.

"Suddenly the front of the ship just dropped straight down 100 yards from me. There was a loud noise, then silence.

"There was no fire. When I got there all the passengers seemed jammed into the front of the ship.
The back part wasn't damaged.

"We began pulling out the bodies.
We listened to the hearts but none was beating.

City, Okla.

The tragedy occurred in a small valley in upper St. Clair township on the fringe of Mt. Lebanon and eight miles from downtown Pittsburgh.

Dr. J. J. McLean, manager of the Allegheny county airport, said some of the inspectors who viewed the ship advanced the theory that ice forming on the wings had caused the crash.

"They told me they saw ice on parts of the ship and expressed the opinion this had formed on the wings while it was descending from a height of 10,000 feet or more to within the visibility range of 2,400 feet," said McLean.

Less than a year ago 11 persons died in a mountain top crash 40 miles to the southeast, and last September 510 were killed in a sightseeing plane about 10 miles away.

Visibility was good at the time of the crash, although a few hours earlier a heavy fog (smoke and fog) had enveloped most of the Pittsburgh area.
The plane was a two-motored DC-2
Douglas, one of the latest makes.

Captain A. M. Wilkins, who was piloting flight No. 6 from Pittsburgh eastward to Newark, reported he, too, saw the crash. He said the ill-fated

Poll Shows 27 States Against Roosevelt's High Court Plan

American Institute of Public Opinion Making New Opinion Checkup.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director of American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, March 25.—In the seven weeks since President Roosevelt exploded his supreme court plan before congress the predominant public opinion of America has opposed the President's plan. The complete nation-wide poll of the American Institute of Public Opinion shows that 27 states oppose the White House proposal while 20 favor it. In the forty-eighth state public opinion is exactly even.

On a nation-wide basis 53 voters oppose the plan for every 47 who favor it.

These figures are based on a careful sampling of opinion in every state, and they represent approximately the result if the entire voting population had expressed its opinion. The Institute distributed ballots to farmers and city people, Democrats and Republicans, rich and poor within the state, the exact proportions depending on the distribution of the voting population in each case.

Today's Institute poll dramatizes the back-to-the-wall fight that faces President Roosevelt if he is to have his way without compromise. With less than a majority of popular support he must convince a wide-spread senate that his plan is the best plan and that it should be passed "now."

In previous crises the President has been accustomed to strong popular majorities at his elbow. In 1932 he was

LANSING, Mich., March 25.—
Chrysler strike negotiations which Governor Frank Murphy said "will proceed until an agreement on collective bargaining has been reached" were resumed here tonight.

Within a few minutes after state police notified him that more than 8,000 sit-down strikers had ended their 18-day occupation of Chrysler factories in Detroit, leaving the plants "in good condition," the red-haired executive communicated with Walter P.
Chrysler, corporation chairman, and John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Both hurried to Murphy's executive suite in the state capital for a two-hour session which the Governor said might be "preliminary." There they were joined by Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, whose members are demanding recognition of their union as sole bargaining agency for the 67-000 Chrysler workers.

When the conference recessed until 8 a. m. (Atlanta time) tomorrow, Governor Murphy said it had been "very satisfactory. The spirit of the eve of Good Friday prevailed." None of the other conferees commented.

Governor Murphy did not say whether progress had been made. He announced that the conferees will meet until noon tomorrow and then probably continue the session.

Nearly 70 Atlanta, Fulton Bills Passed; City's Financial Program Wins Approval

RIVERS ANNOUNCES MANY APPOINTEES

Burch To Head Resources Bureau; Maddox Is Again Health Chairman.

Governor Rivers yesterday announced a group of major appointments, including that of R. F. Burch Jr., of Eastman, to be commissioner of natural resources and the reappointment of Robert F. Maddox, of Comer, and T. Jack Lance, of Young Harris, to be chairman of the state board of health.

The appointments were confirmed by the senate in an executive session.
It was said that there was no discussion and all the nominations were approved unanimously.

The appointments sent to the senate included 10 members of the board of regents, including four state-at-large members provided in a bill passed earlier in the day by the general assembly.

The new state-at-large members on the board are L. W. (Chip) Robert, of Atlanta; George Hains, of Augusta; J. Knox Gholston, of Comer, and
T. Jack Lance, of Young Harris.

In addition the Governor sent to the senate the names of Abit Nix, of Athens; John W. Bennett Sr., of Waycross, and John G. Kennedy, of Savannah, new members of the board whose appointments previously had been announced. Likewise the chief executive reappointed Major Clark Howell, of Atlanta, the fifth district member of the board and George C.
Woodruff, of Columbus, the third district member.

Mr. Robert is the secretary to the Democratic National Committee. Mr.
Hains is solicitor general of the Augusta judicial circuit. Mr. Gholston is a widely known businessman, and Dr.
Lance is president of Governor Rivers' alma mater, Young Harris College.

Mr. Nix succeeds Paul Barson, of Monroe, as the tenth district member.
Judge Bennett succeeds Judge M. D.
Dickerson, of Douglas, as the eighth district member, and Mr. Kennedy succeeds E. Ormonde Hunter, of Savannah. The latter takes office immediately. The former two do not go on the board until July 1.

Governor Rivers also appointed

Constitutional Amendments To Be Voted on by Citi- zens June 8.

When the gavel of the speaker of the house and the president of the senate sounded the adjournment of the legislature last night, nearly 70 bills vitally affecting the city of Atlanta and Fulton county had received the final approval of the general assembly.

Constitutional amendments which form an integral part of the important city financial program passed the house last night shortly after 9 o'clock by a vote of 169 to 1, after already having been approved by the senate.
The amendments are ready for Governor Rivers' signature and will be voted on in the general election June

Fulton county representatives in the house and senate last night praised the co-operation of the general assembly and the Governor for passing and approving many laws which are designed to better government in both the city and county.

The important constitutional amendments approved last night as a part of the city's financial program provide for refunding of bonds, both for the deficit and of existing bonds in case of emergency, and likewise to clarify the borrowing power of the city. They dove-tail with the revenue-raising financial omnibus bill which was approved by the assembly and signed by the Governor several days ago.

In addition to these measures, the legislature had approved a bill which will mean from $30,000 to $50,000 additional annual revenue for the county, legislators said. It gives the county treasury 10 per cent of the ASSEMBLY ADOPTS INCOME TAX BILL

Higher Rates and Lower Exemptions Expected to Yield $4,000,000 Yearly.

A new state income tax, which practically doubles the present rate, was adopted by the general assembly yesterday in the closing hours of its biennial session. Sponsors of the bill said it would yield $4,000,000 annually to the general fund for the various state services.

The senate followed the house in accepting the report of a joint conference committee which worked out a compromise scale of rates.

The committee struck a provision which would have permitted deduc-tion of income taxes paid to the federal government from gross income, for state tax purposes.

The new bill reduces exemptions from $3,500 to $2,500 for married persons, and from $1,500 to $1,000 for single persons, the same as the federal exemptions.

Representative J. M. Simmons, of Decatur, a member of the conference committee and author of the bill, estimated the new law would yield $4, 000,000 more than the present income tax, which brings in about $2,500,000 a year.

Corporation incomes will be taxed

FAILURE OF BRITAIN TO HALT DUCE HIT

George Accuses Officials of Allowing Italy Right-of-Way in Ethiopia.

LONDON, March 25.—(P)—Failure of Great Britain to resist Italian imperialism in Spain and Ethiopia is endangering world peace, David Lloyd George charged today, leading a heated attack in commons against President Benito Mussolini and British foreign policy.

"Stand up to Mussolini!" Lloyd George shouted. "Earn some respect for Britain. He is no fool. He knows with whom he is dealing.

"If he had been dealing with men who spoke in the name of Britain, with the might of Britain behind them, he would not have talked like this. I hope the time will come when we shall talk in a straightforward, fearless manner.

Opposition spokesmen, in a house tensely silent, assailed Mr. Duce for "brutal butchery" in Ethiopia and for alleged Italian intervention in Spain, denouncing what they described as wavering British policies.

The attack came after disclosure of Anglo-French agreement on the necessity of preventing the landing of further volunteers—especially Italians —in warring Spain. British and French representatives discussed the possibility of using warships to halt troop transports to Spain, but postponed any definite decision.

They agreed the machinery of the international non-intervention committee should be tried out first and the problem of withdrawing volunteers, which they pointed out was separate from the neutrality committee's "already accomplished" control plan, was for future consideration.

"I'd rather have Italy's anger than Italy's contempt," said the elder

ROOSEVELT ENDS VACATION TODAY

President Pays Deferred Visit to His Farm and to Resettlement Project.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., March 25.
(P)—President Roosevelt brought his two weeks' vacation virtually to a close today with a 50-mile motor trip which took him to his farm, to a rural resettlement project, and to a Civilian Conservation Corps camp.

He will leave tomorrow afternoon for Washington, arriving there late Saturday morning. He is expected to confer with congressional leaders over the week end on a number of subjects, including sit-down strikes.

Following a morning swim in the private pool here, the chief executive drove his dirt-cruiser car back to his Pine mountain cottage, ate lunch and then started out on a tour of inspection that was three times deferred because of bad weather or official business.

First he visited his 2,800-acre cotton-cattle farm to leave final orders with the superintendent, Otis Moore.
Before returning to the national capital.

The farm lies alongside Pine mountain, about five miles from Warm Springs. Spring planting is under way and a herd of white-faced Herefords grazes on the farm's broad acres.

From there, the small presidential procession moved on to the Pine mountain resettlement project, first of its kind under the two-year federal program to assist in the rehabilitation of urban jobless.

More than $1,000,000 has been allocated for the project, which embraces 10,000 acres of valley land under cultivation.

FULTON, DEKALB TO SEEK AWARD

Action of Three Counties Makes 5th District First To Enter 100 Per Cent.

By HERMAN HANCOCK.

Fulton and DeKalb counties will actively strive to win the first award of $3,500 in The Atlanta Constitution's $7,500 Progressive Government awards, commission members from those two counties yesterday told members of the fifth district Georgia Federation of Women's clubs at a convention at Hapeville.

Declaration of the commissioners followed unanimous endorsement of the award program by the club women in which they pledged their active cooperation to commissioners and citizens in preparing programs to win the coveted award.

Charles A. Matthews, DeKalb county commissioner, and Commissioners George F. Longino and Ed L. Almond, of the Fulton commission, asserted unequivocally that both counties would be in the forefront of other Georgia counties as active contenders for the first honor.

Backed By Leaders.

Mrs. John D. Evans, president of the fifth district federation, presided at the sessions yesterday. The Hapeville Woman's Club was hostess to the convention. Mrs. J. L. Fulghen, president of the Hapeville group, was not present because of illness in her family.

Mother, 5 Children Perish in Flames Trapped in Beds

Jersey City, N. J., March 25.—
(P)—Mrs. Rose Burkhardt, 64-year-old widow, her five youngest children, and a brother-in-law, burned to death early today in a three-alarm fire which razed a three-story frame dwelling.

The other dead: John Gorman, about 69; Philip, 12; Charles, 15; Florence, 17; Theresa, 10, and Veronica, 9.

Rose, 17, another daughter, was the only occupant of the building to escape. Awakened by smoke, she ran down the stairs and was carried to the street by a passerby.

Four of 7 Most Popular Comics Are Carried in The Constitution

Four of the seven most popular comic strip characters in American newspapers are brought to you regularly every morning by The Constitution.

This is revealed in the report of the latest issue of Fortune magazine's quarterly survey, universally recognized as an accurate and dependable analysis of public opinion.

Little Orphan Annie is the most popular comic strip character of them all, according to the survey, being so classified by 11.6 per cent of newspaper readers. The other three Constitution comics out of the first seven are Dick Tracy, the Gumps and Moon Mullins. The rankings of the first seven by Fortune follow:

Comic Strip	Percentage
Little Orphan Annie	11.6 per cent
Second comic	9.5 per cent
Dick Tracy	7.0 per cent
Fourth comic	6.5 per cent
The Gumps	4.4 per cent
Sixth comic	4.0 per cent
Moon Mullins	3.5 per cent

The survey points out that the regular followers of the doings of the comic strip characters are by no means all children. In fact more than half the adult men, 50.5 per cent, to be exact, confess they have a favorite comic strip, while 52.2 per cent of women make the same admission.

There are more people between the ages of 20 and 40 who follow the

FUNDS MEASURE, BUS, TRUCK TAX GIVEN APPROVAL

Chain Store Levy Voted With Maximum of $200 Per Unit; Income Tax Rate Set; Department of Purchases Created.

MANY BILLS VOTED BY BOTH BRANCHES

Doubling of Tax on Beer, With Ban on Sunday
Sales Is Approved; $750,000 Revenue Seen.

Completing enactment of nearly a score of major measures on the final day and night of the session, the general assembly of Georgia adjourning its 60-day biennial meeting shortly after midnight this morning after adopting a general appropriations bill providing for a two-year outlay of approximately $80,000,000, levying bus and truck taxes, a chain store tax and a new income tax which practically doubles the present schedule.

The appropriations measure and the bus and truck bill were the final major measures of the session, the chain store bill and the income levy having been completed at yesterday afternoon's session.

Senator Millican, of Atlanta, one of the conferees on the bus and truck bill declared that it would yield upwards of $2,000,000 a year.

Agreement on the bill was reached when the senate group accepted the house schedule on weights and eliminated the mileage taxes upon which the house previously had insisted.

Another major measure completed just before the hour of adjournment was the Rivers-sponsored bill to abolish the present office of state supervisor of purchases and set up a new department of purchases which will do the buying for all agencies of the state government, a measure which its sponsor, Senator Millican, of Atlanta, says will save the state $1,000,000 a year.

Earlier in the day the two houses completed action on the Marshall beer tax which doubles the tax on malt beverages and outlaws their sale on Sundays, which administration leaders say will bring in upwards of $750,000 a year. The revenue from beer is allocated to free school books.

Chain Store Tax Rates.

The measure provides for a maximum of $200 a store for each store over 40 in a chain, was agreed to speedily. It was said the tax would cost the state $200,000 a year, operating in the state between $35,000 and $40,000 a year.

Governor Rivers had asked for the tax to help finance his New Deal program for Georgia.

Both houses accepted the conference committee report taxing the first store $2, the second $10, and subsequent stores $5 a store up to $200 for the 40th store.

Stores in a chain exceeding 40 will be taxed $200 each.

The conference committee accepted the rates suggested by the senate, except to impose a $2 tax on the first store of a chain rather than a $1 tax.

The bill as originally adopted by the house proposed a tax of $10 on each store in a chain of two and advanced to $5 for each store in a chain of 10 stores or more.

Mail Order Stores.

The conference committee also lowered the scale of rates for mail order stores.

The committee adopted a rate of $2,000 for one store; $4,000 each for two stores; $6,000 each in chain of three stores; $8,000 each for four stores, and $10,000 each in chain of five stores.

The committee removed a senate amendment which would have placed each department and floor of a department store in the chain store category.

Missing Man's Body Found at Brookwood

The body of a white man found last yesterday afternoon in a deep ravine in Collier woods, about a half mile from Brookwood drive, near the Brookwood station, was identified last night as Mark Fink, 35, of 63 Linden avenue.

Fink, who was partially paralyzed, had been missing from home since March 6, according to his mother, Mrs. S. J. Fink. Police expressed the belief he fell into the ravine while

His mother identified a lumberjack shirt he was wearing when the body was discovered by Max Beer, 44, negro, rear of 33 Brookwood drive, employer of a coal and ice company. The body was taken to the mortuary of Awry & Lowndes, who will announce funeral arrangements.

Unique Money Bag Fails Two Robbers

HARRISON, N. J., March 25.—
(P)—A pair of robbers held up two George Peterson, Inc., employees today, escaped with $2,700 in cash in a small black bag, and within a few minutes tossed the bag and money away when a gas bomb device on the fastener exploded.

The holdup victims said the bag was filled with a "contraption" that exploded a gas bomb on the inside when opened by a person unfamiliar with the catch.

They said the robbers fled in a car but tossed the "burglar-proof" bag into a vacant lot less than a block away from the holdup scene.

After Heart Attack.

Mrs. F. C. McConnell, widow of Dr. F. C. McConnell, first pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, died Wednesday at her winter home at Arpeka, Fla., following a heart attack.

Mrs. McConnell left Atlanta last fall after spending the summer here with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Lucius McConnell, of 1296 Fairview road, N. E. Since her husband's death she had been spending the spring and summer in Atlanta and the winter in Florida.

Born near Hiwassee, in Towns county, Mrs. McConnell was the daughter of Captain William Jasper England and Pauline Carter England. She moved to Westminster, S. C., early in life and lived there many years. She was married to Dr. McConnell in 1876. Dr. McConnell had charges in Macon, Gainesville, Lynchburg, Va.; Kansas City, Mo.; Dallas, Texas, and Atlanta.

Active in church work throughout her life, Mrs. McConnell was president of the Women's Missionary Society of the Druid Hills Baptist church at the time of her death. Her service to the church also included work as Sunday school teacher, adviser for the young people of the church and contributor to the Baptist publications. She was widely known throughout the south as an authority on history.

In addition to her daughter-in-law here, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. W. R. Smith, of Arpeka, and Mrs. G. J. Rousseau, of Pensacola; three sons, Strube McConnell, of Shreveport, La.; Dr. F. C. McConnell Jr., of Jacksonville, and Carter McConnell, of Branford, Fla.; two brothers, Luther and B. M. England, both of Westminster, S. C., and several grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Druid Hills Baptist church, with Dr. Louis D. Newton and Dr. R. D. Gray officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery under the direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Palibearers will be H. D. Stephenson, Z. A. Snipes, W. Ches Smith, M. E. Coleman, Parks R. Warnock, E. A. Morgan, Owen McConnell and Evan McConnell.

The body will lie in state at the church from 1 o'clock this afternoon until the time of funeral services.

Churches Offer Special Services, Music for Easter's Celebration

New Church To Be Dedicated Sunday by Lutherans.

Services in churches of Atlanta will mark Good Friday today as Holy Week nears its close, to be climaxed Sunday with the observance of Easter Day.

Special sermons appropriate to the day, and special musical programs, will be heard. Many out-of-towners and former members are expected to swell attendances at the churches.

A week of special dedicatory services, beginning with an early sunrise service at 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning, will mark the opening of the new Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, located at Peachtree and Fourth streets.

The church service with confirmation and reception of new members will be held at 11 o'clock and the first dedicatory service will be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Dr. John A. Yost, pastor, will be assisted in the Sunday services by the Rev. W. H. Greener, secretary of the United Lutheran Church of America, and by the Rev. George Hart, pastor of the Atlanta Lutheran Church of the Messiah.

On Monday night at 7:30 o'clock Dr. Greener will deliver the feature address of the dedication ceremonies, to be followed by Dr. A. C. Linn, president of the Georgia-Alabama synod, who will speak on Tuesday night at the same hour.

Dr. Yost will conduct the services Wednesday night, Dr. J. U. Kinard, president of Fowberry College, will speak on Thursday night with the Newberry College singers rendering a musical program.

The musical program of the church is under the direction of Christian W. Diekmann, head of the music department at Agnes Scott. The choir will provide the music for the dedication week ceremonies.

Lenten Cantata.
"The Darkest Hour," a Lenten cantata by Harold Moore will be offered by the St. Luke's Episcopal church choir tonight at 8:30 o'clock as part of their Good Friday services.

The cantata will be presented in narrative form and is under the direction of Hugh Hodgson, organist and choirmaster.

C. E. Drummond Jr. (tenor) is narrator; Coleman Kimbro (baritone) will sing "The Words of Jesus"; T. Stanley Perry is high priest, and Minna Hecker is soprano soloist.

The choir of the Central Presbyterian church with Lawrence G. Nilson directing will be heard in a program of special Easter music Sunday at both the morning and vesper services.

"Seraphic Song," by Rubenstein will be offered at the morning service with organ, violin, and piano accompaniment.

"Christ the Victor," a cantata by Dudley Buck, will be sung by the church choir at 5 o'clock at the vesper services.

Cantata at Jackson Hill.
Carrie Adams' cantata, "The Resurrection Story" will be sung by the Jackson Hill Baptist church choir Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Good Friday services will be held at the Salvation Army temple at 34 Ellis street at 7:30 o'clock, tonight. The services will be featured by a musical prelude by the territorial staff band and an address by Lieutenant Commissioner Ernest L. Fugimore, southern states leader.

"Easter's Message of Hope" will be the subject of a sermon by Dr. Louis Newton at the Druid Hills Baptist church's Easter services Sunday morning at 7 o'clock. The Druid Hills hall will be broadcast over station WGST at 9 o'clock with T. Stanley Perry singing a group of Easter hymns and an address by Dr. Newton.

Frank Holton's Easter cantata, "The Easter Sunrise Song" will be sung by the Capitol View Baptist church choir at the church's Easter morning services.

"From Death to Life." Bartlett's cantata, will be offered by the choir of the Peachtree Road Methodist church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Lena Wood, pianist, will direct the choir. The soloists will include Mrs. Claude Sherrill, Mrs. R. P. Jones, Mrs. G. L. Martin Jr., Sam Calloway, Lamar Davis and Ben H. Hutchinson.

Free transportation to churches for the aged and crippled will again be offered Easter morning by the Black and White Cab Company.

This courtesy has been extended by the cab company for many years. Those wishing transportation telephone Walnut 0200 by Saturday night, 6 o'clock, so that arrangements may be made.

To Close Series.
The Rev. J. J. Copelan, pastor of the First Methodist church, at McDonough, will close a series of pre-Easter services at Pottville Memorial Methodist church.

Passover Festival.

The Jewish celebration of the annual Passover festival begins tonight with traditional ceremonies commemorating the Israelites' emancipation from Egypt.

Special Passover services will be held in Atlanta synagogues. Rabbi Harry H. Epstein, spiritual leader of the Ahavith Achim synagogue, will speak on "Bloodless Revolution," Saturday at 10 o'clock. "A Plagued World," will be his sermon topic Sunday morning at the same hour in a special youth service.

Services at the Temple will be conducted by Rabbi David Marx. Rabbi Tobias Geffen will lead services at the Shearith Israel congregation.

odist church Sunday with two Easter Day services.

"The Resurrection" will be the subject of his sermon at 10:30 o'clock. The Young People's choir, assisted by the Adult choir, will present a program of Easter musical selections at 7:30 o'clock.

An Easter egg hunt will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Atlanta Mission Children's Home at Mountain View, near Hapeville.

The hunt will be given by the American Business Club of Atlanta. Joe Deakle is president of the group. More than 200 children will attend.

"Resurrection Dawn" will be the subject of a sermon by Hazel E. Risk at 11 o'clock Sunday at the Unity Fellowship of Atlanta Easter services. The services will be held on the fourth floor of the Witt building.

statesman. He taunted the government for its efforts to avoid a break with Mussolini over the non-intervention crisis.

Viscount Cranborne, substituting for Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, his chief, faced the parliamentary fire and steadfastly insisted it was impossible "beforehand" to announce what would be done even if the Spanish insurgents won with the aid of Italian troops.

Cranborne's refusal, in the face of persistent questioning, to protest to the League of Nations against Italian executions in Addis Ababa or reported violations of the "hands off Spain" committee's ban on foreign interference in Spain, coincided with reiteration from official sources that Anglo-French policy concerned in giving the neutrality a thorough trial before considering more drastic steps.

Success is seen.

Unless Rome takes offense at the strong language of Lloyd George and other Laborite speakers in commons, observers believed British efforts to pour oil on the troubled international situation would be successful.

Parliament recessed for Easter until April 6 at the height of the debate, but more fireworks were anticipated when the neutrality committee again takes up the question of the withdrawal of volunteers. Count Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador to Great Britain and a member of the committee, has refused even to discuss it.

into 25 to 60-acre parcels. A total of 187 city relief families are trying to stage a comeback on its soil.

The CCC camp at nearby Chipley, Ga., was on the route back to Warm Springs.

No Strike News.

At an impromptu press conference in front of Georgia Hall here at the end of the trip, the President said he had heard no news during the day on the strike situation.

Leaving this spot after listening to some old southern harmony by the Port Valley Negro Glee Club, the President drove his car over miles of hilly clay roads. Six other cars were in the procession.

The President stopped his car between a school building and an unfinished community house at the retirement project, where scores of children greeted him by singing "Happy Days Are Here Again."

After being presented a flag quilt, the President turned to the crowd and said he was tremendously impressed with the improvement the project had shown since his last visit.

"I am happy that the work the government is doing in it is going so well," he said. "The government can't make it succeed. It is up to you to do that, from the oldest down to the youngest baby."

Scope of Project.

The project has a co-operative dairy, raises all its own food and markets some surplus canned goods. It has been running almost three years and most of the beneficiaries are just starting to make payments to the government of $11 a month.

William T. Bennett, project manager, and Mrs. Remond Terrell, of Greenville, project historian, shook hands with the President just before he promised to return for another visit in November.

On the way to the CCC camp at Chipley, he stopped the car at a cross road and yelled back to ask directions.

Interviewed at Camp.

At the camp he was greeted by Lieutenant James W. Crocker, who stopped from a line of 160 uniformed youths to shake hands. This was barely over before Donald E. Barnes, young editor of the camp's paper, pressed forward and began to interview the chief executive. "Do you think the CCC will be made permanent?" he asked.

"I think it will be made permanent this session; they're working on a bill now," the President replied, adding that was "old news" to the reporters accompanying him.

When asked if persons not on relief might be made eligible, the President said youths from relief families would be taken care of first, as at present.

Given Table Runner.

A hand-woven table runner was the camp's gift to the distinguished visitor.

Back at Warm Springs, the President was asked if CCC enrollees would be permitted to take military training during their recreation periods if they cared to.

The President replied the youths had enough to do and such training would not be permitted at the camps.

HOME-GROWN FOREIGNER.

Mrs. Marie Carle Jugel, of Denver, Col., who never had been outside the United States, was a German citizen for 15 years—and didn't know it.

When she married in 1922 her husband was a German citizen, but he was naturalized several months later and Mrs. Jugel thought that made her a citizen again.

Applying for a passport recently, however, she learned a law had been passed the same day her husband was naturalized, whereby wives were not affected by their husband's nationality.

But a United States district judge restored her citizenship quickly.

Garden School Attendance Prize Is Won by Cheshire Bridge Club

Another Capacity Crowd Grets Mrs. Crown for Closing Lecture in Constitution-Sponsored Spring Event for Atlanta.

By MARY HARRIS ROWSEY.

The awarding of prizes at yesterday's session brought to a close the latest and most successful of the semi-annual free garden schools, which have been sponsored by The Constitution during the past three years.

The grand prize of $25, offered by The Constitution to the Atlanta garden club registering the largest number of members present for the entire three days of the school, was won by the Cheshire Bridge Garden Club, of which Mrs. Lyman Morris is president. This same club also won the $15 daily attendance prize at the opening session.

The $15 prize for attendance on Thursday went to the Narcissus Garden Club, of which Mrs. John Rooney is president. The garden division of the Grant Park Woman's Club, which won the grand prize at the fall session, ran a close second for the grand prize given yesterday morning.

Lecture on "Annals," a question sent to her by someone who had never gardened before. The question was "What is the difference between an annual and a perennial?" Mrs. McHatten, "Henry Grady" would have been thrilled, indeed, at a garden school for the beautification and refinement of nature in the city he loved so well.

Dr. McHatten continued with a brief discussion of the origin of gardens. He presented Mrs. Crown as "this much introduced lady whom you all know well about whom so much has been said that there is nothing left for me to say."

Mrs. McHatten, "Henry Grady" would have been thrilled, indeed, at a garden school for the beautification and refinement of nature in the city he loved so well.

Dr. McHatten continued with a brief discussion of the origin of gardens. He presented Mrs. Crown as "this much introduced lady whom you all know well about whom so much has been said that there is nothing left for me to say."

Timely Question. Mrs. Crown opened her class with a question sent to her by someone who had never gardened before. The question was "What is the difference between an annual and a perennial?" ONE DROWNS IN GULF, THREE ARE RESCUED

Party Clung to Overturned Boat on Tuesday Night Until Thursday.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—Three persons were rescued from the Gulf of Mexico today by a fourth, Cleon Mosely, could not hold on to their overturned sail boat long enough to be rescued.

J. L. Pipkin, keeper of the Anclote lighthouse near Tarpon Springs, saw the trio hanging onto a bird rook and rescued them this morning after they had been in the water since about 9 o'clock Tuesday night.

Those saved were Lester Clark, 20, Clearwater drug clerk; Miss Irene Paris, a waitress from Fort Wayne, Ind., and Miss Madonna Mae Forewick, a waitress from Salina, Ohio.

They said they left Clearwater Tuesday night for a short trip in their 18-foot sail boat. About a mile off shore the water became so rough it upset the craft. The four clung to the overturned hull until about 2 o'clock yesterday morning when Mosely, 20-year-old Clearwater waiter, slipped off and disappeared.

Clark and the two girls held on and the tide gradually took them closer to shore although miles north of the point from which they sailed. Finally they were able to climb onto the bird rook where Pipkin saw them through a telescope. He said they were exhausted when he reached them.

HIGHWAY PATROL BILL ENACTED IN INTEREST OF SAFETY IN TRAFFIC

Measure Also Provides for Drivers' Licenses for All Autoists.

Designed to cut down traffic fatalities and to improve machinery for prevention of crime and apprehension of criminals, a state highway patrol bill was enacted by the Georgia legislature today.

The bill was enacted by the 1937 general assembly of Georgia. Approved by Governor Rivers, the measure carries a driver's license tax to support the patrol and its state-wide activities.

The patrol will consist of from 80 to 120 men. Signing the bill on March 19, the Governor said the patrol would not become operative until "some time after the legislature adjourns."

He said he would lean heavily on Clem Sutton, house floor leader and representative from Wilkes county, for aid in setting up the patrol. Sutton drew the bill and pushed it through to passage.

The measure received a cordial reception in some legislative circles, and was regarded unfavorably in others. At one time Rivers issued a statement saying he was "friendly" to the bill, but that it was "not an administration measure."

March Work Needed.

Rivers announced recently that when the patrol is inaugurated "it will be on the most efficient and business basis." He intimated that much study and organization work remains to be done before the patrol becomes operative.

The 1937 session was the second at which a highway patrol law was pushed actively. The subject came up at the 1935 session but the bill failed to pass. Then Governor Eugene Talmadge, told the legislature to go along on the proposition of "putting a bunch of men out on the highways with uniforms on, and pistols in the pockets."

The current patrol law carries an appropriation of $100,000 payable immediately. It authorizes an additional $250,000 for use during 1937. At the 1937, it would receive $350,000 annually. The law provides its regular income will come from the tax on motor vehicle drivers.

Drivers' Tax.

The drivers' tax will be collected upon application for a license to operate a motor vehicle. Regular drivers will be taxed $1 for a two-year license. If an applicant for a license fails to pass an examination, 50 cents will be returned. There is a learners' license of 50 cents for two years, a $2 license for public chauffeurs. It will be a misdemeanor to operate a motor vehicle without a license after July 1, 1937.

Examinations will be given members of the patrol in each county, or by sheriffs or other authorities.

In charge of the patrol will be a commissioner of public safety (salary $4,800 yearly) and a deputy commissioner ($3,600 yearly).

The patrol will be organized somewhat along military lines, with the commissioner ranking as a major, and others ranking from recruits to captains. In general charge will be a department of public safety composed of the Governor, the Revenue Commission chairman, the Highway Board chairman, the comptroller general and one member selected from 10 nominees made by the Georgia Peace Officers' Association.

Duties of Patrol.

Duties of the patrol will be to enforce highway laws, but on request of city or county officials, the patrol may aid in other criminal cases.

The bill authorizes arrest of fugitives, or those apt to become fugitives, in emergency cases without approval of local officials.

A communication system for exchange of crime news, by radio or otherwise, also is authorized.

The patrol will furnish state and divisional headquarters, uniforms, equipment, horses, motor vehicles and living quarters for its members whose pay will range from $720 yearly for recruits to $2,400 for captains. Divisional barracks will be established at such points as the commissioner sees fit. Drivers' licenses, motor vehicle titles, their revocation and renewal will be made by the commission.

SEE FIXED CORN PRICES.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP)—Government economists predicted today that corn prices will continue near present high levels until late summer or early fall.

THREE MEALS A DAY HOME TESTED RECIPES BY Sally Saver

Did you every try to trace a thought, or explain a dream? Association of words, one after another, will sometimes form a fantastic story that may end far from the original start. If you were playing the game of word associations and someone said to you "Easter," the first words to come to your mind might include some of the following: Eggs, daffodils, yellow, white, spring, rabbits.

Sooner or later your thoughts would come to that of food in relation to the festive Easter day. An Easter cake will fit many purposes on this day—afternoon tea—evening refreshment, or dessert for the main meal. In a pineapple daffodil cake you will find combined many Easter associations. It is the very essence of the day itself, yet well within the budget of the average homemaker who wants to add a little extra to the food planned for Easter day.

Sponge and angel food cakes are combined to make this delicious creation, together with a pineapple filling that adds just the right touch to the combination, after a topping of white, feathery frosting. Decorations may be simple and most attractive when you afford yourself the opportunity presented by a can of sliced pineapple. A daffodil that will almost wave in the breeze may be easily fashioned from tiny wedges cut from sliced pineapple. The golden yellow of this popular fruit will carry out the Easter colors, and with a touch of frosting tinted green, a stem and leaf may be added to the pineapple daffodil. Shredded coconut will also make an attractive addition to this cake—drop it lightly on the moist frosting and it will suggest an Easter nest.

Some wise soul once said—"the key to successful baking is the art of following directions," but remember a perfect batter will never make a good cake unless it is also correctly baked. Let this delicious pineapple daffodil cake be your culinary triumph for a happy Easter.

Pineapple Daffodil Cake.
Bottom Layer. 1-1/2 cups sifted sugar, 1 cup egg whites (8), 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

One and one-half cups cake flour, 1-1/2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sifted sugar, 9 egg yolks, beaten until thick, 1 teaspoon lemon extract, 2 tablespoons cold water.

Method—Bottom Layer.
Sift flour once, measure, add 1-2 teaspoon cream of tartar and the salt, sift four times. Beat egg whites with flat wire whisk until they are foamy. Add the remaining 1-2 teaspoon of cream of tartar and continue beating until eggs are stiff enough to hold up in peaks, but not dry. Fold in sugar carefully, 2 tablespoons at a time until all is used. Fold in flour. Then sift small amount of flour over mixture and fold in carefully; continue until all is used. Turn into layer cake pan—9x2 inches. Bake for one hour at 300 degrees.

Method—Top Layer.
Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Add sugar gradually to beaten egg yolks, beating with rotary egg beater after each addition until thick and light. Fold in flour, a small amount at a time and blend. Add flavoring, then cold water gradually, mixing only enough to blend. Turn into layer cake pans 9x2 inches. Bake one hour at 300 degrees.

Pineapple Filling.
One cup syrup from can of pineapple, 1-2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 egg yolk, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup crushed pineapple.

Combine sugar, flour, cornstarch and blend well. Add pineapple syrup. Place in top of double boiler and cook for 20 minutes. Stir until it thickens. Add butter, lemon juice, blend. Remove from fire and fold in egg yolk. Allow to cool. Fold in one cup of crushed pineapple that has been drained. When filling is cold, spread between layers of pineapple daffodil cake.

Pineapple Daffodil Icing.
Two egg whites, 3-4 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1-2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat egg whites until foamy, add cream of tartar. Continue beating until egg whites are dry and stiff, then add sugar, two tablespoons at a time. Continue beating until sugar has been used, or until stiff icing you may use another 1-2 cup of sugar.

NOTE—Remove eggs from refrigerator several hours before using. They beat up lighter and more easily when at room temperature. Grease only the bottom of the layer cake pans and then line bottom with wax paper. When cakes are taken from oven, allow to cool in pans before removing. Do not invert pans. The egg requirement for this complete cake including both layers, filling and icing, is 10. There will be no left-over yolks or whites.

Have you ever tried margarine as a shortening? It creams up quickly and easily—try it sometime, using the following recipes. Vegetable oleo-margarine is also good for table use as well as for cooking, baking and seasoning.

Fig Cake.
Pastry or cake Margarine 1-2 cup, flour, 3 cups. Granulated sugar, Baking powder, 1-1/2 cups, 3 teaspoons. Vanilla extract.

Salt, 1-2 teaspoon. 3-4 teaspoon. Milk, 1 cup. Almond extract, Egg whites, 1-2 1-4 teaspoon. Cup, (about 4).

Cream, margarine and sugar until light and fluffy. Add flavorings and continue creaming. Sift flour once, measure, combine with sifted flour, ingredients and sift three times. Add dry ingredients and liquids alternately, a small amount at a time, to the creamed mixture. Beat mixture until smooth after each addition. Beat egg whites until stiff—but not too stiff. Fold egg whites into mixture. Pour batter into two well-greased cake pans which have been lined with waxed paper. Bake cake in a hot oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) until done—approximately 25 minutes.

Cool layers. Spread fig filling between the layers of cake. Ice top and sides of cake with caramel icing. Garnish with shaved toasted almonds, if desired. Yield 2-9 inch layers.

Fig Filling.
Dried figs, 1-2 lb. Lemon juice, 2 cups. Granulated sugar, 1-2 cup. Shaved almonds, 1 cup. Soak figs in water and cook until tender. Add sugar and cook slowly, stirring constantly to prevent sticking, until mixture is smooth and thick. Remove mixture from stove. Add lemon juice, blend well and return mixture to stove to heat through. Remove from fire, add nuts and blend mixture well. Cool and spread between layers of cake.

Caramel Pudding.
Granulated sugar, Powdered sugar, 8 1-2 cup. Boiling water, 1-4 Evaporated milk, 1 cup. Margarine, 1-2 cup. Vanilla extract, 1-2 teaspoon. Maple flavoring, 1-4 teaspoon.

Caramelize granulated sugar in a skillet over a low flame. Add boiling water to syrup and stir until it becomes a thin syrup free from lumps. Allow to cool slightly. Cream margarine and add powdered sugar, milk, flavorings and syrup. Blend mixture until smooth.

Part 1.
1-2 cup margarine 2 eggs 1-2 cup brown sugar 1 cup brown sugar 1 cup pastry flour, sifted 1 teaspoon baking powder 1-2 teaspoon salt 1 cup shredded coconut 1 cup almonds, toasted and chopped

Part 2.
1-2 cup brown sugar 1 cup brown sugar 1 cup vanilla extract 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour 1-2 teaspoon baking powder 1-2 teaspoon salt 1 cup shredded coconut 1 cup almonds, toasted and chopped

Cream margarine and sugar in Part 1. Add flour and blend well. Spread in a thin layer in a square baking pan. Bake for 10 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Remove from oven and allow to cool slightly. Beat eggs until light. Add sugar and blend (in Part 2) and continue beating until light and foamy. Add remaining ingredients in the order listed. Blend. Spread mixture over partially cooled Part 1. Return pan to the oven (350 degrees F.) and continue baking until a golden brown—approximately 25 minutes. Remove from oven—cool slightly and cut into bars. Yield 24 bars.

PLAN LIMITING CHANGE IN COURT TO 1-A-YEAR SUGGESTED BY HATCH

Judiciary Committee Member, Previously Silent, Favors Proposal.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(P)—A movement to change the supreme court gradually and piecemeal, instead of the swift alteration provided in the Roosevelt court bill, developed today within the senate judiciary committee.

Senator Hatch, New Mexico Democrat, came out in favor of an amendment to the bill, restricting the proposed appointments of new supreme court justices to one a year.

Under the Roosevelt program six new justices could be appointed immediately if the six incumbents over 70 years of age did not retire forthwith.

Hatch previously had not expressed his opinion on the bill, and therefore had come to be looked upon as one of the "key men" in the present struggle.

He had been struck by the arguments of Dean Young B. Smith of the Columbia University law school, an opponent of the bill, who appeared before the judiciary committee today and advised against a quick change of large proportions in the makeup of the supreme court.

Another witness today, Dr. Gould

Broken Eggs Trail Lands Two Thieves

SHELBY, N. C., March 25.—(P)—Sheriff Raymond Cline said today his deputies followed a trail of broken eggs to arrest two negroes on a charge of burglary.

The negroes, the sheriff said, broke into two homes, stealing a variety of articles ranging from an ax to a flannel tablecloth—and a bucket of eggs.

But, the sheriff said, the eggs fell out as the negroes, Eli Odams and Jake Clemmons, sped away. The rest, he said, was simple.

Wickey, general secretary of the council of church boards of education, opposed the President's proposal on the ground that through it "an entrenched radicalism could enact laws of educational slavery and religious intolerance."

One of Dean Smith's suggestions was that prompt action on a constitutional amendment, replacing the Roosevelt legislation, might be obtained if congress prescribed ratification by state conventions and set an early date for them.

Senator Burke, Nebraska Democrat, a foe of the presidential proposal, determined to go ahead on lines similar to those favored by Smith. He said he would revise his pending amendment, requiring compulsory retirement of justices at 75 years of age, to provide that congress fix the date for the election of delegates to state ratifying conventions and set the date for the conventions, and to be done within six months.

In that way, he hoped to meet objections that the amendment process is too slow.

Judge, 68, Named.

He also contemplated an additional revision under which not more than one incumbent justice could be compelled to retire each year.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt nominated Judge Robert Lee Williams, aged 68, of Oklahoma, to the circuit court of appeals, and the White House made public a letter in which Williams asserted he intended to retire when he reaches 70 years of age.

Attorney General Cummings submitted to the senate a 183-page report detailing thousands of injunction suits aimed at stopping the operation of Roosevelt administration laws. A total of 1,898 suits were filed against the agricultural adjustment act alone. The information had been requested by the senate.

NEGRO SLEEPWALKER HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. C., March 25.—(P)—Tom Smith, 18-year-old negro, was walking in his sleep and an automobile hit him.

At the hospital he told physicians he was a victim of sleepwalking and often wandered from his home in his sleep.

Physicians said he would recover from the mishap.

2 GIVEN LIFE TERM IN ROBBING DOCTOR

Sentences Follow Charge to Plea of Guilty After Jury Is Picked.

WETUMPKA, Ala., March 25.—(P)—Lee Hudgens and Maynard Tice, Montgomery young men, faced life imprisonment tonight after pleading guilty today in Elmore circuit court to charges of robbing Dr. W. M. Gamble, 72-year-old physician.

After a jury had been selected to try Hudgens, defense attorneys told Judge Arthur Glover the pair wanted to change their pleas from "innocent" to "guilty."

Judge Glover then sentenced them to life imprisonment.

Hudgens and Tice were accused of slugging the aged doctor as he treated a small girl patient in his office here the night of February 22, forcing him to open his safe and escaping with about $40 and several valuable pieces of jewelry.

A few hours later two men entered a Montgomery drugstore, 18 miles from here, held pistols on an employee and several customers, and escaped with about $80.

BOY WITNESS ADMITS SLAYING IN HOLDUP

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 25.—(P)—Walter Wilcox, 17, admitted on the witness stand in criminal court here today that he fatally shot

Louis Hines, filling station operator, in an attempted holdup February 5.

Wilcox testified that with him at the time of the slaying were his brother, Andy Wilcox, and Jack Ridge. Only Ridge is now being tried, he having been granted a severance on the grounds that trial with the Wilcox brothers would be prejudicial. The three are charged with murder.

2 FATALLY INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 25.—(P)—Two men were injured fatally and three other young persons hurt today as an automobile crashed into a pole near the state fair grounds here.

William Moore, 27, native of Jackson, Tenn., and James Burman died shortly after the crash. Both were employees of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company. Bradley Thornton, 27; Miss Mahel Schrier, 21, and Miss Mary Lou Stapp, 22, were injured.

ENGINEER'S BODY FOUND.

EUDORA, Ark., March 25.—(P)—Searchers found the body of Howard N. Hood, 27, Greenville, Miss., government engineer, on a Mississippi river island south of here today, nearly seven weeks after he drowned during the recent flood. Hood lost his life February 7 when a patrol boat in which he was riding near Greenville capsized in the high water.

SMART HOUSEWIVES KNOW-

Merita
IS BETTER BREAD

Every mother knows that bread—good bread—is an ideal ration for growing children. A food containing quickly digestible proteins that build sturdy little bodies—a food that combines, as does no other, economy and nutrition. But smart mothers know how to make use of that knowledge. They know that when they serve Merita Bread children eat more of it. They know that the savory, gold-rimmed slices of Merita Bread, oven-fresh, are not just something to be eaten with other things but are a delectable food within themselves. If you want your children to eat more bread serve them better bread—Merita Bread.

SMART HOSTESSES TOO

Merita
IS BETTER BREAD

The next time you plan for guests—no matter whether it's the simplest sandwich plate or the most elaborate dinner—may we not suggest this thought. Consider the cost of the things you're serving, the care and time you give their preparation. Consider what a very small part of your cost is for the bread you use. Then remember that your bread can make or mar the enjoyment of everything you serve. So many hostesses just take bread for granted because its cost is so small. But wise hostesses make sure. They know that better bread—Merita Bread—makes everything else taste better. Try this simple plan the next time you entertain—serve Merita Bread, its cost is no greater than that of ordinary bread and its zestful deliciousness will complement your favorite recipes.

BETTER BREAD IS THE BEST "BARGAIN"

Merita
TRADE MARK
IS BETTER BREAD

Two things—startling in their simplicity—make better bread—MERITA BREAD—the best bargain your grocer sells. Number One: When you serve your family Merita Bread its superior flavor, its smooth, rich texture, its oven-fresh deliciousness makes them eat more than they would of ordinary foods. That means they are displacing other and higher priced foods with the most economical source of body building proteins and carbohydrates you can buy. Second: Merita adds zest to everything else you serve. It complements other foods. Therefore, although its cost is relatively insignificant in relation to your total expense for foods, it is, in fact, the most important thing you buy. Don't just ask for a loaf of bread—say "Merita Bread" to your grocer. Buy bread with the same care you use in the purchase of other things. Every day more Southern women serve Merita Bread than any other kind. If for some reason you are not using it, switch to Merita for a few days. Let the verdict of your family prove the claim that Merita Bread is the best bargain your grocer sells.

COUNTY'S ARGUMENT IN SEWERAGE DISPUTE SET FORTH BY SHEATS

Attorney Brands City Proposal 'Unwarranted' But Foresees Agreement.

Terming the county's proposal for sharing the upkeep of the metropolitan sewer system "a fair one," Earlold Sheats, assistant county attorney, speaking for the commissioners, yesterday declared if the board surrendered to unwarranted demands of the city of Atlanta they would be forced to supply sewerage equipment for other municipalities in its jurisdiction.

He was replying to the report of the city committee on sewerage which was submitted Wednesday and spoke of the county proposal as "nebulous and inadequate."

The county will not accept the proposals of the city committee, Sheats said, and the settlement of the year-old controversy is no nearer than it was at its start.

"The city's proposals are not acceptable for two reasons," Sheats said. "First, the percentage demand of the county by the city is based upon rural population, three-fourths of which can never use the sewer system, and, second, the cost of maintaining the sewer system estimated by the city at $600,000 includes some $250,000 interest and sinking fund requirements necessary to retire indebtedness incurred by the city in the past."

County Contention.
The county has repeatedly insisted that it agreed to pay and is paying $1,350,000 toward the completion of the sewer system and is actually paying out that money day by day in cash, labor and material. It contends that if the city had paid cash there would be no indebtedness to ask the county to pay.

City and county engineers have constantly disagreed over what constitutes the cost of operation of the sewer system. The city includes catch basins, office overhead and similar items, while the county engineers contend the plants could actually be operated on a much more economical basis than the city contemplates.

The county has expressed itself as willing to pay approximately $25,000 annually to upkeep of the system while the city insists that it pay approximately $75,000.

Sees Solution.
"If the city will clothe some committee or group of officials with authority to act in the matter, or will arrange a meeting of the city government for the purpose of discussing the matter," Sheats continued, "the controversy can be reached without difficulty. However, failure to reach an agreement will mean the county will discontinue all assistance on the sewer system. This is not a threat but will be the ultimate result of a failure to reach a satisfactory working agreement."

Sheats further pointed out the different projects of the city to which the county contributes, including the offer to bear one-half of the cost of the North Avenue underpass and the John A. White park.

FINES TOTALLING $400 IMPOSED ON SPEEDER

Children's Lives Imperiled
As County Police Chase Suspect Car.

Fines totalling nearly $400 were imposed yesterday afternoon upon a man listed as Guy (Sheet) Dixon, 23, of a Washington street address, following his arraignment before Recorder John L. Cone.

The hearing was the aftermath of a wild chase at about 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, in which the car allegedly driven by Dixon was pursued by Fulton county police for several miles, past school zones and busy intersections.

Patrolman Charles Preston testified the car was driven through the Clark Howell school zone at 70 miles an hour, and Patrolman W. C. Patrick told the court the car went through the Calhoun school zone three times, at speeds between 60 and 70 miles an hour.

The pursuit began on Pratt street when Patrolmen W. J. Anderson, S. D. Vaughn and Cal Cates, of the Fulton county police, jumped Dixon's alleged bug car, which ran past stop signs, street cars and which skidded completely around several times.

As the speeding car passed one intersection, police said, the driver leaned out and waved a hand at his pursuers. He was arrested early yesterday morning, sitting in the car on Decatur street, near Piedmont avenue.

He was fined $54 for passing stop signs; $52 for running through school zones and passing street cars on the left; $100 for reckless driving and speeding, and $27 for blowing a siren.

U. S. NAVY IS PLANNING TO BUILD UP RESERVE

5,000 Officers and 35,000 Men Will Be Trained Under Proposal.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP)—The navy disclosed today it is preparing to train 5,000 officers and 35,000 men of the merchant marine for war-time duty on naval auxiliary vessels. Officials said that the training would be inaugurated this summer if congress approves a pending appropriation for it.

Captain W. P. Spears, of the navy's reserve training section, said the contemplated activity would build up, for the first time, a force of officers and men serving on merchant ships who would be qualified for naval reserve duty in any emergency.

"During the World War," he explained, "the navy was practically demobilized in order to provide trained crews to operate merchant vessels. Our one-time merchant marine, what there was of it, was untrained and undisciplined."

In case it should become necessary to mobilize the navy in the near future we would be caught in practically the same condition we were in the World War."

No merchant marine officers or men now receive active naval training, although 800 officers have taken correspondence courses in navy tactics and practice.

The 1936 merchant marine act, Spears said, makes it mandatory for all licensed officers of the merchant marine serving on vessels which receive a federal operating subsidiary to be members of the naval reserve.

Last year's earnings were equal to 47 cents a common share, compared with 22 cents in the preceding year.

Ewing Capture Caused by Story Seabrook Wrote

Forrest Ewing can trace his capture to a detective story written recently by Captain Ben W. Seabrook, of the Atlanta police identification bureau.

Seabrook was asked to write a story about the criminal he considered "Georgia's most wanted man." After much deliberation, the captain chose the story of Ewing for his first literary effort. It was published in a nationally circulated detective magazine.

Detroit police, who captured the noted Georgia escape artist, wired Seabrook yesterday they had identified the criminal through pictures and facts contained in his story.

Ewing has been identified as one of the three men who held up a pay roll messenger of The Constitution in the downtown section recently and escaped. That was the same day the magazine containing the captain's story appeared on the streets.

The holdup man's last escape was from the Spalding county chain gang where he was serving a 12-to-15-year sentence for robbery.

accused of the assault of Mrs. Price and Ruby Bates. Out-of-state agencies have been instrumental in the negroes' defense.

Patterson has been sentenced four times. Three times he was condemned to the electric chair. Twice the United States supreme court reversed the verdict and one death sentence was set aside by the trial judge.

In its first action sending the case back to Alabama, the supreme court held the negroes were not provided adequate defense.

The second supreme court decision reversing Patterson's sentence had a far-reaching effect on Alabama's jury system—resulting in placing of negroes on jury rolls. The high tribunal upheld a defense contention that negroes were "systematically excluded" from the grand jury and petty juries which had handled the case.

A negro served on the next grand jury that indicted Patterson and other defendants in Scottsboro. The case was tried in Decatur (Morgan county) on a change of venue granted years earlier.

COURT DELAYS ACTION ON SCOTTSBORO CASE

Appeal Hearing Date Is Reset for 19th of April.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 25.—(AP)—On the sixth anniversary of the beginning of the internationally known "Scottsboro" attack cases, the supreme court of Alabama today delayed action on the appeal of Heywood Patterson, one of the nine negro defendants.

The appeal hearing was reset for the week of April 19.

Patterson appealed from a 75-year imprisonment sentence imposed by a Morgan county jury that found him guilty of attacking Mrs. Victoria Price. Today's delay was the second in his appeal. It came on defense counsel motion, agreed to by Attorney General A. A. Carmichael.

The cases have lingered in the courts since March 25, 1931, the day the nine negroes were taken from a freight train at Paint Rock, Ala., and accused of the assault of Mrs. Price and Ruby Bates. Out-of-state agencies have been instrumental in the negroes' defense.

Fulton and DeKalb county commissioners yesterday pledged active participation in The Atlanta Constitution's $7,500 Progressive Government Awards at a meeting of the fifth district Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs held at Hapeville. Principals at the convention are shown in the above picture. Left to right, front row, are Mrs. John N. Evans, president of the district federation; Dr. Cullen B. Gosnell, professor of political science at Emory University, principal speaker; and Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens, general federation director. Back row, left to right, are Ed L. Almand, Fulton county commissioner; Commissioner Charles A. Matthews, of DeKalb, and George F. Longino, of Fulton.

ly, but Mrs. Chester Martin, vice president, acted for her.

The entire program at the luncheon, served at the Methodist church, revolved about the awards program. Speakers explained the awards, and Dr. Cullen B. Gosnell, professor of political science at Emory University, lauded the program and outlined for the benefit of the assemblage what he termed an ideal eight-point program from the viewpoint of the state at large.

Announcement of the entrance of Fulton and DeKalb counties gives the fifth Georgia congressional district the distinction of being the first district to enlist 100 per cent in the awards program.

In endorsing the awards, the fifth district organization followed the lead set by the executive board of the state federation which last week at Washington, Ga., "We are going to win," Commissioner Matthews, of DeKalb, told the women. "We already have won because we have the best county in Georgia, but we're going to win again. The Constitution can just lay aside that $3,500 for DeKalb county, and it is a pleasure to see him here. If I get in a tight I'm going to call on him to see that DeKalb wins."

"Fulton county is going to win that award," Commissioner Longino, who followed Commissioner Matthews, asserted. "Fulton county is doing a good job for its people and we propose to do an even better one."

Great Results Seen.

"Georgia is fortunate in having such a man as the executive head of a great paper as Major Clark Howell," Commissioner Almand declared. "He has shown that he has the interest of the people of Georgia at heart. These awards should be productive of great results."

"Fulton county has about 3,500 farmers, and the county is doing a fine piece of constructive work in behalf of that group in addition to the benefits it is providing for its urban population. We have established 4-H Clubs, canning plants, provided two terracing outfits to combat erosion and provided $4,150 for the purchase of breeding stock. There are 331,000 mules in Georgia and 21,000 horses. It takes about 24,000 mules a year to replace the ones now in use. It seems to me that Georgia should breed its own stock and not be forced to go into adjoining states to meet its demands."

Dr. Gosnell explained that the eight-point program which he suggested was culled from the answers his students at Emory had made to the question:

Program Listed.

1. Provide county-wide library facilities.
2. Improve health services.
3. Clean up Georgia jails.
4. Eliminate or improve tenant farming.
5. Encourage diversification of farming and thus depend less on cotton.
6. Form study groups or forums giving special attention to adults.
7. Establish a scientific system of conservation of soil and a planning commission.
8. Conserve the humanity of Georgia.

Resolution Adopted.

The resolutions adopted by unanimous vote of the federation were presented by Mrs. H. G. Hastings, chairman of the resolutions committee, and bore the signatures of Mrs. Wellington Stevenson, chairman of the American citizenship committee; Mrs. E. Stewart, chairman of the department of welfare; Mrs. H. R. Adams, chairman of the community service group; Mrs. R. K. Rambo, Mrs. E. V. Car-

Mrs. Garner Reads
Headlines for News

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP) Mrs. John Nance Garner, wife of the vice president, said today that she is a "headline-only" reader with an aversion for stories about wild love affairs.

"I prefer to get the news from conversations with the men," she said. "Detailed stories of tragedies, wild love affairs and war are enough to throw anybody into a fit of depression. I'm happier if I just read the headlines."

ter and Mrs. Kate Green Hens, parliamentarian.

They follow:

"Whereas, The Atlanta Constitution's Progressive Government Awards for 1937 is calculated to stimulate improvement in county government, and 'Whereas, the counties of the fifth congressional district occupy an important place in the state both geographically and in the influence they exert in the shaping of government policies, and 'Whereas, Federated clubwomen of the fifth district are ever alert to the opportunities offered the citizens of the state, therefore

"Be it resolved, that the fifth district of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs in session assembled, March 25, 1937, endorse The Constitution's Progressive Government Awards, and urge the officials and citizens of the counties of the fifth district to organize for the purpose of contending for, and meriting, one of said awards, and

"Be it further resolved, that we, the clubs and citizens of the several counties in the fifth district, pledge ourselves to aid, in every way practical, such organization for the betterment of county government, that may be organized in our respective counties."

27 STATES OPPOSING
ROOSEVELT COURT PLAN

elects with 59 per cent of the major party vote. In 1936 he was re-elected with 62 per cent. Today his support on the supreme court plan drops below the 50-50 line.

Translated into millions of votes and using the 1936 election as a model, Roosevelt's supreme court plan has about 21,000,000 votes today against 24,000,000 opposition votes. In the election last November the President received about 28,000,000 to 17,000,000 for Governor Landon.

For explanation of this shift one must look to the Democrats. The institute poll shows that in every state a contingent of them have taken sides with the Republicans. There is no exception to this. Even in states like South Carolina and Mississippi, where the President was almost unopposed last November, there is Democratic opposition to the White House plan today.

This is emphasized by an official text of public opinion recently made in Georgia. In the three counties of Mitchell, Randolph and Seminole almost three times as many ballots have been cast for the court plan as were cast against Roosevelt when he was a candidate last November. The official vote gives Roosevelt's plan a 6-to-1 majority in the three counties, though there have been approximately 500 votes against the plan as compared with 180 votes for Landon in these counties in November.

On the average, out of every 100 Democrats last November just 70 favored the court plan. Today the plan is the court while 30 oppose it. This reduces the President's customary popular majorities all through the south, even though most of these states are numbered among the 20 which favor the plan.

Other states where the President's plan wins are California, Washington, New Jersey, West Virginia and most of the Rocky Mountain states. All the New England and Middle West states, on the other hand, vote against the President's proposed court changes. Against him, too, are most of the eastern industrial states, including New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and Illinois.

PUBLIC ATTITUDE ON COURT.

In about half the states one or both houses of the state legislature have passed official resolutions favoring or condemning the White House plan. The Texas senate was among the first to pass such a resolution. It condemned. The lower house took no sides, going on record as neither for nor against the plan.

Some of the states where both houses voted against the plan include Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts, Kansas and South Dakota. In eight states—Indiana, Michigan, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and West Virginia—both chambers have approved. In several other states there have been divided resolutions.

But these do not complete the picture of public opinion. Another institute poll, conducted nationally this month, helps. This poll asked, "Do you think some kind of change is necessary regarding the supreme court?" This question was of course quite different from a test on Roosevelt's specific proposal. Through out the country a majority indicated that "some change" is desired, although no choice was made among the many plans available. The vote was 59 per cent to 41 per cent.

Two other areas of opinion have been reported by other organizations. The American Bar Association polled its membership of 29,000 on the full text of Roosevelt's plan, including his suggestions for lower federal courts. This test resulted in a vote of about 6 to 1 against the President's changes.

The other test was a newspaper coupon poll sponsored by the N. E. A. service and conducted among readers of certain newspapers in 42 states. This poll, which was intended to give newspaper readers two to one against the plan.

Split in Public Opinion.

With public opinion divided like two teams at tug-of-war, congress will be under terrific pressure. At present all eyes point to Roosevelt's victory in the house of representatives but to a bitter fight to the finish in the senate where the opposition—although outnumbered—have the powerful weapon of the filibuster. By continuously holding the floor even a few senators can stall the legislative machinery of the upper house until their demands are met or until a compromise is arranged.

Filibuster or compromise or both may be in the offing for Roosevelt's plan, therefore, as about 24 Democratic senators—in addition to the little battalion of 16 Republicans who make up their party in the senate—are reported against the plan at the present time.

The institute finds that in the country at large Republican voters are almost as unanimously against the White House plan as their bloc of senators in Washington. Nevertheless, a small group of Landon voters, mainly from the west, takes sides with the Nation's Reaction to President's Court Plan

Public opinion favors the President's plan in 20 states, opposes it in 27 states and is evenly divided in one state. The probable lineup of senators shows 42 for the President's plan, 40 against it and 14 noncommittal. Slightly more than half the state legislatures have passed resolutions on the question.

Dies at Daughter's Home

President on the issue. This is the way opinion within party ranks divides:

Plan	Plan
Republican Voters 8%	92%
Democratic Voters 70%	30%

Figures already reported show an important split between farmers and city people, between the upper professional levels and organized labor.

In the voting to date American farmers are 58 per cent against changing the court, while city voters average 52 per cent against the change. In a special poll of lawyers last month the institute found the heaviest opposition. Representatives of the 105,000 lawyers throughout the country—not merely the upper crust members of the bar associations—averaged 4 to 1 against the plan.

At the other extreme, persons on relief averaged 73 per cent in favor of Roosevelt's proposal.

Meanwhile public opinion is under new influences as it digests the President's radio speeches by the President and a deluge of evidence and testimony before the senate judiciary committee, including a letter from Chief Justice Brandeis bearing the indorsement of Justice Brandeis and Justice Van Devanter as well.

Under these influences which way will public opinion trend? The institute of Public Opinion is now conducting a new nation-wide poll to answer that question. First return will be published Sunday in The Constitution.

MAJOR APPOINTMENTS

Charles Elliott, prominent young Augustan, to be the director of the newly created division of parks, battle sites and historic monuments of the state department of natural resources.

He also sent to the senate the nomination of Frank Heyward, newly appointed state forester. Heyward was sworn into office earlier in the week. Governor Rivers also sent to the senate the appointment of Marion Smith, of Atlanta, chairman of the regent, who was named on the day of his inauguration, January 12.

In addition to Chairman Maddox the Governor announced the following additional members of the board of health:

Dr. R. C. Ellis to be the third congressional district member. Dr. J. G. Williams, of Atlanta, to be a state-at-large member, and Dr. W. T. Edmunds, of Augusta, to be a state-at-large member.

Others Sent to Senate.

The appointment of Manning Yeomans, recently renamed state entomologist, also was sent to the senate as was that of Judge J. B. Jones, of Gainesville, chairman of the revenue commission, and Arlie D. Tucker, of Nashville, announced the following additional members of the board of health:

Governor Rivers also announced that he had accepted the resignation of R. S. Elrod as a member of the state industrial relations committee and that he had appointed Harry Monroe, well-known Atlanta railway labor employee, to the post. Elrod also is a railroad man.

Other appointments announced by the Governor included:

W. D. Turt, of Elberton, to be judge of the city court of Elberton and Peyton S. Hawes to be solicitor of the same court.

Zack Arnold, of Fort Gaines, to be judge of the city court of Fort Gaines and Patrick C. King to be solicitor of the same court.

W. W. Armistead, of Lexington, to be judge of the city court of Lexington.

Plans 'Break.'

VATICAN CITY, March 25.—(UP)—German diplomats today "boycotted" Holy Thursday mass in Sixtine Chapel, giving rise to reports that Adolf Hitler's government may break off diplomatic relations with the Vatican.

The entire German delegation to the Holy See refused to attend the mass, regularly attended by all foreign statesmen accredited to the Vatican, and it was reported that the Nazi representatives acted on instructions from Berlin.

It was reported that the Germans also would boycott the Easter mass, at which Pope Pius XI will make his first public appearance since he was forced to bed by illness early in December.

The pontiff in a papal letter read from the pulpits of all Catholic churches last Sunday, charged the Nazi government with persecuting the church and with violation of its 1933 concordat with the Holy See.

Two per cent on the second $5,000.
Three per cent on the third $5,000.
Four per cent on the fourth $5,000.
Five per cent on all over $20,000.
Corporation taxes—4 per cent.
The new bill applies to 1937 incomes on which taxes are payable in 1938.

THE WAY TO BUILD GEORGIA

Editor Constitution: I want to thank you for the editorial in the March 22 issue of your paper, "A Live-at-Home Forum."

Plenty of milk and vegetables raised by every family in the counties of Georgia will go a long way toward building our state up from the low position it occupies in the list of states when rated on wealth per capita.

Let me also express again my appreciation of your generous offer of rewards for the Georgia counties who will show the greatest improvement this year.

PRaises School

Editor Constitution: Please permit me to commend you and your splendid paper for the recognition you have given on many recent occasions to education in this state.

Your editorial, "For Better Schools," is certainly on a timely topic. Under the new appropriation bill we will have a new day for education in our state. Keep up the good work.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO PRESIDENT'S MOTHER
Editor Constitution: One fortunate enough to have read the life story of Sara Delano Roosevelt, will know that the time to start a child's education is a hundred years before it is born. For 200 years the main assets of the Delano and Roosevelt families were thrift, character and Christianity.

Sara Delano as a child was married to James Roosevelt, at 40—60 and 82 years old, is still beautiful in person and character. In her beautiful character can be read the background of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, statesman, a past master in the study of economics, a philanthropist, and as the thirty-second President of the United States—the greatest of all great Americans.

NEW APPEAL GROUNDS SEEN FOR ROBERT LEE
Possible grounds for an extraordinary motion for a new trial on behalf of Robert E. S. Lee were seen yesterday in the announcement of Lee's attorney, James R. Venable, that B. R. Bradley, president of the defunct American Bond and Share Corporation, was assuming sole blame for the collapse of the company.

Lee has now before the United States court of appeals an appeal from his conviction here on charges of using the mails to defraud and hinted recently he was contemplating a continued fight for freedom in the event his appeal was denied. An extraordinary motion for a new trial could be filed on the grounds of newly discovered evidence, and government officials saw in the statement of Venable the groundwork for such an appeal, they said yesterday.

Invisible Glass Windows at Maier & Berkele Draw Crowds of Amazed Atlantans All Week

H. A. Maier Sr. Solves Mystery—Explains Why New Window Glass Cannot Be Seen From the Street.

Have you seen the crowds of people around Maier & Berkele's windows? Maybe you went up to see what all the excitement was and saw—no visible window glass!

Hundreds of Atlantans have reached out to touch the merchandise in Maier & Berkele's windows, and found to their amazement that glass was actually there.

Invisible glass is one of the newest and most sensational discoveries of the commercial world. Maier & Berkele is the only place in Atlanta where you can see this glass in use.

Completely abolishing all street and outside reflections, Maier & Berkele's invisible glass cannot be seen. The window seems to be open to the outside, and the contents appear sharply vivid and unprotected.

So many people wanted to know what caused this phenomenon that Mr. H. A. Maier Sr., president of Maier & Berkele, explained: "Invisible glass in itself is not invisible. Here's how it works. Every ray of light coming to the eye through or from the window comes directly from the merchandise. The glass is invisible because every reflection, ordinarily returned to the eye from an outside source by polished plate glass, is scientifically eliminated. The glass surface is curved, or bent, and concentrates these reflections into absorbent black material away from the view—and without reflections a perfect piece of glass cannot be seen.

"Maier & Berkele's invisible glass windows," Mr. Maier continued, "present a concave surface to the passer-by. This surface is designed by a complicated formula, so that no reflection from it reaches the eye range. It is no longer possible to see in the window reflections from the street, or from people passing by. Only by intense strain, or by careful location of a microscopic piece of dust on the window surface can a person be aware of the presence of glass in Maier & Berkele's windows."

These windows were installed in time for the Golden Jubilee now being held at Maier & Berkele. This event celebrates the store's fiftieth birthday under Mr. H. A. Maier Sr.'s direction. The windows will remain permanently at Maier & Berkele.

T. BARTON BAIRD GETS KENTUCKY PHONE POST

Official Promoted to State Manager There; Garner Is Successor Here.

T. Barton Baird, Georgia manager of the Southern Bell Telephone Company for several years, has been promoted to Kentucky manager and will be succeeded here by G. D. Garner, present Georgia traffic superintendent, it was announced yesterday.

Baird will succeed L. K. Webb as manager of the Kentucky area, effective April 1.

In other changes brought about by Baird's promotion, S. M. Briggs, general toll traffic supervisor, will become Georgia traffic superintendent in Garner's place, and C. C. Sloan, district traffic manager at Memphis, Tenn., will come to Atlanta to succeed Briggs.

J. F. Carreker, of the general traffic staff, will become district traffic manager at Memphis.

Baird is a veteran official of the telephone company, having first become associated with the organization in 1902 in Jackson, La. His first position with the company was as night operator.

His climb was steady. He soon transferred to the construction department and in 1912 was put in charge of the New Orleans district. He became district manager in Birmingham in 1923 and Alabama manager in 1930. Baird came to Atlanta in 1933 to accept the position of Georgia manager.

Garner, the new Georgia manager, became connected with the telephone company in 1911 and was division traffic supervisor in Nashville, Tenn., when he came to Atlanta in 1934 to become traffic superintendent of the state.

Baird, who had served as a member and chairman of the Fulton public welfare board, had many civic interests during his residence here.

He had been also chairman of the Better Business Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, the board of directors of the Georgia Manufacturers' Association, the advisory board of the Salvation Army, and of the board of directors of the Georgia Telephone Association, of which he had been vice president.

Atlanta's response to the "Fight Cancer Week" drive is most gratifying, according to field workers directing the campaign for funds to aid in the fight against the disease.

The campaign is now in its last two days, only today and tomorrow remaining before the state-wide movement will close and women workers will launch a final drive to oversubscribe the quota set for this district.

Twenty-four booths have been placed in various sections of the city. The Federation of Women's Clubs in Atlanta is directing the local drive for the American Society for Cancer Control. Mrs. H. C. Ritchie, of Athens, is state commander.

There are still about 234,000 grade crossings, where train track and highway cross, in the United States.

Mama Martha Lion Just Growsl And Refuses To Tell About Cubs

Boys or Girls? . . . She Seems to Think It's Nobody's Business But Her's as School Boys and Girls Wait Chance to Win Lion-Naming Prizes.

By THE LION EDITOR.

School children who thought a bulldog or a billy goat was the most obstinate creature in the world have learned differently by now.

By far the most headstrong display of determination is being made by Mama Martha Lion, out at Grant Park zoo, where the jungle queen is guarding the secret as to whether her cubs are boys or girls.

It's just a matter of waiting until Martha gets ready to tell her secret, according to Uncle Matt Leonard, veteran head keeper at the zoo.

Meanwhile, school children of public and private schools in Atlanta and Fulton county continue to send in their list of names for the cubs as entries in The Constitution's Lion-Naming contest and a lot of good names are coming in every day.

But there are a lot of clever, cute and unusual names that haven't been sent in yet—and that is the kind which will run off with those cash prizes being offered by The Constitution.

Besides having the honor of giving the lion cubs the names they will be called by the rest of their lives, the champion student lion namer will receive the first prize of $10. Second prize in The Constitution's Lion-Naming contest is $5 and the third prize is $2.50.

That prize money would come in mighty handy, wouldn't it? Well, it's all a matter of sitting down and thinking up names that are unusual and that apply to the lion cubs in some way. If you wish to send in your list of names without waiting until Mama Martha divulges the sex of her children, just do what many other school children already have done and send in four names for boys and four names for girls. The judges will start at the top of each list when considering the entries.

But remember to send in a short essay of 50 or 60 words with your list of names, telling why you chose the names and why the cubs should be called by them.

The closing date of the contest has been postponed until several days after Martha discloses her secret. The lion editor will let you know how many boy cubs and how many girl cubs there are in the litter just as soon as he and Uncle Matt can talk Martha into telling us all about it.

When the closing date arrives—whenever that may be—your entries will be turned over to the judges, who are George I. Simons, manager of Atlanta parks; Councilman Cecil W. Hester, chairman of the parks committee; and Joe Gregg, secretary to Mayor Hartsfield.

They will select the names they think best and champion lion namers of Atlanta and Fulton county, and Decatur and DeKalb county will be awarded the cash prizes for the fun they have had in competing in the contest.

to Atlanta. He was represented in court by John H. Hudson, former assistant solicitor, and Carl F. Hutchenson.

FASCIST AIR RAIDERS ARE FORCED TO FLEE BY MADRID'S BIG GUNS

Big Projectiles Hurling Into Capital During Morning Cannonading.

MADRID, March 25.—(AP)—Madrid's anti-aircraft batteries pumped scores of shells into the sky late today to repulse three insurgent air raiders.

They had no time to drop bombs to add to the heavy toll in long hours of land and air bombardment of the besieged city earlier in the day.

Big projectiles fell into the capital's business section and outlying areas during the long morning cannonading. Government officials said the number killed was "less than expected."

Government officers declared some 30,000 to 40,000 Italians formed the bulk of the insurgent army which they declared was routed by General Jose Miaja's government troops last Friday. The insurgents' resistance tightened when Spanish soldiers were brought up to relieve the Italians, the officers said.

ITALIAN SAILORS SACK SPANISH PAPER

REDS' HEAVY GUNS BLAST AT FASCISTS

WITH THE GOVERNMENT TROOPS IN UPPER GUADALAJARA, Spain, March 25.—(AP)—Heavy artillery blasted at insurgent troops at San Cristobal Hill today as infantrymen, led by tanks and joined by a bombing squadron fought bitterly to drive the enemy from their strongly fortified positions.

The government's big guns blazed all day in the furious attack to capture the hill, guarding roads to Zaragoza and Sigüenza in the upper Guadalupe region north of Madrid.

MURPHY IS PLEASED WITH AUTO CONFERENCE

ably adjourned until Tuesday, when Chrysler and Lewis will return to Lansing.

The governor, talking with newspapermen, said "there is nothing further scheduled tonight. Get my emphasis on the word scheduled, please." Asked if there was a possibility of developments in the Chrysler or other labor disputes, he answered: "If there is anything, it will be on this strike."

Belief that settlements of other automotive disputes are close soon after a Chrysler agreement is reached was expressed by Murphy before the conference. He said:

"When the Chrysler strike is settled, the most serious of the industrial conflicts will be behind us. There are others in other disputes will follow rapidly with similar agreements. Some parties to other controversies have been in communication with me today. They include the Hudson Motor Car Company and the Reo Motor Car Company."

A sit-down strike still in progress at Hudson's Detroit factory has left 10,000 idle, while Reo's Lansing plant employing 2,200 is closed by a similar strike.

Martin, arriving for tonight's conference, said, "the strike is still on despite the fact that the workers have evacuated. The strike is the only way has been paved to an amicable settlement."

Troopers in Charge. Uniformed state troopers took over the control of factory gates at the Chrysler plants, which since March 8 had been barricaded by trucks and new automobiles parked against them on the inside.

Free access for office workers, company executives and maintenance men was assured. The Chrysler plant union officials said today picket lines would be established at the plants. The Governor tonight said his understanding of last night's agreement was that no pickets would be stationed. He said the state police have been instructed to co-operate with the union and that each plant will be a union committee to discuss any grievances that may arise.

Chrysler and Lewis came to Lansing yesterday at Murphy's invitation to seek a "prompt, satisfactory" solution to the strike deadlock. The U. A. W. A., which claims 50,000 members in Chrysler plants, took possession of the factories March 8 after their exclusive bargaining demands were refused.

Two conferences yesterday with Murphy and James F. Dwyer, federal Labor Department conciliator, produced the agreement to evacuate the plants without a company concession on the issue of sole recognition.

Murphy said the agreement pledged both sides to "see the collective bargaining controversy through to a finish."

STRIKERS EVACUATE 8 CHRYSLER PLANTS. DETROIT, March 25.—(AP)—With banners whipping in a snow-laden wind, sit-down strikers marched from eight Chrysler Corporation plants here this afternoon and delivered the keys to state police troopers.

By ending their self-imposed siege in its 18th day, they fulfilled their part of a truce arranged at Lansing between Walter P. Chrysler and John L. Lewis for evacuation of the captive plants as a prerequisite to further negotiations of strike differences.

Not until high officials of the United Automobile Workers of America literally had talked themselves hoarse did the strikers agree to leave the plants without a company concession on the issue of sole recognition.

Summer Underwear Is Styled for the Season

Special Lightweight Fabrics, Open-Weave and "Air-Conditioned" Make Smartness Cool—Knitted Shorts Are Good.

By ROBERT FAIRCHILD

Editor Men's Fashions

"Of comfort no man speaks," said Richard II, harried by his foes, deserted by his friends, chafed by his underwear. Nor can we help but compare the summer underwear of today with that of only a few decades ago, not to go back as far as Richard's time.

The modern man's underwear is comfortable all the year round, but that is because the modern man knows that for summer he needs specifically summer underwear. The shirts-and-shorts, or union suits, he wears for spring, fall and winter will not do. Warmer temperatures require lighter weights, specially treated and specially woven or knitted fabrics. Style, too, has its mandates specially for summer—but the chief one is: Be cool!

Lightness at A Maximum

There are several ways in which the woven fabrics used in summer underwear have been made cool. First of all, of course, they are light in weight—about as light as they can possibly be without sacrificing durability and tensile strength. Then, some of them are woven in drop-effect, in open weaves, in drop-effect patterns, so that the openness of the cloth permits easy entry and egress of cool air.

There is also the process known as "air conditioning" the cloth, in which a regulation piece of lightweight fabric is so treated that the superfluous lint obstructing the "pores" of the

Amelia, Full of Confidence, Plans For Continuing World Test Flight

By AMELIA EARHART.

(Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution.)

BURBANK, Cal., March 25.—This morning I completed my fourth voyage between Hawaii and the mainland—two by air and two by boat. This last return by the steamer Malolo, was not my intention when I embarked. However, the weather was so bad that I had to land and had plans of mine and pilots go awry and very very much have gone.

The accident which ended the present flight was a high price to pay. But already in retrospect it seems as if the knowledge gained on the way was almost worth the cost. I mean in such things as better arrangements of navigation facilities and radio, exact reactions of the plane under heavy load conditions at various altitudes and its superb performance in taking off. And above all, a continuity of faith in the equipment on the part of the pilot.

Confidence Unshaken.

"Has the accident shaken your confidence?" That has been asked me several times today. The answer is very clear in my mind. Nothing has happened to change my attitude toward the original project. Instead, I feel better about the ship itself than I ever have. And I am more eager than ever to fly it again. In pioneer flying, one has to take the rough with the smooth. The accident was just "one of those things."

It might have been so much worse that I'm really very thankful. The plane behaved very beautifully. Its performance in every way was all that could be asked. Out of this experience, if any one has cause to lament it is the Electra itself. For I put burdens upon her which in normal flying she was not built to bear. She carried a heavy overload. As a matter of fact, very few times since we started our partnership have I flown her without one. Come to think of it, most of my flying for some years has been with overloaded planes seeking distance performance, so that the problems—and the risks—of this phase of the flight were not unfamiliar to me.

As to loads, the performance data show that hereafter I need not take quite so much gasoline on these long Pacific hops. This, coupled with a smaller crew, means fewer pounds to carry.

Not until the crippled plane is brought back to the Lockheed plant here at Burbank will I know the true extent of her injuries or the time required to cure them. And, alas, the costs. Unfortunately the latter must play a very important part in any plans for the future.

If all goes well, I hope the plane may be recommissioned in from 30 to 60 days. Then, if I feel as I now do, I'll essay my third crossing to Honolulu.

Speed Not Object.

"I've been with interest that this time I'm to try for a speed record. That is not correct. The course chosen cloth—the interstices between threads—is blown away. This process, only recently perfected, is now being applied to a wide variety of cloths, both patterned and solid-color.

Knitted fabrics, too, have been stepped up to a high point in cool efficiency. Knitted rayons, acetates and other synthetic yarns, for instance, are more popular, these man-made fabrics lending themselves readily to lightweight treatments. The support-er-type of short, which skyrocketed to such a peak of popularity a few years back, has been improved and maintains its high standing. It may be either with or without legs. Many have built-in supporters, others being so constructed as to combine this feature in the garment itself. Incidentally, an innovation in knitted knits is the use of printed and knitted patterns, besides the plain white and solid colors.

Dusty Tones Are Popular

Paler shades prevail in shorts generally. The dusty shades popular for spring in both shirts and shorts carry on for summer, in both solid colors and patterns. This is in the woven type of fabric. Shirting patterns are popular, too, lending style to the underwear field.

A distinction should be made between shirting patterns used in underwear, and underwear fabrics of the shirting type—broadoths, chambrays, etc., but styled especially for underwear—viz., in bolder stripes and checks than one would venture to approve of in a shirt. The latter is permissible and in good taste when worn as underwear.

is not for speed. I intend to follow my original leisurely plan as nearly as possible. However, the weather conditions at the postponed date may require some deviations in that route.

Looking back, I realize what a remarkably pleasant passage was the 16-hour hop from Oakland to Honolulu. And that despite not very favorable weather conditions.

Fred Noonan's navigation proved all one could expect. Throughout the night the stars told him (via his bubble sextant) where we were, while Harry Manning worked the radio. At one point Fred told me to drop the point from the clouds and steer a certain course, when within a couple of hundred miles of Hawaii.

"Keep the Makapuu beacon 10 degrees from the starboard bow," he ordered.

What he meant was that I should tune my Bendix radio direction finder to indicate the location of the beacon, then head the plane as directed.

Device Worked Well.

This is the first time I've used this recently developed instrument. On this Pacific hop it was one of the most interesting and valuable on board, and performed perfectly. I doubt if I'd try the flight to tiny Howland Island without it. It's a piece of equipment that, if it's not to be used, is a waste of money. By the way, Fred is definitely "signed up" to accompany me on the next takeoff, there'll be only two of us when we start again. Mrs. E. Manning is obliged to return to his command on the Atlantic, and Paul Mantz has had his Honolulu ride.

A silver lining to the present cloud is the fact that now for a time I shall not have to write any more accounts for The Constitution. Hard as my report has been on the trip, I doubt if they can know what a chore reporting or trying to report can be to one whose other job includes trying to head an airplane over a perfect equator. A little later, when the flight is resumed, I hope to do a better job, reporter-wise as well as pilot-wise.

LEGISLATURE PASSES 70 LOCAL MEASURES

money it collects for the state on special and occupational taxes.

Other local legislation completed in the general assembly and either signed or awaiting signature of the Governor, included:

Provision for the state highway department to participate in the opening of Broad street through to Whitehall.

Power to the county to regulate traffic outside of incorporated limits.

Zoning Authority.

Authority to the county to zone districts and also to issue building permits and to employ a building inspector.

A law to require candidates for the county commission to designate the opponents prior to this candidates for any position, high vote-getters being elected.

Authority for the county to enact a milk code, and also provisions for extension of the health department.

A law fixing the salaries of municipal court judges at the pay they

Barmains Barred At Bars If State Revokes Rum Bar

Georgia won't have any barmains in its liquor stores if it repeals its 22-year-old prohibition law. The state legislature, providing for a referendum on legalization of whiskey June 8, specifically stipulated no women may be employed around stores selling liquor if any are established.

The measure provides for sale of liquor in packages only of not less than one-half pint capacity in private, operated, licensed stores. If repealed, the referendum would be followed by county option elections on the liquor sale question.

There is no law in Georgia prohibiting women from working in places serving beer and wine.

are now receiving, the top salary now being $8,500 to the chief judge.

A law to allow the county to impose a sanitary and garbage assessment in areas, where sanitary service is given.

Authority for the county to buy lands in the county for the purpose of clearing alums.

Beer, Wine Regulation.

Power to the county to regulate beer and wine dealers and roadside operators.

Civil service for county school teachers, and other changes in the school code.

A constitutional amendment to allow the Georgia Power Company to substitute trackless trolleys for street cars (said by Helen Douglas Mankin, Fulton representative, to be acceptable only to the proposed change from Atlanta to College Park.)

Annulment of amendments to the charters of College Park and East Point.

City Bills.

Bills passed more particularly affecting the city of Atlanta include:

The financial program sponsored by Mayor Hartsfield, city officials and citizens, which is designed to pay the city out of debt and place it on a cash basis over a five-year period.

A city service bill for the Atlanta fire department, which placed the administration under the jurisdiction of the board of firemen.

A law to make voting in Atlanta and Fulton county absolutely secret by elimination of the number on the ballot, and also a provision adding another member to the city Democratic executive committee from each ward, doubling the present number of six.

Omnibus Bill Wins.

The general omnibus bill (not financial) which changed the procedure of the aldermanic board, eliminating the power of three aldermen to block a city appropriation, and to amend the city charter to include the mayor as ex-officio member of all council committees, to make six months' residence in Atlanta a requisite for admittance to the board of aldermen, to lengthen the term of present city recorders one year, and to provide for the election of the secretary engineer of the city planning commission by council for a three-year term.

A charter amendment to allow a city official to hold an honorary position with the state or federal government.

Several amendments to the pension laws of the fire and police departments and a general pension fund.

A bill to give the city employees died before reaching the floor of the legislature.

A number of other bills introduced by the Fulton representatives, William G. Hastings, Clemon Kendrick and Mrs. Mankin and Senator G. Everett Millican also received the approval of the general assembly during the session.

One such was a bill to abolish the present 12-man board of public welfare and to create a new five-man board, which in addition to direct relief will administer social security benefits.

Mrs. Mankin introduced the bill, already approved by the Governor, which provided for segregation of youthful and hardened criminals in Georgia's prison camps.

The bill, while state-wide, is of particular interest in Fulton county, where a number of successive grand juries and superior court judges urged this step as a means of decreasing ever-increasing crime.

Fulton's representatives also had important parts in passage of much legislation of general interest applicable throughout the state.

The city's constitutional amendments which received the final approval of the general assembly last night are specifically to allow the city of Atlanta to borrow half as much money as was collected in cash from ad valorem taxes during the previous year, to allow the city to refund its present $1,700,000 deficit with short term bonds (which is expected to materially strengthen the city's financial condition on the bond market), to allow refunding of approximately $700,000 worth of uncollected fl. as, at the end of each year, and to allow refunding of $2,000,000 worth of bonds in times of emergency.

ship appeared to be flying satisfactorily when he first sighted it.

Then he reported a wing dipped and the huge ship nosed down in a steep glide and crashed heavily.

Flight 15A was observed from the ground. The pilot was seen to be badly mangled. The pilot's leg was cut off and the co-pilot had been beheaded. He thought all had died instantaneously.

Coroner W. J. McGregory, of Allegheny county, personally took charge of an investigation, while at Washington the Bureau of Air Commerce of the commerce department said there would be an official "early investigation."

Made Regular Stop.

The aircraft left Newark at 3:25 p. m. and made its regular stop shortly afterwards at Camden airport.

Three persons were reported to have left the ship at Camden. Mrs. E. Fritz, Miss E. Fritz and Mr. H. Fritz.

The ship was seen in Pittsburgh at 6:25 and was about 20 minutes late at the time it crashed. There are reports it had circled the airport awaiting orders to alight.

In Chicago Jack Frey, president of T. W. A., said the ship, its major engine, was in perfect mechanical condition at the time it left on the flight, arrived over Pittsburgh airport on schedule.

Frey continued:

"There was a 2,400-foot ceiling and the flight approached for landing at an estimated altitude of 2,100 feet. Flight 15A was observed from a distance of three miles by A. N. Wilkins, pilot of flight six.

"When within five miles of the airport 15A was observed . . . to lose altitude and come into contact with the ground."

Frey said Pilot Rohne was an experienced aviator who had been employed by the company since 1926, 1928, and that First Officer

LEGISLATURE'S WORK LAUDED BY GOVERNOR

Spivey and Harris Given Presents By Senate and House at Final Session.

The work of the general assembly was highly praised by Governor Rivers last night in his final message of the session. A letter from the chief executive was read to both houses shortly before adjournment.

Governor and Mrs. Rivers entered the hall of the house shortly before the letter was read and their arrival was the signal for a warm demonstration on the part of members and visitors.

After the reading of the letter members of the house presented Speaker Roy Harris with a handsome set of silver, while the senate did the same for President John B. Spivey. Other gifts were given President Pro Tem. Joel Terrell, of the senate, and Secretary John W. Hammond, while the house honored Speaker Pro Tem. John Parker and Clerk Andrew J. Kingery.

Other presents were given attaches of both house and senate.

The Governor's letter to the assembly follows:

"The hour of your sing die adjournment is near at hand I wish to express to you my congratulations upon the wonderful accomplishments of this session. It will go down in history, in my judgment, as the greatest single session of the general assembly ever held in this great state. You have labored faithfully, nobly, patriotically and untiringly for the progress and prosperity of our people. Your humanitarian enactments will find fruition in a more abundant life for the masses of this state. You have given Georgia a 'New Deal'."

"It has been a pleasure to co-operate with you and work with you. I will, at your adjournment, devote upon the executive department of the government to administer the splendid laws you have enacted. I am just hoping and praying that the executive branch of the government will be able to administer these measures in a manner in which you have enacted them."

"Your record for harmony and accomplishment is etched in the hearts of every Georgian. I thank you for this final message in paying tribute to you. I love you and honor you and want you to ever feel free to give me the benefit of your advice and counsel and suggestions between sessions as well as when you are in session."

"I trust you will have a pleasant trip home and find your loved ones well and happy and your private affairs prosperous."

MAJOR BILLS PASSED AS LEGISLATURE ENDS

class. The committee reinvested in the exemptions depots and dairies dealing in ice cream and not in an exemption for depots handling malt beverages.

Heated Debates.

A heated debate over the conference committee's handling of the chain store tax bill broke out during the day in the senate.

Senator Sammon, of Lawrenceville, charged the senate conference was blocking an agreement on the measure. Millican, of Atlanta, one of the conferees, jumped up to deny the charge and said he had met with house conferees "three times so far."

Sammon insisted senate members of the committee "won't function."

Carmichael, of Cobb, criticized the senate for cutting tax rates on chain stores, incomes and buses and trucks. "If you want to find the obstructionists in this tax program go across the hall," he said.

Speaker Roy Harris told the house: "The Atlanta State Capitol Commission, the bus and truck boys and the chain store crowd" were lobbying on beer and other tax laws.

"We are at the point where we must make up our minds if we are to pass revenue measures or have a special session to place a tax on gross sales or gross receipts," Harris said.

Many Bills Passed.

A number of bills were passed in the two houses during the day.

The senate passed 39-0 a bill permitting the state Health Department to aid in cancer control work and appropriating $50,000 for that work. The senate cut the appropriation from $100,000 to $50,000.

A house bill placing in the hands of supreme court justices, rather than the governor, the appointment of emergency justices when a regular justice is disqualified, was passed by the senate.

The senate also approved a house bill to establish a board of examiners for engineers and surveyors.

The house bill for a co-operative rural electrification program with the federal government was passed by the senate, with minor amendments.

Another house bill passing the senate was one permitting cities to issue paper against revenue-producing public works projects.

Deciding Vote.

Senate President John Spivey cast the deciding vote to pass a constitutional amendment to increase the Board of Regents membership from 15 to 18.

The senate accepted house amendments to a bill giving county commissloners regulatory power over dance halls, boxing arenas and similar places.

The milk control bill, establishing APPROPRIATIONS BILL PROVIDING $88,000,000 OVER 2 YEARS, PASSES

Funds Made Available July 1 When Emergency Measure Expires.

The general assembly wrote into law last night a general appropriations act carrying $88,000,000 in direct and allocated appropriations to various departments for the next two fiscal years.

The current, emergency appropriations bill provides for operating budgets through June 30. The new bill makes appropriations for two fiscal years beginning July 1, 1937, and July 1, 1938.

The assembly gave a permanent status to appropriations by providing that the present law stand until it is amended or repealed.

Following are principal items in the bill:

Governor: Operating cost of office, maintenance of public buildings and Confederate cemeteries, $100,000; emergency fund, $100,000; air conditioning and repairing Governor's office, $33,000; repairing and maintenance to the Governor's mansion, $25,000 (1937-1938 only).

Secretary of state, $35,000.

Comptroller general, $150,000.

State Treasury:

State Treasury: For principal on public debt, $100,000 in addition to allocation fixed by law; for interest on public debt, $175,000; for operating cost of supreme court of appeals, $74,000; for operating cost of supreme court, $14,000; for legislature, 1937-38, $25,000; for legislature, 1938-39, $200,000; and for operating cost of treasury department, $30,000.

State geologist: For operating cost, $70,000; for cooperation with federal government toward revival of Sea Island cotton, $7,500.

Natural resources department: For operating cost, $3,150,000; for operating cost of $10,000 to be allocated for development of pulp and paper industry; for operating cost of mines and minerals department, $50,000; of which $15,000 to be allocated for stream gauging and water analysis in co-operation with federal government; for operating cost of state parks, $50,000.

State planning board: For operating cost, $15,000.

Prison Committee:

Prison committee: For operating costs and rewards, $40,000; for operating cost of prison farms, $125,000; for rents on purchase contract of Tattall prison, or to construct prison buildings on state's property in Tattall county, $100,000; for equipment for Tattall prison, $100,000; for purchasing 35 acres in county of state farm, Milledgeville, $100,000.

Public welfare department:

Public welfare department: For pensions, other than Confederate veterans (old age), $3,150,000; for state institutions, including $30,000 for cold storage plant at state hospital, $2,000,000; for operating cost and other activities (aid to blind and dependent children), $382,500.

Health department: Operating cost of tuberculosis sanatorium, $240,000; for operating cost of department, $600,000.

Education department: For common schools operating cost and all other expenses payable from common school funds, $9,256,000 for 1937-38; $9,637,000 for 1938-39.

Library commission: For operating cost, $10,000; for publications for traveling libraries in rural section, $7,500.

University of system regents: For operating cost, $1,750,000; for new buildings and equipment, $300,000, provided the amount for buildings shall be $400,000 for 1938-39; for experimental purposes in treatment and cultivation of shade and other types of tobacco, $20,000; for operating cost of state soil conservation committee, $10,000.

In addition, appropriations based on 97 per cent of allocated taxes were given the following departments for operation and administration of laws:

Secretary of state, state treasury, State Revenue Commission, Banking Department, Public Service Commission, Agricultural Department, Natural Resources Department, Naval Stores Supervising Inspector, Highway Department and Public Safety Commission.

The following departments received the full 100 per cent allocation allocated by other laws:

Comptroller general, state treasury, Labor Department, Public Welfare Department and Education Department.

THROWN FROM WAGON

BOY, 10, IS KILLED

FAIRBURN, Ga., March 25.—(P)—Eugene Hearn, 10, was killed late this afternoon when thrown from his horse as he was driving near his home, about four miles from Palmetto. The accident occurred when the mule ran away, the boy being thrown on his head. His neck was broken and his skull crushed.

Surviving the boy are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Hearn; one sister, Miss Mary Hearn; and four brothers, Harvey, Richard, Joseph and Allen Hearn.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at St. Francis church. Burial will be in the churchyard, Bishop & Poe, of Fairburn, in charge.

REDFERN SEEKERS DELAY DEPARTURE

Wife of Lost Airman to Accompany Expedition to South America.

NEW YORK, March 25.—(P)—Departure of an expedition from New York to search South American jungles for Paul Redfern, long-lost American aviator, was delayed for about a month today.

The expedition, organized by Theodore J. Waldeck, veteran explorer, and including Mrs. Gertrude Redfern, of Cleveland, the flyer's widow, was to have sailed today aboard the S. S. Narissa. It is now tentatively booked to sail on the same vessel April 22.

Waldeck has had 18 years of experience in African wild lands. A second woman, his wife, also is to accompany the expedition to South America.

Redfern disappeared on an attempted flight from Georgia to Rio de Janeiro several years ago. Many believe he is still alive, having landed among Indians 600 miles inland along the Brazilian-Guianan border.

MERIWETHER CITIZENS BACK COURT PROPOSAL

Committee To Present Resolutions to Roosevelt at Warm Springs.

GREENVILLE, Ga., March 25.—(P)—Approximately 200 of President Roosevelt's part-time neighbors met here today and adopted resolutions endorsing his court plan.

The President had an invitation to attend the meeting, but was unable to accept. He is spending a brief vacation at his "other home," the Little White House at Warm Springs near here.

The plan of the President to reorganize the supreme court was discussed by many of the county's business and civic leaders, and a committee was appointed to notify the President of the endorsement.

The committee selected included N. F. Culpepper, J. B. Gay, W. S. Allen, W. E. Smith, J. B. Jarrell and A. D. Jones.

This committee was instructed to call on the President at Warm Springs before he leaves tomorrow for Washington.

ASSEMBLY APPROVES STATE RADIO SYSTEM

WGST Will Be Taken Over By Commission Under Provisions of Bill.

A bill setting up a radio commission of seven members to take over and operate radio station WGST and any and all other radio stations the state may acquire was passed by the house last night and sent to Governor Rivers for his signature.

The measure was sponsored by the administration. Governor Rivers plans to seek more power for the station and use it to advertise the state, adding a shortwave system for use by the new department of public safety and the department of agriculture for distributing market reports.

The state now is held by Georgia Tech, which has it leased.

It was presented to Georgia Tech by the late Clark Howell and an amendment to the original senate bill would provide for the radio commission set up in the bill to pay the school the amount of the endowment or an annual sum to be decided upon.

The state will use the station to advertise Georgia and will have authority to rent it out commercially except for such time as it might be needed for state purposes.

TWO KILLED IN WRECK

WARSAW, March 25.—(P)—Two railroad employees were killed and 25 passengers injured today when a streamlined train running from Warsaw to Katowice crashed into a freight train near Czesochowa.

Department of Natural Resources

One of Session's Major Results

Co-ordination of the state's activities in conservation of wild life, forests, parks, fishing and mining into one department of natural resources was one of the major pieces of legislation enacted by the 1937 general assembly.

Carrying out Governor Rivers' expressed wishes for such co-ordination and for removal from office of Talmadge appointees, the assembly enacted the law.

Governor Rivers signed the bill March 5. Later he appointed divisional chiefs to head three units in the new department.

The governor announced last night the appointment of R. F. Burch, of Eastman, as commissioner of natural resources. Rivers tendered the post to Henry McIntosh, editor of the Albany Herald, but Mr. McIntosh declined the appointment. Although the commission's salary was $5,000 a year, the editor accepted instead the non-paying job as chairman of a newly created state planning board, a field in which he has been keenly interested.

Directors' Salaries.

Directors of various divisions in the natural resources department will get $4,000 yearly.

Governor Rivers appointed his long-time personal friend, Joe D. Mitchell, of Waycross, as director of the division of wild life. This division takes the place of the old game and fish department, headed by Zack Cravey, a Talmadge appointee, who refused to resign.

Frank Heyward Jr. of Savannah, now on the staff of the federal forest experiment station at Lake City, Fla., was named director of the forestry division, effective May 1.

Richard W. Smith, state geologist, was named acting head of the division of mines and minerals. Charles Elliott, of Augusta, was named last night as director of the division of parks. The latter division will have charge also of historical sites and monuments.

The wild life division includes a subdivision for supervision of coastal fisheries.

Comment by Governor.

Signing the act, Governor Rivers said:

"We believe this act will serve to promote every natural resource of the state of Georgia. I am confident it is a great step forward."

Appearing before a joint legislative committee considering the act, the governor said:

"We have launched a broad program for development of our natural resources and I hope the general assembly will give it the approval."

BRIDE'S DEATH IS LAID TO MURDER POISON

Body Found Slumped in Bath Tub in LaGrange Home Where Man Died.

LAGRANGE, Ga., March 25.—A coroner's verdict returned late today attributed to monoxide poisoning the mysterious death of Mrs. Joe E. Thompson, 20, bride of three months, whose body was found late Wednesday night, slumped in a bathtub in the home of Miss Lula Ward here.

The coroner's verdict was returned following the outcome of laboratory blood tests made in Atlanta.

Discovery of an accumulation of gas fumes in a pipe forming an outlet for a gas heater in the bathroom followed the finding of Mrs. Thompson's body.

Mrs. Thompson came here recently with her husband, who is employed in construction of the new Troup-LaGrange hospital, and they made their home at Miss Ward's residence.

Mrs. Thompson's death followed less than a month that of Max Grabowski, which occurred in the same room of the Ward home. Grabowski's death was attributed to a heart failure, following a long illness of ill health resulting from shell shock.

Mrs. Thompson, before her marriage, was Miss Hazel Hearn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Hearn, of Boshardsville, Ala. In addition to her parents, she is survived by four sisters and three brothers.

LABOR BODY MEASURE SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

Department Absorbs Present Industrial Relations Group In New Setup.

The new labor department bill was signed into law by Governor Rivers last night.

It established a Department of Labor in the state government and absorbs the present department of industrial relations into the setup.

The commissioner of labor under the act would be elected by the people for a two-year term except that the Governor will appoint a commissioner to serve until the 1938 general election. He will receive a salary of $5,000 a year.

The bill provides for the Labor Department to establish an employment bureau and to enforce labor laws generally.

It also provides for arbitration and conciliation of labor disputes and authorizes the commissioner to make investigations and collect statistics relating to labor conditions.

Hal M. Stanley, former commissioner of commerce and labor and office chairman of the industrial relations board, will retain his post as head of the industrial board in the Labor Department under terms of the act.

The new industrial board will consist of three members as formerly, to be appointed by the Governor with the consent of the senate at a salary of $4,000 a year. The law carries a provision that Stanley shall remain until the term for which he was elected last November expires.

CIVIL SERVICE PLAN IS KILLED BY HOUSE

The civil service bill was the only major Rivers sponsored measure which failed of passage during the session which ended early this morning.

Governor Rivers asked the assembly three weeks ago to set up a civil service commission under which he planned to put all employees of the various departments. The bill was passed by the senate but when it was taken up in the house yesterday a motion to table failed to carry by only one vote. Later a motion to postpone action was adopted.

Administration leaders in the house decided last night to make no further effort to pass the bill.

Five-Point Flags Will Tell Story Of Traffic Toll

Five Points this morning will become the focal point for the eyes of accident-minded Atlantans who are trying to reduce the traffic death and injury toll here.

All members of the traffic squad of the police department will meet at Five Points at 10:15 o'clock this morning for roll call and will raise a flag that will tell the story of Atlanta's traffic during the preceding 24 hours.

A black flag will mean a traffic death within the city limits of Atlanta during the period; a red flag will mean one or more Atlantans were injured and a green flag will mean a perfect 24-hour traffic record as far as deaths or injuries are concerned.

The traffic squad will meet again at Five Points tomorrow afternoon before going off duty as a reminder to Atlantans that it is still working persistently in an effort to enforce the traffic laws of the city and to prevent accident deaths and injuries.

That ceremony will become an everyday affair beginning this morning. The order was issued yesterday by Captain Jack Malcom, head of the police traffic department, who is acting in co-operation with the American Legion, the Boy Scout troops of Atlanta and the Constitution in a concerted drive to bring to the minds of Atlantans the necessity of safe driving if the terrific death toll here is to be reduced.

Further plans call for a large blackboard to be placed at Five Points with the daily "score" in accidents, deaths and injuries and also a large platform holding the "remains" of an automobile wrecked in a had accident here as a reminder of what happens when a motorist is careless.

The safety demonstration is being held in conjunction with "Legion Scout Safety Week," which will be observed April 5-10.

STRIKERS STRIP GIRLS.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 25.—(P)—Women strike sympathizers picketed outside the Non-Lee Dress Company plant, stripped the clothes from half a dozen girl workers among a group of 400 pushed its way into the factory today. Eleven women were arrested.

KISSIMMEE, Fla., March 25.—(P)—A circuit court jury convicted Frank Argo of armed robbery tonight in connection with his escape from a state convict camp last October.

FAT STOCK EXHIBITION OPENED AT SAVANNAH

Awards Are Presented at Banquet; Several Hundred Entered Show.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 25.—(P)—Savannah's sixth annual fat stock show opened today with several hundred Georgia and South Carolina entries entered. This year's prize money is the largest in the history of the show, slightly over $700.

All judging in both junior and senior divisions of the show took place today and trophies were presented the champions at a dinner tonight featuring native-raised steaks. Jesse F. Jackson, of Savannah, was toastmaster, and W. C. Lasseter, Birmingham, of the Progressive Farmer and Southern Ruralist, was the principal speaker.

A. J. Nitzsche, Chatham county agricultural agent, is chairman of the Savannah livestock development committee, sponsoring the show.

Judges were M. P. Jarnagin, Athens, of the Georgia State College of Agriculture; L. V. Starkey, who holds the same position at Clemson; J. M. and L. B. Beaty, Moultrie, packing plant representative; Colonel R. W. Henry, of Live Oak, Fla., is the auctioneer.

An Angus and Hereford cross steer, exhibited by C. F. Patten, of Millen, won the grand championship. A black Angus calf, weighing 600 pounds at the age of eight and a half months, won reserve champion honors. It was from the farm of N. G. Roosevelt, near Mount Holly, S. C.

Sam Garwood, of Sumter, S. C., champion of cattle show events in his own state, as well as Savannah's last year, was winner of the first event today. His seven-month-old, 630-pound Hereford steer took first place in Class A in the 4-H Boys' Club event.

LaFayette Flanders, of Lyons, was the owner of the steer which won the grand champion prize in the 4-H Club members' divisions.

Boy, Paralyzed Year, Walks, Breaks Leg

ENGLEWOOD, Tenn., March 25.—(P)—Eight-year-old Hugh Henderson walked today for the first time since he was stricken with paralysis a year ago. A few minutes after he ventured out on crutches, he fell and broke his leg. He was taken to Knoxville for treatment.

WILLIAM LAWSON DIES AT RESIDENCE

Bellwood Baptist Church Deacon Was Native of Milton County.

William Leel Lawson, 64, longtime resident of Atlanta and deacon in the Bellwood Baptist church for 34 years, died yesterday afternoon at his home, 55 Sunset avenue.

Born in old Milton county, Mr. Lawson had been a resident of Atlanta nearly all his life.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. J. W. Brumlow, of Rossville, Ga., and Mrs. F. H. Head, of Atlanta; five sons, J. C. J. E. D. L. and L. L. Lawson and W. L. Lawson Jr., all of Atlanta; three brothers, L. D. O. W. and D. S. Lawson; all of Atlanta, and two sisters, Mrs. C. A. Baker and Mrs. W. F. Baker, both of Atlanta, and 12 grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by West Side Funeral Home.

Corages Worn by Men At University Dance

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 25.—(P)—Men wore the corages—a "reverse dance" at the University of Buffalo last night.

"A good idea," said Bob Cook, varsity basketball player, as he was escorted into the dance hall by the fair co-ed who had invited him.

"But I can't say I go for this."

He fingered a charming corage of sweaters and baby's breath neatly pinned to his lapel by his girl.

It was all in the party, however. At the door each man received his favors—a miniature pack of cigarettes and a fragrant zinnia.

Girls bought ice cream and asked for the dances.

JURY FINDS 7 GUILTY IN RESTAURANT RACKET

'I'm Murderer,' Convicted Man Cries at $2,000,000 'Shake-Down' Trial.

NEW YORK, March 25.—(P)—In one of the wildest scenes ever witnessed in a New York courtroom, a supreme court jury tonight convicted seven men of a $2,000,000-a-year restaurant "shake-down" racket.

Two defendants wept and shouted curses at the court, the prosecutor and the jury.

"Give me the firing squad!" screamed Aladar Retek, a union official, hysterically. "I'm a murderer, a killer! I'm everything!"

"I've got a dirty deal! This isn't right, your honor! It isn't just! It isn't fair. I'm no racketeer!"

John J. Williams, another union official, had to be taken from the court by force, he became so hysterical, and was unable to return to give his record.

The other defendants heard the verdict calmly. They are Abraham Cohen, Harry A. Vogelstein, of the Metropolitan Restaurant and Cafeteria Association, and Paul N. Coulcher, union official.

All seven were found guilty on about 20 counts each, making each liable to maximum sentences of 213 to 353 1-2 years.

RIVERS APPROVES LABOR DEPARTMENT

Harry Monroe Succeeds Robert Elrod as Governor Signs Industrial Bill.

Governor Rivers last night signed the bill abolishing the present state department of industrial relations and creating a new state labor department which will handle unemployment insurance and workmen's compensation matters.

Shortly before signing the bill, the chief executive announced acceptance of the resignation of Robert Elrod, of Atlanta, as a labor commissioner and appointed Harry Monroe, also of Atlanta, in his stead.

Both houses adopted a conference report on a bill broadening benefits under the workmen's compensation act.

While the assembly left at 10 the minimum number of employees in the employ of a single employer to require participation in the act it did raise the weekly wage and hospitalization benefits.

The act, as it went to the Governor, called for a maximum weekly allowance of $20 for persons physically disabled and set the maximum hospital services figure which a worker might receive at $500.

SWEEPING CHANGES IN STATE SET-UP VOTED BY ASSEMBLY

IMPORTANT AGENCIES CREATED TO PROVIDE NEW AIDS TO CITIZENS

Social Security Legislation Featured; Vast Road System Provided; Taxes Fixed.

The general assembly last night came to the end of the most momentous legislative session in Georgia since reconstruction days.

Veteran capitol observers said that never before in the state's history, except perhaps for the uncertain days of the post-Civil War era, had a general assembly written into law such sweeping changes in the state government as were enacted last night.

The 1937 legislature, for the first time on record, enacted broad-scale social security legislation.

Revised Tax Structure.

It tapped new sources for tax money, paved the way for lightening of the tax burdens of city and county governments, and laid the ground-work for a wholesale revision of the entire tax structure of the state.

It adopted new legislation to sponsor better educational, highway and public school facilities; mapped out a broad program of activity for conservation of natural resources; established a board to work out long-range planning for state and local governments, and opened the way for greater participation with the federal government in road building, public works, education, health, social security and other fields.

The assembly created a state highway patrol of from 80 to 120 men to reduce Georgia's traffic fatalities. To support the patrol, it voted to levy a license tax on every driver of a motor vehicle, and provided for examination of such operators.

Liquor Referendum.

To control the liquor traffic and to raise revenue, it ordered a referendum June 8 at which Georgians will decide whether the state is to remain legally dry, or repeal its 22-year-old prohibition laws against whiskey.

Social security and other new deal legislation received ready approval. From start to finish, it was a pro-Roosevelt, pro-New Deal legislature. Likewise, from start to finish, it was a legislature friendly to the wishes of Governor Rivers, successful since the War Between the States, Senate President John B. Spivey and Speaker Roy V. Harris, of the house of representatives, declared in a joint statement last night.

The statement came as the assembly reached the adjournment of its 60-day biennial session which was preceded by the regular 10-day organization session.

Pointing out that the main planks of the federal government have been written into law, President Spivey and Speaker Harris declared that any one of the major achievements of the session would be the fulfillment of the hopes of Georgia that the cost of the session.

Major Acts Cited.

"Old-age pensions, free school books, a seven-month school term, an expanded program of public health and a reorganized highway department will bring life in Georgia back to the high plane on which we once stood," the statement said.

"The joint statement of President Spivey and Speaker Harris, addressed to the people of Georgia, follows: 'The general assembly has ended the most momentous session in a general assembly since the War Between the States. It has carried out the hopes of Georgia that the high and proud plane we once held.'

"The great program of our Governor, E. D. Rivers, has been enacted into law and the dream of an overburdened people is being fulfilled.

"In his campaign last summer, our Governor promised to give the old people of the state old-age pensions. He promised free school books for every child in Georgia. He pledged himself to work for an equal length school term of seven months. He promised to create a secondary system of public highways in the state and include in it the rural routes. He further promised to expand our health department so that it could give real service to our people.

Promises Kept.

"The general assembly readily granted the urgent plea for old-age pensions. We have created the new state department of public welfare which will not only take care of the old-age pension program but also will provide aid for widows and orphans, for the blind and for dependent children.

"Because our constitution will not permit us to tax to carry on this program it will be necessary for the people to approve a constitutional amendment which has been submitted to them and for which a general election will be held.

"This election will be held on the eighth day of June and we are firm in our belief that the people will ratify the amendment which will be submitted to them.

"The federal government has assured us that if the people ratify the amendment on June 8 it will happily operation with the federal government.

Liquor and Wine.

Set a referendum for June 8 on repeal of the state's 22-year-old dry law. If repeal is approved, counties would have the right to vote later at local option elections upon petition of 15 per cent of the qualified voters. In wet counties, liquor could be sold only in privately-owned package stores taxed by the state and subject to local taxes.

Legalized "foreign" wines from states other than Georgia.

Talmadge Administration.

Killed a bill for a legislative investigation of the Talmadge administration. Senate rejected all Talmadge appointments at the beginning of the 10-day organization session in January and approved all appointments sent to it by Governor Rivers.

Legislated out of office two major Talmadge appointees—Zack D. Cravey of the game and fish department and John A. Heck of the highway board.

Labor.

Created a new department of labor, absorbing the old industrial commission and providing for administration of labor questions generally.

Provided for employment service in the Labor Department.

Appropriations and Taxes.

Changed the beginning of the state's fiscal year from January 1 to July 1 to coordinate with that of the federal government.

Ended, early in the session, the state's plight of operating without appropriations by passing a six-month stop-gap appropriations bill to carry until July 1, 1937.

Georgia Social Security Program Started on Way by Legislators

Groundwork for Extensive System to Operate in Conjunction With Federal Authorities Laid at Session Just Concluded.

The Georgia legislature this year laid the groundwork for the state's first broad-scale program of social security.

Both emergency and permanent legislation included in the list of bills enacted by the assembly to meet Governor Rivers' repeated requests for humanitarian legislation in Georgia.

Some of the bills are designed to put into effect at an early date provisions for payment of old age pensions, aid to the needy blind, to dependent children, and other welfare activities. The permanent program will depend on the people, voting in a special general election called for June 8.

Just when the temporary program will become effective remains to be worked out.

Creation of a department of public welfare to administer pensions and other security benefits, to take over the work of the old board of control, and to aid generally in carrying out welfare and health activities was one phase of the Rivers program.

The June 8 election will see the submission of a proposed constitutional amendment to give counties authority to levy taxes to support the security program.

The department of public welfare, administered by a director and six welfare board members, assumed the duties of the old board of welfare, board of control of eleemosynary institutions and the confederative pension distribution functions of the veterans service office.

The director appointed for two years by the Governor receives an annual salary of $8,000. The six board members, appointed for three-year terms, serve without compensation.

Governor Rivers named Lamar Murdaugh, McRae attorney, department director, and appointed the following board members: Captain Frank Spence, Savannah; Arthur Lucas, Atlanta; J. S. Golden, Jasper, and J. L. Wilson, Thomson.

The welfare department act also provides for establishment of five-member county welfare boards to administer the program in the counties.

Murdaugh said the social security program the first year will cost approximately $6,000,000. The federal government will put up 50 per cent for old age pensions and aid to the needy blind and one-third for assistance to needy children.

The old age pension bill provides payment of a maximum of $30 per month to needy persons over 65 years old. Confederate veterans and widows will receive a minimum of $30 per month. County boards will distribute payments, with administrative costs, and the counties will furnish 10 per cent of the pension money, the state 40 per cent and the federal government 50 per cent.

Dependent children under 16 years old are provided for in the child aid bill. The aid will be based on individual need.

Counties will bear 10 per cent of the state 90 per cent of administrative costs, and the counties will furnish 10 per cent, the state 50-23-27 per cent and the federal government 13-13-13 per cent of funds distributed.

Persons with impaired sight who are over 21 years old are eligible for relief under the blind act. The amount of aid will depend on individual need in the discretion of county welfare boards.

Cost will be divided as in the old age pension act.

Governor Rivers announced after signing the social security legislation "permanent pensions" will not go into effect until July 1.

men's experts will play an important part. The board also is charged with the duty of making a broad study of matters relating to the physical, social and economic development of the resources in Georgia.

It is to encourage planning of public works and other activities of cities, towns and counties, and correlating of activities of various governmental units.

Georgia's legislature had heard that Georgia and Delaware were the only states not having planning boards to co-operate with the federal government.

BRIDGES TO BE WIDENED.

VALDOSTA, Ga., March 25.—Today was notified that the state highway board has set aside $60,000 for widening the two steel and concrete bridges across the Whitcomb river on Federal Highway No. 41, just north of Valdosta. Bids for the work will be opened April 9.

VALDOSTA DEBT REDUCED.

VALDOSTA, Ga., March 25.—During the fiscal year which closed last month, the city of Valdosta retired bonds totaling $20,500, leaving the city bonded indebtedness now at $475,500, the lowest it has been in more than 10 years.

Heading the board is Henry T. McIntosh, editor of the Albany Herald and chairman of District 4 of the national resources committee. McIntosh, long a leader in the movement for organized planning of civic and other works, declined the commission of the state department of natural resources to take the planning board job. The planning board has no salary; the natural resources post pays $5,000 yearly.

The federal government will provide personnel and experts without cost to the state in working out a long-time planning program, Rivers said.

Accepting the chairmanship of the board, McIntosh said it is his ambition to make it an "agency of fine constructive service to Georgia."

The planning board will be composed of seven members, including the chairman. Besides McIntosh, those appointed are:

J. W. Woodruff, Columbus business man; Dr. Charles Herty, Savannah scientist; Miss Martha Berry, north Georgia educator; Dr. T. F. Abernethy, director of the state health department; Jim L. Gillis, member of the state highway commission.

The remaining appointment will go either to School Superintendent M. D. Collins or to the state commissioner of natural resources, yet to be appointed. Executives or other representatives of various state departments will constitute an advisory board to meet with the planning commission at least four times a year.

Among the chief interests of the board will be the preparation of maps and surveys of the state to give information on field crops, reforestation, recreation, watershed protection and industrial and urban expansion. It is expected that in these activities the federal govern-

STATE NOW OPERATING UNDER EMERGENCY APPROPRIATIONS BILL

Six-Month Measure Passed To Provide Legal Funds To Run Georgia.

The state of Georgia is operating today on one of the first, if not the only, emergency appropriations bill in its history.

When Governor Rivers took over the executive department last January he found no appropriations bill in existence, many state employees unpaid, and some departments in debt.

During the campaign he promised not to spend money without an appropriations bill, an emergency appropriations measure was one of the first major bills receiving legislative action.

It provides money for operation of state departments and institutions for the first six months of 1937.

The 1935 legislature failed to pass a general appropriations bill for 1936 and 1937. Eugene Talmadge, then Governor, blamed the assembly; some legislators blamed Talmadge. Talmadge operated the state without an appropriations bill in 1936, his last year in office.

Shortly after Rivers took office, the assembly adopted a stop-gap measure providing $5,535,500 for operation of the state during the first six months of 1937.

The assembly passed the measure, however, only after a conference committee ironed out differences between the two houses—principally over appropriations for the department of agriculture. The department finally received $120,000.

Main provisions of the emergency bill follow:

Department of agriculture: Operating cost $120,000; veterinary service $17,500; protection of the bee industry $6,000; plus 97 per cent of fees collected from egg inspection and the farmers' markets.

Department of education: Aid to common schools and operating expenses $2,325,000, plus treasury fund derived from sale of state-owned automobiles; $52,000 from act of gasoline tax ($2,900,000 for 1936) and income from beer tax for free schoolbooks.

Forestry and geology department: General operation expenses $25,000; survey of water resources $7,500.

Game and fish department: 97 per cent of fees collected.

Governor: $45,000 for Governor's office, supervisor of purchases, keeper of buildings and grounds, Confederate cemetery at Marietta and insurance on public property not otherwise provided for; state employment director $30,000; emergency fund $37,900; purchases of code books for justices of the peace $3,250.

Highway department: 97 per cent of two-thirds of the gasoline tax (amounted to approximately $125,000 in 1936).

Military department: General expenses $12,900; for enforcement of "riot act" $12,900.

Public health department: $125,000. Treasurer for payment of general assembly salaries and costs: $210,000. Eleemosynary institutions: $900,000.

University system: Aid to university system $666,666.66; special building fund $433,333.33.

PROSPERITY OF BANKS DUE TO FEDERAL AID, BANKERS ARE TOLD

Too Much of Present Recovery Appears Artificial, Says Convention Speaker.

Banking in the United States is entering the present era of prosperity on government crutches and still is not able to stand alone, according to W. W. Woodson, president of the First National Bank of Waco, Texas, who was one of the principal speakers here yesterday at the opening day's session of the regional conference of the American Bankers' Association.

Much of the present recovery appears artificial, he said. "It is not supported by bank loans for commercial and industrial purposes. The present inflation is caused largely by issue of bonds and other securities. Deposits, including postal savings, plus currency not in banks, exceed the 1929 figure by $2,000,000,000. The velocity of circulation is about half of the 1929 velocity figures."

National Figures Here.
Mr. Woodson's address yesterday was one among a dozen delivered by nationally known banking figures assembled here for the conference. Vice President of the American Bankers' Association, J. S. Kennedy, vice president of the First National Bank of Atlanta, and general chairman of the Atlanta committee, presided at the morning session, held at the Biltmore hotel. Mr. Smith presided at the afternoon and night sessions.

Modern science has come to the rescue of banks in combating robbers and burglars. W. B. Gladney, bank executive of Boston, La., told the members of the association. In his address yesterday morning on "Bank Insurance and Crime Protection," Mr. Gladney explained protective equipment procurable by banks which will detect the mere presence of a burglar in a darkened room before he touches anything and will send out a silent alarm to officers. Additional equipment may be secured, he said, to take a picture of the intruder and then trench him in his gear.

Robberies Reduced.
This new type equipment, he declared, is largely responsible for the drop in bank robberies from 631 in 1932 to 189 in 1936. Bullet-proof cages for cashiers and tellers and delayed time-lock safes also help decrease loss by banks from burglars and hold-ups, he asserted.

Attending the two-day conference of bankers is Mrs. C. E. Harris, vice president of the Citizens and Southern National Bank, of Atlanta, who is an outstanding candidate for the post of treasurer of the American Bankers' Association. Known for her long banking field throughout the country, she has the distinction of being the only woman in the United States ever to hold office in the national association.

She has served two terms as vice president, one term as vice president of the national bank section, and has held other posts in the organization.

H. Lane Young Speaks.
H. Lane Young, executive vice president of the Citizens and Southern National Bank, told the bankers that "one of the great weaknesses of our national agricultural system has been individualism and the failure of the individual to relate his crop production and production to the collective result of all."

"Bankers must help farmers to become businessmen," he declared. "The hit-or-miss method has been too long in operation and has wasted farmers' efforts, brought about mortgage foreclosures and resulted in loan applications that could not be handled or loans that became losses."

"Bankers, agricultural college services and farmers must work together in establishing farms on a business basis," he declared.

Mr. Smith, speaking on "Why Bankers Should Counsel Together," declared "it should be emphasized that the government does not force itself into the banking business."

U. S. Aid Sought.
"As the crisis grew acute," he said, "there arose a greater and greater demand from private business that the federal government throw its immense credit resources into the breach, and the government did so only in response to this demand."

He told the members the bankers' association is making studies to serve have been established by the group with which I have been associated," Baird wrote.

"I am convinced this instrumentality is being conducted efficiently and that its staff is composed of loyal and devoted people earnestly and diligently giving the best that is in them to promote the welfare of the thousands of persons in this country who are in need. We are confronted with problems which cannot be solved immediately and which will require sound, long-time planning if a permanent and effective plan of public assistance is to be developed," he stated.

Baird will probably call a meeting of the old welfare board today or tomorrow to work out details of administration of the department pending the organization of the new board, it was said.

Alderman Bridges yesterday signed his consent for Alderman Carpenter to withdraw his notice of reconsideration in the aldermanic board, which action had previously held up the city money until the regular meeting of council April 5.

Mayor Hartsfield called the special council session on the advice of City Attorney Jack Savage, who said that a council action turning the money over to a welfare board which had no official status, would be a violation of the legality of the appropriation.

NEVE ASKS ARMS BAN TO COUNTRIES AT WAR

Robinson Blocks Early Consideration of Plan With Objection.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP)—Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, introduced today a bill to prohibit the United States government from arms shipments to Italy and "other governments" which he said are involved in "active warfare" in Spain.

He asked the senate to call upon Secretary Hull for an opinion as to whether existing law would permit such action.

Chairman Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, of the senate foreign relations committee, protested that there is not the slightest evidence that Italy as a government has been "taking part" in the Spanish conflict.

"The State Department should not support the contention that arms are being transshipped from Italy," Pittman contended, "because Mussolini would consider such a move provocative and insulting, and the cause of peace would be served."

"We would have to find Italy was a belligerent."

Under the present law it is entirely for the president to decide whether a state of war exists and declare an embargo.

Robinson, the Democratic leader, blocked immediate consideration of Nye's request with a parliamentary objection. It went on the calendar, however, for possible action Monday.

NEUTRALITY GROUP CHALLENGED BY SPAIN.

VALENCIA, Spain, March 25.—(AP)—The Spanish government tonight challenged the right of the international "hands off Spain" committee to interfere with its commerce in the Spanish coast.

A note to the British government, issued by Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez Del Vayo, asserted that the Spanish republic, "no matter what the consequences, will not tolerate any interference with its commerce by flag, which (the international) control might impose directly or indirectly, no matter what the nature of the cargo carried on board."

FRANCE RALLIES ALLIES IN FEAR OF "OUTBREAK."

PARIS, March 25.—(AP)—France rallied her European allies about her today in a move to erect a naval blockade against the port of Valencia, Italy's seaport, in the event of an outbreak against the republican government in Spain.

Great Britain, a foreign office spokesman declared, has pledged to France in blocking Italian landings if war troops were dispatched to the war-torn peninsula.

Fearing that Premier Mussolini of Italy might use the London non-intervention agreement to isolate the civil conflict, France assured herself of the support of her own central European allies, should the need arise, by a series of extraordinary diplomatic communications.

News of Gate City Told in Paragraphs

"Every Member Day" will be celebrated by the G. O. P. of the state on Sunday, March 27, at a special church service. A special musical program has been arranged. Mrs. E. M. Altman is teacher of the class and Mrs. M. N. Martin is president.

Fitzhugh Knox Sr., Atlanta contractor, is in Nashville, Tenn., attending the 33rd annual meeting of the Georgia Association of the Middle West and South. Mr. Knox will address the association tonight on the subject, "A Businessman's Appreciation of Classical Studies."

An interdenominational service will be held this afternoon at the Peachtree Baptist church, 1100 Peachtree St. N. E., at 4 o'clock. Speakers on the program are Dr. Marshall, Dr. Charles R. Garrison, Dr. Lester Rumble, Bishop H. J. McKel, Dr. William V. Gardner, Dr. K. Owen White and Dr. James Baggett.

Nuham Sokolow Literary Society will hold a special Passover meeting and reception Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. S. Sokolow, 3500 Peachtree St. N. E.

Baird Resigns.
Baird expressed hope yesterday in his letter of resignation that the new five-man board will see fit to continue relief operations through the present Fulton Department of Public Welfare.

I sincerely hope the work of the Board of Public Welfare will continue under the present arrangement and will assure the maintenance of the or with a similar arrangement which high standards of usefulness which

Mrs. George Harrison will be hostess at a children's party on Friday at the Marietta Golf Club, the occasion celebrating the fifth birthday of her son, George Harrison Jr.

Mrs. L. L. Welch will entertain at a children's party on Saturday at her home on Church street, honoring her daughter, Marilyn, on her fifth birthday.

Mrs. Frank Owenby was hostess at a children's party on Tuesday at her home on North street, complimenting her small daughter, Judy, on her third birthday.

Miss Howard Perkinson, of Randolph-Macon, arrived on Thursday, to spend the Easter holidays with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Perkinson.

Dr. and Mrs. George Hagood Sr. and Mrs. E. H. Knight will be guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Shala Davis, in Gainesville, when little Sarah Virginia and William Shala Davis, grandchildren of Dr. and Mrs. Hagood, will be christened at the First Methodist church.

Tom Perkinson, traveling salesman, with headquarters in Athens, will spend the week-end with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Perkinson.

Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens, spoke on Tuesday at the Marietta Woman's Club.

The young people leaving April 13 for a sightseeing trip to Washington and Virginia are Misses Eva Langley, Sara Lance, Laura Waggoner, Mattie Kilgore, Doris Lewis, Sara Barber, Sallie Cameron, Betty Medford, Bertha Belle Moor, Louise Franklin, Carolyn Stansell, Annie Dobbins, Jane McCleskey, Rosie Spears, Virginia Franklin, Virginia Haggis, Jane Bray and Neil Perkinson, Tommy Brumby, Morgan DePoe, Ray Baldwin, Rex Pruitt, Wayne Lynn and Harry Mitchell.

Miss Hazel Carnes has returned to her home in St. Augustine after visiting her sister, Mrs. Hubert Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shore and daughter, Era Marie, have returned to Birmingham after visiting Mrs. Shore's parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. Lee, on Atlanta street.

Jack Mayes, Fletcher Sims, Ed Jones and Bo Johnson, of Georgia Tech, were among the dinner guests on Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Montgomery Jr.

Glenn Giles entertained the Methodist choir on Tuesday at the Y. W. C. A.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas were hosts at a dinner on Saturday at their home on Seminole drive.

The J. O. Y. Class are entertaining at a banquet Friday at the Y. W. C. A., at which time Dr. L. A. White will preside at the installation of the new officers. They are: President, Fred Beck; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. John Ennis; assistant secretary, Mrs. John Ennis; and the chairman of different committees, Ralph Howell, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Goodwin, Mrs. W. W. Cairn and Mrs. Elmore Smith.

Miss Aitha Bullock Weds Joe J. Adair.

DALLAS, March 25.—The marriage of Miss Aitha Bullock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Bullock, to Joe Johnson Adair, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Adair, was solemnized at the First Baptist church last evening with Rev. A. B. Cash, pastor of the church, officiating.

Mrs. Waitchel Bullock, pianist, and Mrs. Raymond Adair, of Adairville, and Mrs. Clarence Lee, soloists, gave a musical program. The twin sisters of the bride, Misses Marjorie and Martha Bullock, lighted the candles. They were floor length models of green or gandy over pink taffeta.

Little Miss Carolyn Boggs, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid and wore orchid organza over pink taffeta. Miss Edna Earle Adair, sister of the groom, and Mrs. G. B. Ragsdale, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids and wore gowns of blue and pink net, fashioned with floor length skirts posed over matching taffeta. They carried colonial bouquets of pastel shaded flowers. Miss Sue Hunsinger, of Greenville, S. C., was maid of honor and wore a French model of aquamarine lace and carried a bouquet of roses, blue delphinium and snap dragons.

Little Barbara Sue Underwood, of Atlanta, and Little Edith Bullock, of Dallas, nieces of the bride, were flower girls and wore floor length dresses of pink and blue organza over taffeta. Their flowers were miniature colonial bouquets. Ushers were Thomas Rogers and Gene Bullock Jr., of Dallas, and groomsmen were G. B. Ragsdale and Howell Boggs.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and the groom had for his best man Raymond Adair, of Adairville. The bride was lovely in her wedding gown of duchess ivory satin made along princess lines, the long skirt widened in the back to form a court train, over which fell a bridal veil of illusion tulle. The veil was held to her brown hair by sprays of valley lilies. She carried a white kid prayer book and a shower of gardenias and valley lilies.

Mr. Adair and his bride left in the late evening for a motor trip to points in North Carolina. For traveling the bride wore an ensemble of brown beige crepe with brown accessories. On their return they will reside with Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Bullock.

Will Reside in Montreal

Pictured above is Mrs. William Wright Bryan, whose marriage to Dr. Bryan was a social event taking place last Saturday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Jones Jr., on Peachtree circle. Mrs. Bryan is the former Miss Nancy Waldo Jones and was numbered among popular members of the past season's Debutante Club. Dr. and Mrs. Bryan will reside in Montreal, Canada.

Mrs. Garton Elected President Of Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority

Mrs. J. L. Garton was elected president of the Atlanta Alumnae of Alpha Omicron Pi at a meeting held recently at the home of Mrs. Robert Taylor, the retiring president.

Assisting Mrs. Garton will be the following newly elected officers: Vice president, Mrs. Douglas W. Copeland; secretary, Mrs. James H. Taylor Jr.; treasurer, Mrs. Carl C. Gray; editor to the Drama, Mrs. John M. Nichols; Panhellenic representative, Mrs. Denny DuBois.

As a member of the active chapter at the University of Minnesota, Mrs. Garton took a prominent part in the sorority work, and her interest has been shown in the local alumnae group since its installation several years ago. As vice president during the past year, Mrs. Garton was responsible for raising funds for the national and local social service work, and the good record of the Atlanta chapter in this work is due largely to her enthusiasm and ingenuity.

At the national biennial convention of the sorority which will be held the latter part of June at Yellowstone, Mrs. Garton will represent the Atlanta Alumnae Chapter, and she will be accompanied by several other Atlantans.

Miss Olive Marion Becomes Bride Of Mr. Lide Jr. at Home Rites

Miss Olive Marion became the bride of Jesse Holloway Lide Jr., of Corinth, Miss., at a quiet ceremony taking place at noon yesterday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Francis Marion, on Howland street, officiated in the presence of only the immediate families.

There were no attendants and the couple spoke their vows before the mantle in the living room, which was banked with a graceful arrangement of palms and ferns. Vases filled with Easter lilies adorned the center of the mantelpiece.

The attractive bride wore her traveling costume, a stylish model of blue crepe made along tailored lines. Her hat was a tailored spring model of Venetian tan felt and she wore London tan accessories. Her flowers were bronze orchids, and for traveling Mrs. Lide donned a topcoat of English tweed.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Marion were hosts at an informal breakfast for the young couple and wedding guests. Adorning the lace-covered table in the dining room was a three-tiered bride's cake embossed in valley lilies and encircled by ferns and white flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Lide left for New York from where they will sail on the S. S. Standam for a wedding trip to Nassau and Havana. Upon their return to the States on April 6, they will reside in Haverford, Pa.

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

JACKSON, Miss., Wednesday—We reached Birmingham, Ala., yesterday at 2:35 p. m. I was told that a few children would be out to greet me, but I found myself going down the street slowly behind a high school band and a corps of cadets. Something was distinctly wrong—the President should have been in the car. I wasn't really happy until we got away from the procession.

We stopped at a negro industrial school and heard some very fine singing. Then I saw the beginnings of a very fine P. W. A. housing project for negroes.

After a press conference we sat down to go over the mail which had been forwarded, after which three kind ladies came in to present me with some books. I was presented with a shield by the city at the lecture. Finally, when the Governor and Mrs. Graves came in to bid us goodbye, it seemed very inadequate to just say, "Thank you," for all their many kindnesses. Mrs. Graves had driven with me everywhere in the afternoon, so I really felt we had an opportunity to know each other a little.

We left a call for 6 o'clock this morning, but for some unknown reason I could not get the fact that we had to get up early off my mind. I woke up three or four times with a worried feeling. Each time it was so dark I turned over placidly and went to sleep again. When the telephone rang and a cheery voice said: "Good morning, it's 6 o'clock," it was so dark I was sure it still was the middle of the night.

It had been raining and as we traveled through the countryside we realized they have had about all the rain they can well absorb. Every stream and river seems to be full. We breakfasted peacefully on the train and then found ourselves settling down to dictation with a feeling that it must be well on in the day.

Mrs. Scheider looked at her watch and said, "Why it's only 8:45!" That gave us three clear hours before we changed trains at Meridian, Miss. The school children came in groups to several stations along the way and I went out and waved to them.

In Meridian we found Governor White, of Mississippi; Major Sullens and Mrs. Early Russell, and they took over all our responsibilities.

We have decided that we will be staying for weeks to come. "We have seven pieces of luggage," because we have grown so accustomed to telling the porters not to forget any of the items. In Meridian, before we knew it, our bags were on the train. Someone else looked after them when we left the train and we found them in our hotel rooms.

There were representatives of many different groups at the Meridian station, for we were there for some time. A very smart looking high school band came down to play for us. The Governor and I accepted all our welcomes at various stations and I tried again inadequately to thank the people for their kindness, knowing that a large part of their interest in me is due to the fact that men, women and children alike say, "We love the President, please take him our good wishes."

Now we are in Jackson, Miss., and our press conference is over. Mrs. Ellen Woodward met us at the station together with Mrs. White. It was a joy to see Mrs. Woodward in her own home state where she is beloved by everyone. Peace and quiet reigns until we go to the lecture.

DECORATING THE HOME

By GERALDINE GREENE.

FLOORS.

Have you looked your floors over with a critical eye lately? You know, more than any other house surface—walls, doors, woodwork—your floors take a terrific amount of punishment. Think of the thousands of steps you yourself take over their surface, then add those of the rest of your family and your friends. In these terms the traffic is staggering.

As you apply the varnish, first run strokes with the grain—and then your next, against the grain—and then with only a slightly moist brush, again with the grain. In that way, you've reached every crevice and every single portion of the wood. And remember, a good varnish won't chip, or scratch white or discolor with either hot or cold water, so be careful and get a good, recognized brand. The best is not costly.

Varnish isn't the only thing for floors, however. Paint in various shades to contrast well with wall and ceiling treatment is grand for bedrooms, breakfast rooms or kitchens and is very easy to keep clean. And a clean, gleaming floor is a joy for everyone of the big decorative points of a room and properly a predominant feature in every home.

You cleanse your face when it needs it, you press your clothes when they get out of press, and you shine your shoes when the gloss rubs off. Why not give your floors a break once in a while when they need it?

Mrs. Charles Adsit Is Honor Guest.

Honoring Mrs. Charles Adsit, of Des Moines, Iowa, formerly of Atlanta, was the luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. B. M. Bailey at her home on Peachtree street.

The table was appointed with various lace mats and centered with a handsome antique English Staffordshire tureen filled with white phlox and blue delphinium, flanked by matching covered compotes.

Places were laid for 12 guests, friends of the honor guest. Mrs. Adsit, with her son, Charles Adsit Jr., of Yale University, is spending Easter vacation with Mrs. Floyd McLean Jr., at her home on Habersham road.

Ernest Beaudry Jr. Honors Henry Dickie

Ernest Beaudry Jr. will entertain at a luncheon at 1 o'clock Saturday at his home, Fifth street, honoring Henry Dickie, who leaves on Tuesday for Washington, D. C., where they will reside in future.

The occasion will assemble 10 close friends of the host and honor guest, all of whom are classmates at Marietta College. They include Alex Smith Jr., Frank McLaughlin Jr., Norman Kane, Richard Kane, Edward Adams, Lawrence Harrison, Bobby Dawson, Billy Williamson, Stewart Broeman and Richard Tripp.

Nursery Children Will Be Featured.

Children of the Andrew and Frances Stewart Good-Will Center nursery will be featured on the Sunday School of the Air program on WATL on Saturday at 4:15 o'clock.

Taking part will be Norma Evelyn and Joyce Parker, Sarah Holmes, Ethel and Helen McGinnis, Mary Nolan, Agnes Miller, Hazel White, Mary Buckner, Anita and Edna Kirkpatrick, J. D. Strickland, Eldon Gazaway, Sam and Mildred Lester, Laurene and June Gamblin, James and Ann Barrett.

Habersham D. A. R. Will Sponsor Party.

Among the after-Easter events of interest will be a benefit bridge, sponsored by Joseph Habersham Chapter, D. A. R., which will take place at Habersham hall at 270 East Fifth street, on Tuesday evening, April 13, at 8 o'clock.

Many handsome prizes have been donated, chief of which is a radio. There will be a prize at each table and anyone interested may call Mrs. T. J. Ripley, the regent, at Hemlock 1773-J.

For Miss Doris Gibbs And Mr. Gilbert.

A recent enjoyable affair was the bridge-table and lingerie shower given by Mrs. Travis Doyle Curtis in honor of Miss Doris Gibbs, Easter bride-elect. The bridge tables were decorated with small blue and white china carrying cargoes of mints and the tally cards carried out the bridal motif. The tea table was centered by a bowl of white narcissus and maiden hair fern and burning white tapers.

On Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. George Robertson honored Miss Gibbs and her fiancé, Charles Keith Gilbert Jr., with a surprise miscellaneous shower and buffet supper at their home on Storval boulevard, N. E. Guests were Misses Christine Quillian, Mildred Frawley, Carolyn McCann, Doris Kaylor, and Clarence Redfern, Maurice Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts and the honorees.

On Friday, Mr. and Mrs. William Buck entertained at a spaghetti supper and bride party at her home on Bonaventure avenue on Thursday. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. John Pool, Adolph Beckman, Miss Gibbs and Mr. Gilbert and Miss Bellinger. The St. Patrick day motif was attractive and in the table appointments and refreshments.

On Wednesday evening, Mrs. Fred P. Gibbs kept open house for her husband and 100 friends of the bride-elect and the bride-elect were invited.

On Saturday evening Miss Gibbs and Mr. Gilbert will be entertained by Miss Isabelle Roberts, the bride-elect's maid of honor, at a buffet supper to which only the wedding party, immediately friends, and a few close friends are invited.

Information Day.

Third district of the B. W. M. U. of the Atlanta Association will hold an information day for presidents and district chairmen, at 10:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. W. B. Williamson Jr., 230 Westminister drive, N. E.

Harrison, Providence; Mrs. W. B. Williamson Jr., Second-Ponce de Leon; Mrs. L. V. Barfield, Whiteford Avenue; Mrs. James H. Sawyer is secretary of the third district.

Mr. Edwards Honored.

Mrs. J. T. Edwards entertained recently at her home on Holderness street in West End with a surprise birthday party in honor of Mr. Edwards. A color motif of yellow and white predominated throughout the home. The exquisite birthday cake was embossed with yellow and white roses.

Time To Re-pot House Plants

By DEAN HALLIDAY.

At this season pinch back straggly house plants and repot any that are growing too large for their pots, to prevent them from becoming pot-bound.

The accompanying Garden-Graph shows a pot-bound plant. Notice that the roots are so numerous they form a network outside of the soil ball. This indicates that the plant needs more room.

To remove the plant without breaking the soil ball, first water the soil, then turn the pot upside down, holding the plant between the first two fingers at its base, and tap the pot gently. This will loosen the root ball.

Well, Have You Read The Constitution?

President Roosevelt in his "fireside chat" over the radio said he thought every citizen of the United States ought to re-read the constitution of the United States to see what it actually says.

Probably you haven't looked at the text of the fundamental law of the land since school days.

Our Washington Service Bureau has a 24-page booklet ready for you, which not only gives the complete text of the constitution and all amendments but gives a history of how the document was made, who its makers were, who signed it, and the history of its adoption and the proposal and adoption of each of the amendments.

One of the most important debates in the history of the United States is that now going on in relation to the President's envelope to the judicial branch. The constitution of the United States is being discussed and analyzed as perhaps never before since its original adoption.

Beauty According to You!

A Sports Cream for Men and Women To Combat Ravages of Wind and Sun By LILLIAN MAE

We have with us now March winds, soon to be followed by April showers, which, though they bring May flowers, leave us many days nearer the blistering rays of summer's sun. What a wreck your complexion and hands will be, unless they are properly protected from the elements—particularly if you are the outdoor, sports-loving type of person.

There is no reason why, because you enjoy daytime sports, you should not show up to advantage in tea-time and evening clothes, thanks to a delightful sports cream recently introduced, for protection of the tenderest skin against chapping, sun or wind burns.

Rubbed into the skin before and after exposure, this cream leaves that soft, rosy feeling which puts sports in the background when you enter a dining room or ball room, under lights which are often unkind to complexions not exactly up to par.

A few days' use of the delightful emollient to ward off the ravages of wintry blasts, makes me more impatient for those restful week ends at the seashore, with the knowledge that I won't have to look for shady spots and constantly change around to be on the side of the car opposite the glare of the sun, while taking drives through the country, to prevent that perched look which my very sensitive skin so easily acquires.

You can purchase this cream in either tube or jar, both of which are white, with amusing green outlines of men and women typifying all degrees of sports activities.

It is so made that the green top may be tilted back in such a manner as to expose a stream just sufficient for one-time use. There is no waste or messy deposit on the top when it is by a flip of the green knob, completely closed—and incidentally, no screw top to roll across the floor and become lodged in a dark corner.

The cream is so absorbent and non-greasy that it cannot rub off or in any way harm the delicatest clothing. Get yourself a jar or tube today, to repair the ravages of winter. Then you'll enjoy using it straight through the summer. In fact, I can't imagine any season without it, now that I have used it long enough to realize its virtues.

If you would like to know the name of this cream and where it may be purchased, phone Lillian Mae at The Constitution. If you do not live in Atlanta, accompany your request with a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NANCY PAGE Nancy Knows This Recipe By Heart By FLORENCE La GANKE.

One of Nancy's favorite soups, possibly because it was such a pretty color, was the one adapted from the Russian bortsch. There are almost as many ways of spelling the name as there are letters in it, so if you come across it spelled "bortsch" or "borsht" you may rely on them all belonging to the same family. She always explained this when asked for the recipe.

Nancy chopped one can of beets very fine. She reheated them in the liquid in which they were canned, and added an equal quantity of water. She seasoned to taste with lemon juice, salt and pepper and just enough sugar to make mixture mellow but not sweet. While the mixture was still hot she poured it onto two unbeaten eggs. Then she reheated it carefully. Lastly she added one-half cup of sour cream. This was effective when served in white or ivory dishes. Its color is midway between red and beet red. The cream tones the color so that it does not clash with centerpiece of pink spring lilacs. Tiny crisp crackers or rounds of bread lightly toasted are the best accompaniment for the dish.

Nancy has a leaflet on "Meals for Crowds." You may find some help here for the school graduation dinner you have to serve. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Nancy Page, care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Mrs. T. L. O'Connor Honored at Parties

Mrs. T. L. O'Connor, of Providence, R. I., the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Philip L'Engle, continues to be honored at a series of delightful informal social affairs. On Saturday Mrs. Gordon Burnett entertained at a luncheon at her home on Peachtree road, for Mrs. O'Connor.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Beers entertained at a dinner party at their home on Ponce de Leon avenue, as a complimentary gesture to the Rhode Island visitor. The table was overlaid with a real lace cloth and centered with a silver bowl filled with jonquils and white carnations. Gracing either side were silver candelabra holding yellow burning tapers.

Covers were placed for Mrs. O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. Philip L'Engle, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Berry and Mr. and Mrs. Beers.

The home was beautifully decorated with quantities of peach blossoms and jonquils which formed a colorful and effective color motif. The table in the dining room was covered with a real lace cloth and was centered with an imported china bowl filled with the same lovely flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Honor Visitors.

A group of the younger set assembled last evening at the East Face Ferry road home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dorsey Jr., who were hosts complementing a duo of attractive Easter visitors. Sharing honors were Miss Peggy Roach, of Larchmont, N. Y., the guest of Miss Cornelia and Lydia Whitner, and her sister, Miss Betty Roach, who is visiting Miss Mary Warren.

'YOUR FIGURE, MADAME!' By IDA JEAN KAIN.

MESSAGE TO SHIFT WEIGHT. Massage is the luxury way to avoid lines. If your figure runs to lumpy where smooth line should be, and if you take a lazy girl's view of exercise, it's your own choice.

A lump on the hip line makes a nice bit of padding for the hollows along the thigh-line and you can shift the subcutaneous fat to lovelier locations. But don't expect miracles. You cannot exceed your calorie limit and reduce by massage. Unless your massage is to do the reducing, you'll have to curb your calories.

Professional massage leaves you feeling like a million, and for the harassed business woman it's the best possible investment. With dividends in improvement to the figure, better circulation, and induced relaxation of the nerves and muscular systems. Also, in the case of extremely high blood pressure or a heart condition which restricts or prohibits exercise, massage is invaluable for toning the skin and musculature.

You can be your own masseuse if you like. It is amazing what you can do with your own fingers. Start at the base of the throat, lumps on the hips, and pendulous underarms.

Crackers Play House of David Today; Rookies Win, 12 to 5

--Getting Around Our Town--

This was at Poplar and Forsyth. There were quite a few of us watching. The dog had a leather collar on. He was all excited, trying to get through a revolving door.

Then he quit. He ran around the corner of the building. And across the street. He went against a red light.

A woman near me put her fist up to her mouth. And we all pulled in our breath as two cars swerved, barely missing him. He crouched, terror in his eyes. Then he made a run for it. A car almost got him. And the woman, with her knuckles against her lips, said, half audibly: "No, no."

He made the sidewalk and went back to the door and whined.

Some of us waited.

A boy about 17 came out. He had on wrinkled, white canvas pants and an old shirt. His face was pimpled and his eyes were hard.

The dog leaped up on him, wagging his tail.

"Get down, you," he said, and kicked the dog in the ribs.

They walked on down the street, the dog walking at his heels, wagging his tail.

"SECURITY? IT'S THE BUNK."

It was just down the street on Luckie and off Forsyth. She stood there with her cup. Her eyes were dull and fishy and sightless.

Now and then she moved her lips, mumbling something. The ragged teeth were black and reduced to stumps. Her dress and an old coat were shapeless and old and stringy.

Two men had just come out of a restaurant.

"He's ruining the country, I tell you."

"I know it. All this alphabet soup stuff."

"And all these taxes for social security and old-age pensions. That old-age security stuff. That's the bunk. Just a political stunt."

They walked on. They never even saw the old crone standing there, rattling a few pennies in her cup. The moral is, I guess, always put horse radish in your shrimp sauce.

OCTOPUS STEW.

In a delicatessen store window on Marietta near Broad is a dried octopus—all curled up. At least he was there yesterday. Today he may be in an octopus stew.

You take the dried octopus and put him in soak for a day. And then cut up the tentacles and put them in a stew with rice and tomatoes.

It's a great dish with some of our foreign population. They like the fresh octopus better. But dried octopus is better than no octopus at all. The taste is something like crab meat.

You shudder—at the thought of eating an octopus?

They join you in some shuddering. The people from the old country simply cannot understand how a people could have such depraved tastes in food as to eat frog legs—of all things—and what is even worse—

MOORE TO TEST THREE ROOKIES IN GAME TODAY

Maltzberger, Simons and Spikes to Divide Hurling Duties.

By Jack Troy.

PANAMA CITY, March 25.—Following a day and night of stormy weather, the Crackers were favored by a midsummer day today and made up for lost time.

Manager Eddie Moore took the regulars to the park at noon and sent them through a brisk two-hour workout preceding the Bluebird Panams City opener.

The regulars will make their debut in the Grapefruit league tomorrow afternoon against the bearded boys from the House of David.

Moore will let three rookies, Gordon Maltzberger, George Simons and O. C. Spikes, do the pitching. Paul Richards and Jim Galvin will handle the catching.

The remainder of the lineup that starts tomorrow will be closely the same as the one that will respond to the bell against Nashville on opening day in Atlanta, April 16.

ONLY LUBY NEW.

There will be an infield of Hooks, Hugh Luby, Buster Chatham and Johnny Hill. And an outfield including Emil Mullins, Marshall Mauldin and Big Joe Hutcheson.

As matters stand, Hutch is the only starter not certain of being in the starting lineup on opening day because the three fine rookie outfielders are still much in the race for the right-field position.

The regulars will close their second week of training in exhibition games with Panama City Saturday and Sunday.

Rookies will be thoroughly tested in all of the games. The first out, of course, is to be made known Sunday. Manager Moore knows rather well right now what players are to go and where they are to be placed.

Bluebirds Beat Panama City, 12-5.

PANAMA CITY, Fla., March 25.—The Crackers Bluebirds opened the exhibition season this afternoon with a smashing victory over the Panama City Pelicans, 12 to 5.

The only solace the Pelicans got out of the game was when Wilbur Cook, of Senoia, Ga., took his turn on the mound.

The Pelicans saw a lot of Cook last year and they were on him almost from the start. Cook managed to get them out of the first two innings and then they pounced upon him with great gusto, staging a four-run rally in the fifth inning.

HOME TEAM LEADS.

This enabled the home nine to take a brief one-run lead.

Cook turned back the Pelicans in the sixth after the Bluebirds had scored two more runs to take the lead again.

Lawrence Miller pitched the last three innings and he had figured in the big five-run closing rally in the ninth.

The Bluebirds, taking to the offense of a pitcher called Mae West like a duck takes to water, battered around the lineup in the ninth.

Catcher Ed Adams hit his second double of the game to clean the bases in the ninth. Miller tripled to score Adams and Harry Lavel singled to score Miller. That's how it was.

Frank Dolenc, brother-in-law of Emil Leonard, pitched the first three innings and looked good. He got a hit and scored a run. He held the Pelicans to one run and only two hits.

Cook was hardest hit, giving up seven safeties in his three innings. Miller allowed only one hit in the last three frames.

Andy Johnson, playing the full game, got two hits in five times up, one a double.

Red Pittman secured two singles, as did Norman Dewese, who belted a triple up against the centerfield fence.

Gerald McQuig, Marsh, Cook and Todd went hitless.

There was one great catch in the opening game.

Armstrong, Pelican leftfielder, went back to the fence on the dead run and robbed Dewese of at least a double.

The Crackers Bluebirds, as a whole, looked very good in clipping the Pelicans' wings. They set a very good example to the regulars who before long will be out there battling those New Orleans Pelicans. Young Dewey Williams did a fine job of catching the first five innings.

Adams, finishing up, supplies some very artistic stickwork by driving in four runs.

HENRY GETS 2 HITS.

Red Henry, who last year played for Warren, got two hits and handled the only two chances he got perfectly for the Pelicans.

Tom Oley, former Tech High boy, played fine ball at short. Ralph Bowen, ex-Oglethorpe star, did not have much work at second and went hitless.

Glenn Howell, another Atlanta boy, had a rest the time he played in right, no chances going his way. All three Atlanta boys are considered good prospects.

Doctors Report Today On John Michaels' Arm

Cracker Southpaw Here for Treatment—Mann Says Club Looks Good.

By Ralph McGill.

Not until today, after doctors have peered at X-rays and at John Michaels' arm, will it be known whether or not the southpaw pitcher will be ready to throw for the Crackers this season.

President Earl Mann arrived at 4 o'clock yesterday morning with John Michaels along. They spent yesterday with the doctors.

In fact, Earl Mann himself was about ready for the doctors after driving the "short route" back from Panama City. It includes a mere 100 miles of dirt road. "I feel," he said, "the short route has shortened my life."

Mann thinks the ball club looks fine.

"We've got a lot of fine young ball players," he said. "Some of them will be around this year. And some others will be back next year."

"And you should see Joe Hutcheson hit that ball. He's hitting as he did three years ago. I haven't seen him run any as yet. But he's a little slow. If he comes through with a load of power it will certainly help that ball club. We need some power. And with him hitting things would look good."

Mann believes the club is well balanced and should make a formidable contender in the race this year. He believes Michaels will be of great help to the team. "I think his arm will be found to be all right," he said. "At least we hope so."

Mann said the storm in Panama City was rather bad for a time but quickly over. He plans to return to the Cracker camp about Sunday or Monday.

"I am not going back the short route," he said.

The Crackers will leave camp on April 3 and will play in Lanette, Ala., on that afternoon. Their opponents will be the Lanette team, of which Joe Palmisano, former Cracker and Baron catcher, is manager.

The team will come on to Atlanta after the game, making their initial appearance of the 1935 season on Sunday afternoon.

CHICAGO FIGHT HOPES REVIVED

CHICAGO, March 25.—(AP)—Chicago's heavyweight title fight camp bounced back into action today after being pushed on the ropes by a series of litigation rights and legislative lefts.

Joe Foley, promoter for the scheduled championship bout June 22 at Comiskey park between Titleholder James J. Braddock and Challenger Joe Louis, is ready to meet the champion and his manager, Joe Gould, to select a training site.

A ray of sunshine in the form of a statement by Governor Henry Horner had dispensed most of the promoters' gloom engendered by the Illinois senate's passage of a bill for a $10 top on seats for a bout expected to have a $3.30 to $27.50 ticket scale.

Enactment of such a law, Foley contends, would drive the fight out of Chicago.

"There is apparently an effort in certain quarters, to discourage holding of the contest," the Governor said. "I seriously doubt that the action of the senate will have any effect on the holding of the contest. Nor do I expect the house to concur in the action of the senate."

"We are going right ahead with our plans to hold the contest," Foley said. "I think the Governor's statement takes care of the senate action. We couldn't stage the bout at $10 tops and expect to take care of Braddock's $500,000 guarantee and still have something left for our work."

Los Angeles Seeks Title Fight.

NEW YORK, March 25.—(UP)—Joe Levy, veteran Los Angeles promoter, announced tonight that he would try to shift the proposed Braddock-Louis title fight from Chicago to the Los Angeles coliseum in June.

Levy said "the organization which I represent is prepared to make Braddock and Louis just as good a proposition as the one they have in Chicago. Our organization, headed by E. V. O'Dowd, wealthy Los Angeles sportsman, has plenty of backing."

Textile Loop Meets Tonight at Scott's

An important meeting of the Georgia Textile baseball league will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at Trammell Scott's place on North Broad street.

A schedule will be adopted, with six teams making up the circuit.

East Thomaston, Silvertown, Georgia Kincaid, East Griffin, United States Royals, of Hogansville, and Callaway Mills, of LaGrange have definitely agreed to become members of the new league.

Fulton Bag had anticipated entering the league, but decided to confine its play in and around Atlanta.

Two games will be played on Thursday and Saturday, with Sunday games scheduled in towns where Sunday baseball is allowed.

Tech Golfers Play Benning Saturday

Georgia Tech's golf team will open its schedule in a double-header with Fort Benning officers at Columbus, Ga., Saturday afternoon. Both the varsity and freshman squads will make the trip Saturday morning.

A match set for this afternoon with Georgetown University, of Washington, D. C., on the East Lake course was canceled some time ago.

MEET POSTPONED.

JONESBORO, Ark., March 25.—(AP)—Coach Lowell Manning, of Jonesboro High school, announced today that a proposed mid-south high school basketball tournament, scheduled to open here today, had been postponed until April 1 and 2.

New Boxing Bill Ready for Rivers

Passed by both houses and sent to the Governor, a bill to set up a state boxing commission to supervise professional boxing and wrestling shows last night passed the Georgia legislature.

The Governor said he would sign the measure today or tomorrow. It was sponsored in the house by Representatives Girard Cohen, of Chatham county, and J. Verlyn Booth, of Barrow county, and in the senate by Senator Lee Furdum, of Blackshear.

The act creates a five-man commission, headed by a chairman who will receive $1,200 yearly. The executive secretary, who will devote his full time to the commission, will receive $2,400 yearly.

Governor Rivers said he does not expect to name the members of the commission for a week or ten days.

ATLANTA STARS ENTER TOURNEY HERE MONDAY

Grant, Courts, Boland, Enloe, Chambers, Crawford Ready to Play.

Local stars added to the already overwhelming list of tennis talent in the Atlanta invitational tournament to begin here on Monday next will make second-round play look like Forest Hills.

With seven of the first 20 ranking players entered in addition to the usual list which participates in a local meet, players ordinarily seeded will find themselves facing a Davis cup prospect at almost the outset of the tourney.

Malon Courts, Dr. Kels Boland, Red Enloe, Preston Chambers, Hal Crawford and all the rest will be on hand when hostilities begin at the Billmore Tennis Club.

First and second seeded players from Tech, Georgia and Emory are also included in the group.

Kid Seife, just 15, and Robert Decker, of Miami, Florida Junior

Leonard Celebrates 28th Birthday

PANAMA CITY, March 25.—Dutch Leonard, star Cracker pitcher, tonight celebrated his twenty-eighth birthday. Leonard was recipient of a number of presents and all the players who knew of the happy event were around to congratulate him.

Leonard expects to have one of his best years with the Crackers this summer.

Dorothy Kirby Loses to Marion Miley in Augusta Tourney

BABE DIDRIKSON AND MILEY MEET IN FINAL MATCH

Atlanta Beaten 3-2, as Cothran Bows to Professional Star.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 25.—(P)—Mildred Babe Didrikson, long-driving professional from Texas, and Marion Miley, of Lexington, Ky., will fight it out Saturday for the Augusta woman's invitational golf title in a pro-amateur final.

Miss Didrikson moved into the finals by defeating Jane Cothran, of Greenville, S. C., 2 and 1. Miss Miley, pretty amateur campaigner, upset Dorothy Kirby, Atlanta's school girl state champion, 3 and 2.

Miss Cothran went out of the running after making the turn one up. The Greenville girl was unable to match the long drives of her opponent and likewise failed to produce the needed iron work to keep her on even terms with the Beaumont girl.

Although she started 6-6-6, Miss Kirby was only one down going to the fourth as Miss Miley also and trouble with her woods. Miss Miley's margin soon was increased to three but Dorothy won the sixth and seventh and halved the ninth to make the turn one down.

After halving the 10th with five, Miss Miley went two up by winning the 11th as Miss Kirby needed a five to hole out.

They halved the 12th with sixes, but Miss Kirby got down in three to win the 13th. Miss Miley again went two up as she holed out in four on the 14th. She won the 15th with a par 3 and the match ended on the 16th as they holed out in fives.

Tomorrow the players will rest in observance of Good Friday, resuming play Saturday.

CASSIDY, LONDOS BATTLE TONIGHT

The boy with the wrestling name, Young Londos, who is able to back up that famous moniker with first-class science, makes his first Atlanta appearance in many months tonight when he grapples the current No. 1 in the light-heavyweight division, Mike Cassidy, Omaha terror. They meet at the Northside arena.

Londos, who went up the hard way (via the amateur ranks) and learned the fundamentals of the game in 1931, faces a stern task in his 1937 debut here. Cassidy won a recent wrestling royal, disposing of three men by himself, and then went on to defeat the popular clever Tarzan Jordan. Cassidy is a fragrant fouler and a good showman, and so far is unbeaten here.

The second bout of the three-match program will offer the fast and skillful Chin Lee against Sammy Miller, rugged Assyrian.

Another chest-expanding villain, Paddy Nolan, will carry his skill to Irish Killer, who will have his work cut out for him when he meets Bill Montana, a speedy shuffler from Buffalo. Fans are assured plenty of action and good wrestling. All three bouts are above par and combine to make up an unusual show.

Boys' High Golfers Play Athens Today

Boys' High's golf team will play its second match of the year at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon with Athens High as opponents, on the Druid Hills course.

The Purples defeated Newnan High on the Newnan course earlier in the week and hope to make it two in today's match.

"STARCH" SOAKED OUT OF WHISKERS

... when Lathered with WILLIAMS

"Twin-Action" Shaving Cream Softens Tough Skin Surface—Wilts Whiskers Down to Base

DON'T SAY, "OUCH," every time you shave—change to Williams! Pulling and scraping are caused by tough whiskers not properly softened. Williams "Twin-Action" Shaving Cream softens whiskers down to the base. Softens your scaly outer skin—allows blade to shave the toughest beard smoothly, without irritation.

Dash cool Aqua Velva on skin after shaving. Closes pores... fights off sore spots.

"WILD BILL" CUMMINGS, famous racing driver, winner of the Indianapolis Classic, says: "Ever since I first experimented with a shaving brush, I've used Williams. It's the only cream that wilts my whiskers thoroughly."

soup made with turtle meat. (Shudder. Shudder. Shudder.)

BACK TEN YEARS.

A street is being torn up for repairs. A pneumatic drill rattles.

The mind slips back 10 or 11 years to a freezing muddy plateau from which one looked down into a sink.

Down there men worked feverishly.

And the rattle of the drill went night and day.

They were trying to get a shaft down to where Floyd Collins was caught in a cave and was—even then—dead. But they did not know it.

And through all the years the sound of a drill in a city street brings back the picture of the mud and the barbed wire and the soldiers on guard. And the strange lights and the excitement. And the long waiting.

SCARLETT O'HARA.

Their nails were long and pointed and red.

They were sitting at a small, marble-topped table. Signs on the wall advertised milk shakes for five cents and toasted sandwiches, with potato chips, for 10 cents.

Their faces were small and their eyes were eager.

"Say," said the one with dark hair, "none of these Atlanta girls can play that part. That's all phoney stuff. But wouldn't you like to get one of those trials and the trips. Gee."

"I'll say they can't play it. You know who I want to see? I want to see Bankhead play it. She can do that part. Sadie wants to see Miriam Hopkins."

"There ain't but one man. That's Gable."

Thus does Scarlett O'Hara with her crinoline and her love affairs go back and forth across five-cent milk shakes and sandwiches, with potato chips, 10 cents.

LAUGH, CLOWN, LAUGH.

It was at the corner of Broad and Marietta.

He left a crowd where a pitchman was demonstrating a new glue and teetered to the edge of the sidewalk.

He was about 28. His hair was a bit sandy but almost white. His clothes were faded.

He was oblivious to all the world. He was laughing out loud as he stood there, quite drunk, and tried clumsily to direct traffic—waving it on.

Not 20 yards from him two policemen stood in deep conversation.

The light changed and the drunk wobbled out onto the street, steadied himself and weaved on across, still laughing at nothing at all.

"HE'S LOSING HIS MIND."

It was about dusk. The man stood there drinking a glass of beer. He had a small brown terrier on a lead.

He drank his beer and went on out, the dog trotting at his heels.

"See that guy," said the bartender, mopping his bar with an old wet cloth. "He had a trick dog. Had it for years. He was crazy about that dog. And it died the other night. I swear, I believe he's losing his mind, grieving about that dog. He's got this pup. But he told me tonight he just didn't have the heart to start teaching it anything. It's just like he had a ghost on that lead."

"It's tough to lose a good dog," said someone at the bar. "Yeah. It's tough. This guy is taking it bad."

Diary Reveals Agonizing Deaths By Cold, Hunger for Two Youths

Young Hunters Trapped in Canadian Wilds by Snow, Leave Tragic Account of Slow Starvation; Prayed God To Die.

HAVRE ST. PIERRE, Que., March 25.—(Canadian Press)—

Scrawled pages in a soggy diary found beside the frozen bodies of two youthful hunters in the snow-choked wilderness of northern Quebec revealed today a story of agonizing death from cold and starvation.

Death, encroaching slowly for days, wrote "finis" to the graphic record of the last days of Willie Collins, 23, and his brother, Edgar, 20, who were prevented by hunger and storms from returning to their home at Longue Point de Mingan. They left home last August.

The bodies, one in an old bunk, the other on the floor, were found by trappers in an abandoned cabin about three weeks ago.

An official of the attorney general's department, sent to investigate the deaths, found the diary, which disclosed the brothers had made the old shack into a camp to wait for a raging storm to abate. Then Willie cut his leg while chopping wood and was unable to walk.

New storms buried the bush lands and they could not make their way through heavy snow. Supplies were meager.

Writes of illness, cold.

The diary did not disclose how the youths spent their time in the woods from the middle of summer until Christmas, but they wrote constantly of illness, cold, hunger and thirst.

On January 26, Edgar wrote: "My very dear parents and friends, it is Edgar whose sad duty it is to tell you that the good blessed Virgin came from heaven last night to take

Soaks Whiskers Softer

A special homogenizing process gives Williams a greater capacity to hold water than ordinary cream. 1. Soaks the "starch" out of whiskers quickly. 2. Softens scaly outer skin—allows razor to shave off each hair at the base. Try a tube today.

FLASHES--- From Baseball Camps

YANK HOMERS BEAT BEES.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 25.—(P)—The New York Yankees turned to their speciality, home runs, to whip the Boston Bees for the fifth straight time today, 6-2. Bill Dickey and Tony Lazzeri contributed circuit

Sundra were limiting the Bees to four hits. George Selkirk, the Yankees' right fielder, ran wild on the bases stealing home runs and even singing in the sixth and then engineering a double steal with Babe Dahlgren to complete his trip around the bases.

VANDER MEER IS STAR. SEBRING, Fla., March 25.—(P)—Rookie pitcher Johnny Vander Meer and Lloyd Moore, who manager Charles Dressen hopes will make the major league grade this season, held Newark of the International league to four hits today to give Cincinnati a 1-to-0 exhibition game victory.

All the Cincinnati hits were made by rookies. Vander Meer contributing a two-run homer, and Lloyd Moore was strike-out king of the minor leagues last year.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 25.—(P)—Postmaster General James A. Farley watched from a box today as the Cleveland Indians walloped the New Orleans Pelicans, 8 to 1, in a training camp exhibition game.

Manager Steve O'Neill, of the Yankees, sat with Farley, but his eyes followed closely the performances of Mel Harder and Earl Whitehill on the pitcher's mound.

Harder allowed three hits in as many at-bats, but he struck out many batters. Whitehill gave a pair of hits in three innings. Hal Trosky, Indians first sacker, rifled a home run in the sixth with two mates on the runways.

KUHEL INJURED BY PITCHER. WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., March 25.—(P)—The Washington Senators, helped by the six-inning, no-hit pitching of Ed Linke, pulled out of a hole today to defeat Baltimore of the International league, 6 to 4.

The game was marred by injury of First Baseman Joe Kuhel, of the Senators. Kuhel was struck behind the right ear by a ball pitched to first in the seventh inning. His injury was said not to be serious.

CUBS, SOX CLASH TODAY. AVALON, Cal., March 25.—(P)—After two weeks of some of the worst training camp weather the club ever has experienced, the Chicago Cubs headed tonight for Los Angeles and their battle tomorrow with an old rival, the Chicago White Sox. Larry French will start on the hill for the Bruins, with Roy Parmelee scheduled to finish.

DAVIS HAS PERFECT DAY. LOCKHART, Texas, March 25.—(P)—The Browns' Regulars, under direction of Manager Rogers Hornsby, away my dear brother, Willie, about 11 o'clock.

"Dear God, I don't know what to do with myself. I can't sleep now. I have eaten only once in three days. I can hardly cut wood because I'm just able to lift the ax. Oh, God, maybe in a few days the Blessed Virgin will come for me. Do not fear for us, dear parents, we have gone through too much not to be saved."

"I wish you good night now. I no longer can see the date on the page. Whatever date is missing from this notebook will be the day good Saint Anne came for me. I am saying my Rosary. I cry and sigh and am trembling with cold. Edgar."

That was the last entry in the diary.

Heavy Snowstorms.

The first was December 24. The next day, Christmas, told of "heavy snowstorm, very cold."

A week later Willie wrote he "ended this unlucky year by cutting my foot."

Extracts from entries in succeeding weeks in January said: "Still snowing. . . . We are getting weaker every day. . . . Oh, God, how miserable life is to us. . . . For days now we have eaten only (flour and water) cakes. . . . we are very weak."

The entry of January 18 said: "What a sad sight we are, Willie especially. He is almost dead. . . . haven't eaten for two days. . . . an other day and no one came to our rescue. . . . we grow weaker every day and have no more flesh on our bodies. . . . we think only of death."

BIRMINGHAM BEATS BARONS. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 25.—(P)—Failure to hit in the pinches and erratic play afield brought a first setback down on the heads of the Birmingham Barons here today. The Barons of the East Alabama Industrial league, checked the locals, 4-1, rapping Cy Moore and Art Jones for nine hits while their hurlers were limiting the Barons to eight safeties, well scattered.

Joseph Daniels, United States ambassador to Mexico, was a spectator. Scores by innings: 110 100 200-8 12 1 All-Stars 100 000 101-3 10 0 Batteries: Thomas, Carter and Brucker; Moses, Dee, Lee and Martinez.

FORD TO HEAD WEST END CLUB. Paul B. Ford, well-known Atlanta businessman and sportsman, was elected president of the West End Golf Club at the annual meeting and election of officers Thursday night at the club on Donnelly avenue. Ford was elected to a full term, after having served several months last year, following the resignation of W. A. Lynn.

A. J. (Goot) Cochran was elected vice president and G. E. Merritt was named secretary. C. C. Chamberlin was re-elected treasurer and given a vote of thanks for his valuable service during the past few years.

The board of directors include C. E. Bettell, B. F. Duncan, R. J. Ward, H. C. Chambers, A. J. Kaiser and C. L. Shaw.

President Ford, in co-operation with the board of directors, will name the chairman of the various committees and the chairman will select two assistants for each committee.

Reports of all committees showed the club to be in much better condition than during the past few years and prospects for an even greater year than last.

A record attendance was present for the annual meeting and A. J. Cochran and Jim Thomas were hosts at a fish fry just before the business session began.

Max Pittard and W. W. Burns, former presidents of the club, were honor guests and made brief talks.

In a preliminary to the annual meeting, Charlie Edwards shot a 69 and paired with W. A. Lynn, defeated Lamar Shacklett and Curt Bettell, one up. Edwards shot six consecutive pars on the back nine to pull the match from defeat to victory.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 25.—(P)—A bill legalizing sale of 3.2 per cent beer in Kansas, constitutionally dry since 1881, received final legislative approval today after the protest of the men whose name it bore as co-authors.

The measure, as introduced by Representatives George W. Plummer and Chris F. Schrepel, barred the sale of beverages with any alcoholic content. The senate amended it to define 3.2 per cent malt beverages as non-intoxicating and therefore constitutionally legal.

The house accepted the senate amendment by a vote of 75 to 36, defeating Plummer's motion that his name and Schrepel's be removed as authors of the measure. The bill was sent to Governor Walter A. Huxman, who repeatedly has said he would sign such a measure.

MONEY BILLS MOVE IN SOUTH CAROLINA. COLUMBIA, S. C., March 25.—(P)—Appropriations and social security, the general assembly's major problems, were just a step away from free conference committees today after swift action by the senate on the money bill.

Senators passed on third reading and ordered returned to the house with amendments the general appropriation bill after reducing it $14,510 from the total recommended by the finance committee to $10,814,029.11. As passed by the house early in February it stood at $20,588,820.

The senate also amended the $1,045,000 house social security bill on third reading to transform it into the senate-approved $2,000,000 relief program. It failed, however, to vote final approval and sent the measure back to the house.

At present the Vols have only two rookies—Rae Blaemire and Stuart Hofferth—behind the mask, but previously had indicated the club would rely on them this season.

Nashville also expects a class pitcher from the Reds, which, Manager Lance Richbourg figures, would fix the team for the impending race.

ROCKS TO BE "BALANCED." LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 25.—(P)—Manager Doc Prothro said today his first-string pitchers would present a well-balanced hurling corps this summer but probably no outstanding performers.

Class A pitchers won't measure up to those of other teams," he said, "but I believe my Class B men will be better than anything in the league."

SMOKIES FAIL TO SCORE. CORDELE, Ga., March 25.—(P)—Due to the effective pitching of three rookie hurlers the Knoxville Smokies' first-string intrasquad practice game ended scoreless at the end of six innings today.

Pete Center, tall right-hander from Hazel Green, Ky.; Frank Hudson, southpaw from Beckley, W. Va.; and Douglas Ivy held the Smoky batters to six safe hits. Hudson gave the best performance, striking out six men.

Lefty Smith, outfielder, was the only regular to get a hit.

took advantage of Pitcher Sigmund Jakucki's wildness today and scored a 2-to-2 victory over the Birmingham Yankigans in a club practice game.

VOLS SEEK RED CATCHER. TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 25.—(P)—The Florida club officials let it be known today they are expecting a first-string catcher from the Cincinnati Reds and that it probably would be Des Moore, versatile young Texas ball player.

At present the Vols have only two rookies—Rae Blaemire and Stuart Hofferth—behind the mask, but previously had indicated the club would rely on them this season.

COLUMBUS BEATS CARDS. LELAND, Fla., March 25.—(P)—The St. Louis Cardinals dropped a 10-inning decision today to Columbus of the American association, 4 to 3. The Cards broke a 2-to-2 tie with a run in the tenth inning but the major leaguers' farm club bounced back in the last half with two.

PIRATES DEFEAT CHISOX. LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 25.—(P)—A four-run blast in the fifth inning with Fred Schulte and Wilbur Brubaker hitting home runs, gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 6-to-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox in an exhibition tussle today.

LAKELAND FLIES, March 25.—(P)—Van Mungo and Max Butcher bunted the Brooklyn Dodgers to an 8 to 3 triumph over the Detroit Tigers, today. The Dodgers collected 10 hits off the offerings of Dizzy Trout, Vic Sorrell, and George Gill, with Butcher contributing the longest blow of the game, a homer to center in the second.

The Dodgers' second team defeated the Louisville club of the American association, 12-1, in a game at Arcadia, Fla., today.

HOLBROOK SIGNS CONTRACT. SANFORD, Fla., March 25.—(P)—The signing of Sam Holbrook to a Lookout contract today resulted in an announcement by President Calvin Griffith, that "everybody's signed now."

Clyde Milan, Chattanooga manager, talked about his team today as it engaged in batting practice. He said the 1937 Lookouts appear to be "excellent material for a good base-running team." "We should run some outfielders crazy this year."

GROUNDERS TAGS MOSES. MEXICO CITY, March 25.—(P)—The tail-end of the Philadelphia Athletics' batting order, Brucker, Peters and Newsome, did the heavy clubbing as the Mexican All-Stars were subjected to an 8-to-3 setback in today's exhibition tussle. The trio made eight of the A's 12 hits. Brucker and Peters each collecting three.

Wally Moses, A's slugging outfielder, was hit on the knee by a hard grounder and had to leave the game.

Final Match Saturday Should Be a Thriller

By Dorothy Kirby

FOREST HILLS HOTEL, AUGUSTA, Ga., March 25.—What a round I did play today! I lost to Marion Miley, 3 and 2. I believe I could count on one hand the number of times I was in the fairway, but that seems to be the way it goes. Sometimes you've got it and other times you couldn't first anything if your life depended on it.

Instead of the rain, the wind decided to blow, and it really blew. I lost three out of the first five holes and then managed to make a slight comeback and get it down to just one down at the end of the eighth hole and we halved the ninth. Marion was not playing so well either. We were both a trifle wild.

Marion plays Babe Didrikson in the finals Saturday afternoon and this promises to be some match, for the Babe is really hitting the ball. She won from Jane Cothran today.

The Babe is the longest woman driver I've ever seen. I thought Jane Cothran hit a pretty long ball, but I hadn't seen anything until I saw the Babe smack one.

At any rate, I have the match with Bobby tomorrow afternoon to look forward to and also the exhibition match with Patty, the Babe and Helen Hicks Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Manice has asked all the golfers out to her house for a barbecue tonight so I think I'll do all right by that. The girls get a chance to see the match tomorrow on account of Good Friday. They have played all of the matches in the afternoon so the people in the hotel could have a chance to play. There was a driving contest held this morning and naturally it was won by the Babe and Marion Miley was second.

One Hundred Ten Pair Bowlers Signed for Saturday Meet

RECORD CERTAIN TO BE SMASHED, 130 ARE EXPECTED

Entries May Bowl at 12, 2, 5 or 7:30 O'clock.

One hundred and ten pairs of bowlers are already signed for the fifth annual Atlanta Constitution doubles tournament that will be bowled on the downtown alleys Saturday and 20 more couples are expected to sign before the bowling gets under way at noon Saturday.

Four different times have been scheduled for the bowling of the tournament, and the bowlers may choose the time most convenient to them in which to roll their five games. The games may be bowled at either 12 o'clock (noon), 2 or 5 o'clock in the afternoon or at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. The noon shift is a new addition, anticipating a new record entry for the meet.

George (Tubby) Small, who was paired with John Conyers to win the initial staging of this colorful and popular tournament, arrived here Thursday afternoon and was scheduled to practice with his colleague preparatory to their attempt to annex another championship. Small traveled all the way from Harrison, N. J., in order to keep his record clear for bowling in each and every one of The Constitution tournaments with the same partner.

Bowlers from the Bell System, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Federal and WPA leagues were among those who signed for the tournament Thursday. The new entries include Columbus Jones, Ed Hopkins, Roger De Leon-Harry J. Keene, Joe Lewandowski, E. E. Fuller, J. H. Haire-F. R. (Shorty) Gessner, R. L. McDougall, John J. Lambert and an all-star golf doubles team composed of two Junior Chamber of Commerce bowlers, Charlie Yates-Forest Fowler.

Every bowler in the state of Georgia is eligible to participate in this tournament which is rated as the most popular doubles event of the season on the Atlanta alleys and is likely to set a new all-southern record if entries continue to pour in as they have championship with a record-breaking 67 Tuesday, which Denny Shute, West Newton, Mass., equaled the same day and Ed Dudley, Augusta, Ga., tied Wednesday. His four-round scores were 67-73-77-69 and they brought him the $1,000 first prize. Runyan's 69-73-71-76—289 was worth $800 second place cash.

Third place went to Byron Nelson, Reading, Penn., pro, with 292. He set the pace for the first two rounds with 139, but faltered today with 78-75 in the final 36 holes.

Harry Cooper, Chicago pro, and Ed Dudley, Augusta money shooter, wound up in a tie for fourth place with 294, while four professionals—Jimmie Hines, Garden City, N. Y.; Bill Moshorn, Louisville; Ralph Guldahl, Chicago; and Henry Picard, last year's champion from Hershey, Pa., finished in a deadlock for sixth position with 295.

Bob Cruikshank, tiny Richmond Scott, had 296, while Shute, who hasn't hit the ball well since opening day, and Ky Laffoon, Chicago, were together at 297. Craig Wood, New York, an early leader, was back at 301, while Tony Manero, Salem, Mass., national open title holder, had 302.

The veteran Gene Sarazen, Brookfield Center, Conn., had 310 and Jimmy Thomson, Shawnee-on-Deleware, Pa., who was runner up for the professional golfer's association title that Shute won last November, was back at 311; both were way out of the money.

Frank Strafaci, young Brooklyn amateur who once won the national public links championship, was low amateur with 73-78-76-80.

FINED $100.

NEW YORK, March 25.—(UP)—Dit Clapper, of the Boston Bruins hockey team, today was fined $100 and warned that "any further misconduct during the present series will lead to suspension." Clapper, during a fight, struck Referee Campbell.

Jackets Face Bad Year On Track

By the Associated Press.

Scholastic difficulties and graduation ziddled Georgia Tech's track squad down to the point where Coach George Griffin says prospects are the "poorest in years."

The biggest blow came when Percin Walker was dropped because of scholastic troubles. Walker is conference champion in the 100 and 220-yard dashes and holds the Southeastern record of 9.6 in the century. Also missing are Ben Jones and Doyle Butler, both fine high jumpers, and Pearce, a distance runner.

Georgia Tech scored 21 points in the last conference meet. Walker won 10 of them. Sun Dial Martin collected five in the javelin and Jack West got one in the mile run. The latter two graduated.

Returning, however, is Chick Aldridge, a great two-miler who holds the conference championship in that event with a time of 9:57.8. Coach Griffin has two sophomores upon whom he places much reliance. They are Charles Belcher, who ran the quarter-mile in 49.5, and Tom Jones, a good dash man.

Marion (Dutch) Konemann, the all-Southeastern football player, may go well in tossing the javelin.

"We haven't got much to go on this year," said Griffin. "The outlook is very poor. Those four men are about all we have. Aldridge should win his specialty and Belcher and Jones may win some points. We've been practicing nearly a month but hopes are slim."

SCHEDULE: April 3 Clemson in Atlanta; April 10, Alabama in Tusculum; April 17, Florida in Atlanta; April 24, Vanderbilt in Nashville; May 1, Georgia in Atlanta; May 8, Auburn in Auburn.

SECOND STRAIGHT.

NEW YORK, March 25.—(AP)—Mrs. F. Rossiter's 5-year-old Marson, which earned a total of $30 last year and failed to win a race in eight starts, took his second straight victory in the Le Jeune handicap of six furlongs at Tropical park.

GRANT DECLINES OPENING ROUND OF DAVIS PLAY

California Stars Likely To Face Japan in April.

NEW YORK, March 25.—(AP)—Indications that California's sons would bear the brunt of the United States Davis cup burden in the opening round matches with Japan were given today when Bryan M. "Bixy" Grant Jr. announced in Atlanta, Ga., that he would not seek a place on the team that meets the Japanese.

In addition to Grant, invitations were sent by Walter Pate, chairman of the Davis cup committee, to J. Donald Budge, of Oakland, Cal.; Frank Parker, of New York, Spring Lake, N. J., and Milwaukee, Wis.; Robert L. Riggs, Joseph R. Hunt and C. Gene Mako, of Los Angeles, and Sidney B. Wood Jr., of New York.

Budge's assignment to the No. 1 singles post is the only thing that has yet about the makeup of the American team for the matches with Japan, which probably will be played in San Francisco late in April.

Pate, who said he was "disappointed" that Grant would be unable to make the trip but understood that business made it virtually impossible for the diminutive Atlantian to do so, added that Budge might be paired in doubles with Mako.

Grant will join the squad in New York in May to practice for the matches with Australia at Forest Hills—provided, of course, the team eliminates Japan.

"If Bixy went to California and we defeated both Japan and Australia, and then sent the team to Europe, it would mean that he would be away from home for a long time, some time in July. I didn't feel that we could ask him to do that, especially since his employers did not want him to leave at that time."

"I just don't want to play too much tennis before the trials for the Australian matches," Grant said in explaining his decision not to go to California.

The diminutive Atlantian net star said he also preferred not to play on the asphalt courts in California and then go east for the Australian trials on grass.

Grant, who has defeated Don Dudge, the nation's ranking player, in two out of three tournaments this year, will enter an invitation affair in Atlanta next week and play in the Houston (Texas) tournament the following week.

COLLEGE SWIM MEET TO OPEN

MINNEAPOLIS, March 25.—(AP)—The great collection of swimming celebrities assembled since last year's Olympics, start competition tomorrow in the two-day 14th annual intercollegiate championships at the University of Minnesota.

Twenty-six colleges and universities have entered ace swimmers in an effort to dethrone the University of Michigan as national champion, and collect glory in individual performances.

With the cream of college competitors vying, officials anticipate possible liquidation of many records.

Michigan's powerhouse, which already has repeated as the western conference champion this season, boasts a strong array of talent, and is a big favorite to retain its title. Yale, the University of Texas, and others promise to furnish plenty of opposition.

In addition teams from the following will participate: Iowa State, Michigan State, Rutgers, University of Pennsylvania, Massachusetts State, Dartmouth, Princeton, Minnesota, Iowa, Chicago, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Ohio State, Northwestern, Carleton, University of Nebraska, Washington University, Stanford, University of Southern California, University of Colorado, Colorado School of Mines and Bowdoin.

PETRELS BEATEN BY BUFORD, 14-4

Buford, Ga., March 25.—Buford's Shenakeners opened their baseball schedule with a seven-inning 14-to-4 victory over Frank Anderson's Oglethorpe Petrels here this afternoon.

Four Buford pitchers, Dunaway, Bassett, Nix and Harrell, limited Oglethorpe to eight widely scattered hits.

Coach Anderson used four pitchers, but was unable to stem the tide of Buford hits, particularly in the last two innings.

Baxter and Jeter led the attack for Buford, while Paulk hit best for Oglethorpe.

CAPITAL CITY HAS FINE DAY

Capital City golfers took advantage of the fine weather Thursday afternoon and turned in the best group of scores made this year.

Charlie Dannals Jr., who shares the course record with five others, was low with a 72. 1 stroke over par.

Dannals found trouble in two greens, where he three-putted.

Dan Sage Jr. and Bobby Dodd, Georgia Tech backfield coach, followed Dannals 1 stroke with 73's. Carroll Latimer had a 74.

Those were some of the best scores, although many others played during the afternoon.

Britons Okay Bout Between Baer, Farr

LONDON, March 25.—(AP)—The British board of boxing control today declined to interfere with Max Baer's bout with Tommy Farr, Welsh holder of the Tommy Farr heavyweight championship, April 15. The New York State Athletic Commission had asked British authorities to prevent Baer from fighting in England on the grounds that he had run out of a contract to fight Bob Pastor for Madison Square Garden.

Luttrell Meets Hagen On Mat Here Tonight

Cowboy Luttrell, who baits the fans, rebels against all that is law and order and lives to tell the story, tonight holds the spotlight on Frank Speer's weekly heavyweight mat show at the Atlanta theater.

George Hagen, who was king of the U. S. marines for six years, has been assigned the unpleasant task of opposing the Texas bone-crusher in a two-out-of-three fall, 30-minute match.

Tonight's match offers unlimited possibilities. They met before—some four or five weeks ago—and after a wild, rough and tumble affair that had the fans in a riotous mood and police in the ring after the villainous Luttrell, the athletic commission went into a huddle and later announced that the referee's decision awarding the second fall to Luttrell had been reversed and that Hagen had won the match.

Of course Luttrell was mad with anger. But it didn't do him any good.

He finally has succeeded in obtaining this return match with the ex-marine, but it may not work out as Cowboy would have it. Hagen is a most formidable foe, particularly when aroused.

At any rate, fans know they are in for excitement. This Luttrell, with all his faults, could never be called a dull performer.

Close behind as an attraction is the Alabama Bill Lee-Whitey Hewitt semi-final. Lee has whipped every foe yet put in the ring with him and seems definitely on his way to the title, or a title chance. Tonight he seeks his 40th consecutive victory. Hewitt is also a villain of some renown and is a real test for the former All-American.

Tommy O'Toole, 230-pound Irish lad, will meet Roy Graham, powerful Philadelphia, in the 30-minute opener at 7:30. Popular prices will be featured.

In a conference with Garden Manager George V. Brown, Mrs. Jarrett, trim brunette wife of an orchestra leader, discussed terms for an appearance with the "Water Folies of 1937" scheduled to start April 8.

COLUMBIA EDUCATOR OPPOSES COURT PLAN AT SENATE HEARINGS

Smith, Ex-Atlanta Attorney, Admits Rulings Have Been Unsatisfactory.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP) Young B. Smith, former practicing attorney, of Atlanta, and now dean of the faculty of law, Columbia University, New York, today told the senate judiciary committee, during hearings on the President's bill to reorganize the supreme court, that he opposed the measure in order to protect democracy against itself.

Admitting that recent interpretations of the constitution by a majority of the supreme court in certain cases had created a situation that was manifestly unsatisfactory, he said that such a condition called for corrective action.

After naming four objections to Mr. Roosevelt's proposal, Smith insisted that nothing short of a constitutional amendment would avoid them. His objections were: (1) There is no certainty of what will be the result if the proposal is adopted; (2) even if the adoption of the proposal corrected the present situation, it would establish no definite policy regarding the retirement of justices in the future; (3) adoption of the proposal, in the present circumstances, would threaten the independence of the supreme court and might permanently impair the confidence of the people in the court; and (4) the proposal is designed to bring about fundamental changes in the federal system without submitting the question to the people.

Specified Age. Smith's proposed amendment would fix the tenure of justices by requiring them to retire at a specified age.

"Many amendments have been suggested," he declared. "Some of them are concerned with the powers of congress; some of them are concerned with the powers of the states. Proposals such as these involve large issues of policy, and undoubtedly would require a considerable time for action by the people. Moreover, some of them involve such difficulties in drafting that it would greatly delay their submission to the people."

"But an amendment to deal with the specific issue before this committee now can be drafted with ease, and can be stated in simple language, and can be acted upon promptly."

He explained that whether his amendment fixed the age at 70 or 75 would not be a matter of controlling importance, but that he himself preferred 75.

"Such an amendment," he asserted, "would more surely correct the present situation than would the pending proposal, and would avoid its objectionable features. It would provide the immediate relief that is needed, and at the same time establish a precedent against congress and the executive, without an amendment adding new justices to the court because they disagree with its decisions."

Infusion of New Blood. "Such an amendment would not change the number of justices but it would result in an infusion of new blood into the court now, as well as establish a definite policy for the retirement of justices in the future."

Commenting on the claims of proponents of the proposal that the election returns last November were a mandate to bring about court reform, he pointed out that the voters had no difficulty in obtaining an amendment expressly authorizing it.

"Certainly," he added, "the submission of an amendment would definitely reveal how the American people feel about the court issue which would be an excellent guide for future action. Such submission would take an issue regarding the court out of congress and place it before the American people where it belongs."

In order that his views on the court issue might not be misinterpreted, Dean Smith prefaced his remarks by saying that he was in sympathy with the general aims of the present administration; that he was convinced of the grave problems which confront the nation; that he voted for President Roosevelt for Governor of New York; that he voted for him as President in 1932 and again in 1936; and that present conditions required not only many readjustments in the social structure but also the revision of many of our laws and the reorganization of much of our governmental machinery.

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

You both start saying, "Well, good-by," at once.

Sometimes it really gets embarrassing when two people keep saying the same thing at exactly the same time. "Well, good-by," is one of those remarks that always seems to hit both parties at once. Then each of you tries to pretend you didn't say it the first time, and pretty soon you're both giving the refrain over again in unison.

"Hello, how are you?" is the same way. You start it in chorus. Then both of you blush, and both of you say, exactly together as though you had practiced it on a vaudeville stage.

"Oh, I'm fine, thank you, and you both blush, and then you can't either one of you think of anything more to say.

The best way to snap out of these little choruses is to treat them very seriously. After you've both chirped in unison "Hello, how are you?" then one of you should start beating time, so that you make no mistakes in giving the answer in unison. Or you could just say, "One, two, three, all together now, Oh, I'm fine, thanks." Taking it seriously will be sure to break the spell. We've never yet seen amateurs who try to repeat things in unison succeed at it.

CHECK PASSER SENTENCED. NEW YORK, March 25.—(AP) George A. Baker, 42, of Opelika, Ala., was sentenced today to serve five to ten years in prison on his plea of guilty to forgery charges. He was arrested last January 4 when, police said, he attempted to pass a worthless check in the Bronx.

We Can't Take Loan, Amish Say to PWA

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP) A little band of Pennsylvania "plain people," garbed in the somber clothes of their religious faiths, demanded a federal court today that the government stop trying to lead them money.

They are Amish, Mennonite and Dunkard residents of the East Liverpool township school district, here in an effort to block a $66,250 public Works Administration loan for a consolidated school.

The attorney, John N. Landberg, of Philadelphia, said the township school directors had accepted the money as a grant, "but these people and the law call it a loan and they don't want it." He explained that the faiths of the three sects forbade acceptance of a loan and opposed their children riding to the consolidated school in buses.

Hollywood Today

By SHELIAH GRAHAM.

—Interview with Miriam Hopkins— HOLLYWOOD, March 25.—Directors are important in Miriam Hopkins' life—professionally and privately. Privately, because she is enamored of Director Anton Litvak—professionally, because—"If the director is good, the film will follow suit. He is more important than star or story. His direction can make or break a star. As for the story, a good director rarely accepts a bad script."

Miss Hopkins is inclined to be a nuisance on the set when she feels the director assigned her is incompetent. She then directs the director—and some of them do not like it. "The director usually goes home 'sick' and staying 'sick' until the director comes round to her way of thinking. The actress rates directors as follows: Rouben Mamoulian "good," Ernst Lubitsch "excellent." And Anton Litvak "wonderful." Miss Hopkins, who makes a point of failing in love with her good directors, has been romancing with Litvak since he megaphoned her picture, "The Woman I Love," in which she co-stars with Paul Muni. Hollywood momentarily expects the announcement of their engagement and marriage.

"I have no patience with women who marry solely to be married and to have a home," Miriam stated. "The woman with a career rarely marries with this ax to grind, but she usually needs a husband more than the non-working, non-self-supporting type. She needs masculine tenderness and understanding—someone in her home with whom to talk things over. Someone whose companionship will relax her mind, balance her working life and keep it from being barren and stale."

When pressed for her own matrimonial intentions, Careerist Hopkins fluttered hands helplessly and murmured: "I don't know. I may never marry again. I just don't know." (Miriam was married to writer Austin Parker, from whom she was divorced several years ago.)

Chief factor in the actress' indecision regarding another mate is her businesslike thoroughness with everything she does. And she is too busy at this time to be able to give marriage the necessary thought and time.

The most important "chore" apart from picture-making, is adopted son, Michael, whom she rescued from anonymity in Chicago's "Cradle" three and a half years ago when aged a few months.

"Michael didn't see a doctor until last year, when he suffered a slight cold," said his foster mother proudly. "Miss Hopkins personally attends to Michael's diet and exercise, employing a capable German nurse to carry out her plans. With a permanent healthy home for Michael in mind, the actress recently purchased the mansion of the late John Gilbert in Beverly Hills at a cost of $42,000. "Michael is going to school now, and I think it is bad for him to travel around so much."

Miss Hopkins, who prefers New York to Hollywood, dislikes those who say they dislike Hollywood.

"Why do they stay here?" she wants explained. "New York, in which I have a house, and all my pictures and books, will always be my favorite city. (She was born in Bainbridge, Ga.) But Hollywood has its charm—tennis, sunshine, amusing people and lots of bachelors of the caliber of George Gershwin to act as spare men at dinner parties." Miriam's only current grouse against the film city is rising at 6:30 a. m. while picture-making.

Her future plans are a trifle vague. She is leaving herself open to accept the role of Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind," should it be offered her, and it will be if fans have any say in the matter.

Among other films, Miss Hopkins starred in "Trouble in Paradise," "Design for Living," "Becky Sharp," "Barbary Coast," "These Three," and her present film for Samuel Goldwyn, "Woman Chases Man," in which the leading man is Joel McCrea, with whom she has appeared five times within two years.

"I like Joel very much," admitted Miriam. "But I think it a mistake to be coupled with him so often. The public will get tired." Are you? Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution.)

Ed Stole Banjo Because Owner Couldn't Play It

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 25.—(AP) Celebrations, Edward Buzzard reflected in jail today, are like indiscreet banjo strumming—they can go too far.

Haled into court charged with stealing a neighbor's banjo, Buzzard struck a sympathetic chord with City Judge Robert J. Summers with this plea: "I just wanted to hide it. That guy couldn't play the banjo. He couldn't even sing. But he picked away far into the night and all day Sunday."

"You have been tortured indefinitely," the judge said, suspending sentence.

Buzzard's triumph was short-lived. A few hours later he was back in court and drew a one-month sentence on a plea of guilty to drunkenness, the outcome of over-enthusiastic celebration.

Contract Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, "The Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

REBIDS—GAME ZONE. Situation: Either partner makes a response which is forcing to game, or opener is so strong that game is possible even if responder has a weak hand.

Object: Security. The opener's first thought is to make certain the bidding will not be dropped short of game. If the response was forcing to game, the opener should simply make the rebid which best shows the strength and distribution of his hand. If the response is not forcing to game, the opener makes a forcing rebid by jumping one trick in a new suit, or bids game immediately in a suit or no trump.

Slam Zone. This does not mean a slam must surely be bid, but that the opener wishes to explore the slam possibilities before contenting himself with a game contract. The opener tries to make some bid which will not risk having the bidding dropped at game, and which will either give partner as much information as possible or coax some desired information from partner.

TODAY'S HAND. North, dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
4 no-trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

North's last bid was bad. He should have bid five clubs.

The opening lead of a low diamond, ducked in dummy, was conceded to East's ten spot, declarer not daring to shorten himself at this stage. The heart return, won by dummy's ace, was followed by the eight of spades. East held off, and the queen of spades then was offered him as bait. East again refused to give up his ace. Had he done so, the contract would have become a laydown. A heart return could have been ruffed in dummy, and club led to declarer's king. East's two remaining trumps then would have been drawn, and the solid club suit run off. Or, if East had taken the ace and ruffed, East would ruff the second round, lead the ace of spades, drawing dummy's last trump, and cash the heart king.

With East holding up the ace, however, declarer was quite helpless. A third round of spades would have incurred this defense: East would win and would cash his heart king for the high trick. The diamond ace then would either win on the spot or, if ruffed, would assure East of another trump trick. Club leads would be equally fatal. East would ruff the second round, lead the ace of spades, drawing dummy's last trump, and cash the heart king.

East's holdup should be studied as a "type" play. With tricks available only after the dummy has been denuded of trumps, the defender must conserve his ace until he, and not declarer, can control the trump situation. In almost all cases of a similar nature it will be found that, with three trumps in the dummy and four, including the ace, in the defender's hand, it is precisely the third round on which the ace should be accepted.

TODAY'S QUESTION: Question: Is one diamond or one no trump the correct opening bid on the following:

A J 7 ♥ K 8 ♦ A 10 7 5 ♣ Q J 7

Answer: One no trump.

TOMORROW'S HAND. North, dealer. East would ruff the second round, lead the ace of spades, drawing dummy's last trump, and cash the heart king.

MAYOR WHO FIGHTS UTILITIES QUITS JAIL

Huntington, Ind., Official Is Free Man First Time in Nine Months.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., March 25.—(AP) —Huntington's utility-fighting mayor, the slightly built, soft-spoken Clare W. H. Bangs, was out of jail tonight—a free man for the first time in nearly nine months.

"This place has come to seem like home," he said as he left the Huntington county jail, freed by an order of Special Judge Huber M. Devore. "But I'll be mighty glad to spend a night at my real home again."

Mayor Bangs went to jail last July 8 for contempt of court because he defied a court order to disconnect private and commercial consumers from his municipal light plant. Today Judge Devore ordered the mayor's release "until further orders" after being informed that all commercial consumers had been disconnected from the municipal plant.

The mayor said the "until further orders" clause was contained in the release because officials of the Northern Indiana Power Company feared he might connect commercial patrons with the city plant again.

"We have no intention of hooking them up again until there is a final adjudication of the case," the mayor said.

As Bangs left the jail he said he was prepared to continue his fight to establish the municipal utility and to hold office as mayor in the face of his conviction by the city council of misconduct in office.

They Will Float Through the Air---

Atlantans in the vicinity of Piedmont park will not be having hal-lucinations tomorrow morning if they see the air full of peculiar looking objects of all shapes, sorts, sizes and descriptions.

It will be the city-wide kite tournament being sponsored by the WPA recreation division under sponsorship of the Atlanta parks department.

Contestants will be drawn from all playgrounds of the city and will be praying for waiting winds on the parade ground at Piedmont park. Contestants will be allowed to enter one or more kites in the contest, and must file their entries before noon today at Room 601, city hall. Approximately 200 are expected to participate in the contest.

Hollywood Gossip Says: John Has Another Girl

HOLLYWOOD, March 25.—(AP) Guess what? Said the gossips today, John Barrymore has another girl friend.

While Hollywood still was wondering whether the profiled 55-year-old actor would become reconciled with his third bride, young Elaine Barrie, he appeared at a film preview this week with pretty, dark-haired Sally Allen, screen actress.

He recently returned to Hollywood after a few weeks' rest at a desert resort and Miss Barrie announced an indefinite postponement of her divorce because "he wants me to give him an opportunity to prove himself."

DEATH OF WOMAN RAFFLES POLICE

Pittsburgh Chemist Called In To Solve Mysterious Case.

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 25.—(AP)—A noted Pittsburgh chemist was called today to help solve the mysterious death of Mrs. Lillian Householder, of Medina, Ohio, whose nearly nude body was found in a lonely cabin in 14 miles from Greensburg.

State police and Coroner McMurray announced they were questioning a man they identified as the Rev. Edward A. Haley, a priest of Canton, Ohio, who appeared at the cabin where the body was found.

McMurray said a post mortem had failed to disclose the cause of the woman's death and that he had asked F. C. Buckmaster to make an analysis of the contents of her stomach. McMurray said the Rev. Father Haley asserted the woman had been doing secretarial work for him. He told McMurray he had been on a leave of absence from a Canton parish and that he had returned last night from Canton, where he attended the funeral of his mother Tuesday.

UTILITIES NEARING END OF SANTEE TESTIMONY

Engineer Cross-Examined on Estimated Cost of Land Buying.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 25.—(UP)—Submission of "documentary evidence" by the plaintiffs, three privately owned utilities, in the Santee-Cooper power project case this afternoon, offered a new line of attack against the federal government, defendants in the case which centers around the proposed construction of a gigantic hydroelectric and navigation project.

The utilities, who are seeking a permanent injunction against the construction with federal funds of the proposed power project for lower South Carolina, offered this line of evidence following the cross-examination by government's counsel of C. P. Roberts, civil engineer of Marion, S. C., and partner of Colonel J. Monroe Johnson, assistant secretary of commerce.

It was understood by the plaintiff's action to mean they have produced all the witnesses they intend to, and after the documentary material is submitted, the way will be open for government witnesses.

Roberts was cross-examined by Senator R. M. Jeffries, South Carolina public service authority's counsel, regarding his estimate of yesterday's date to the land value of the dam site.

Jeffries asked him if he didn't know "you've got enough in your estimate to buy two or three counties in South Carolina?"

To which Roberts replied, "No, but about one-third of a county is what you're going to have to buy."

Late today Judge Glenn ordered a recess until Monday of next week.

'Demotion' of Lee Laid to Photograph

RICHMOND, Va., March 25.—(AP)—August Dietz, who furnished the photograph copies for the Lee-Jackson 4-cent stamp, the army and navy series, said today if General Lee had been "demoted" it was in the work of the engravers and not through a faulty photograph.

When the new series went on sale yesterday, General Lee had two stars on his coat collar instead of the three with which he always is pictured.

Dietz said he had never seen a photo of Lee in uniform with fewer than three stars, although Director Alvin W. Hall, of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, in Washington, said the original furnished by Dietz had been followed.

Name of Luther Is Scratched Off Walls of Court

NEW YORK, March 25.—(UP)—Justice, which is not always blind, peeked through a peephole tonight and decided Martin Luther had nothing to do with the supreme court, so his name was scratched off the walls of the New York county courthouse.

This further complicated an involved state of affairs surrounding a new set of murals which a group of WPA workers began painting on the courthouse two years ago, and which were to have unveiled last fall.

The unveiling ceremony was put in cold storage after two negro painters from Harlem found a picture of a pickaninny eating a slab of watermelon before the figure of Abraham Lincoln. They said this was "undignified" and made the WPA painters paint out the pickaninny, and substitute the figure of Frederick Douglass, negro friend of Lincoln.

Things moved along happily until Supreme Court Justice John E. McGehean found the figure of the great German religious reformer. He asked a mural painter, "What did Luther contribute to the law or the supreme court of New York?"

The painter replied: "Your honor, Luther destroyed the papacy, and that made new laws."

Justice McGehean snorted and decided to call a conference.

After a long look at Luther, the conferees decided to leave him in the picture, since it would be too much trouble to take him out, but they agreed to scratch out his name.

Visitor From Johannesburg Lauds American Goods Above British

'More Up-to-Date' Says South African Merchant, Here on Vacation.

Great Britain's South African colonies prefer American-made commodities to English brands and this fact will lead to an eventual settlement of the war debt, Wolf Saul, one of the largest manufacturers and wholesalers in the Union of South Africa, declared here yesterday.

Saul, whose home is in Johannesburg in the center of the gold and diamond mining district, is in Atlanta on his yearly visit to his brother Joseph, and his nephew, Abe Saul. He was accompanied by his wife who is a native of Washington, D. C. Saul is a native of Russia.

"England will pay the war debt, she always pays her debts," the South African merchant announced. "The only reason she hasn't paid before is because she fears Germany and as soon as the war scare is over and peace again reigns, your money will be repaid."

Lauds Trade Pacts.

Reciprocal trade agreements between the United States and the Union of South Africa have helped trade in both countries, he said. There was a little dissatisfaction in the African colony last year because the United States did not buy as much from them as it was thought they should. But, he says, the federal government has promised them more trade and next Christmas New Yorkers will be supplied with fresh fruits and old wines from South Africa, whose seasons are just reverse to ours.

"This friendly feeling will aid relations between the two governments," declared the gray-haired, blue-eyed merchant, who has spent 47 years building his African business. He left Russia when he was 15.

Plenty of Opportunities.

"This is an empty space with plenty of opportunities to the young man with ideas. We grow the finest wool in the world but there is not a single plant there to weave it into cloth. We are 5,800 feet above sea level, have a wonderful climate, so that should attract youth from a land that is already crowded."

The merchants in the United States spent $60,000,000 in the United States last year and $500,000 of this was spent by Saul, he said.

"Our customers prefer your products as they are up-to-date—the English are too conservative. You are far ahead of them. Venetian blinds, electric refrigerators, automobiles and other of your modern conveniences have a great market in my country. The people will pay two and three times as much as you to get them. A car selling in the United States for $800 probably will sell in Africa for $1,800 and the merchant will pocket most of the difference, there is little tariff."

OFFICIAL IN TENNESSEE IS ACCUSED IN PROBE

Witness Says Ex-Commissioner Used State Materials To Build Homes.

NASHVILLE, March 25.—(AP)—Testimony that prison labor and some state materials were used to build a smokehouse and a greenhouse at the home of E. L. Pardue, former commissioner of institutions, was given Special Investigator Lewis S. Pope today at a public hearing at the penitentiary.

Pardue, advised of the testimony, said "it's a very petty thing—the whole amount involved wouldn't be $35." He added that he had receipts showing he had paid for the main materials used.

The witness was 64-year-old Wiley Thompson, who said he had been employed at the prison for 35 years as a carpenter and had been in charge of a carpenter gang for 12 years.

Thompson said that "two years ago this month," materials were taken from the prison to Mr. Pardue's home, where six prisoners spent three weeks in building a smokehouse and greenhouse.

Asked by Pope if he knew what the materials consisted of, the witness read from a memorandum: "thirty bags of lime, 15 bags of cement, one iron door, a lock and hinge, two squares of shingles and one ventilator."

"I built a greenhouse over there, too, and the state furnished the glass and the greenhouse," Thompson added.

The materials, he declared, were hauled from the prison in a state truck.

"Upon whose instructions?" inquired Pope.

"Mr. Pardue's," the witness replied. "He gave me the orders."

FLORIDA CITRUS PACT OUTLAWED BY COURT

TAMPA, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—The federal agricultural adjustment act, and the Florida citrus marketing agreement which operates under it, were declared invalid in an opinion handed down today by Federal Judge Alexander Akerman, in a suit against members of the Florida citrus control committee by a group of central Florida citrus handlers.

Attorneys familiar with the proceedings declared that under Judge Akerman's ruling, the AAA and the marketing agreement no longer exist, so far as his jurisdiction is concerned, and neither the marketing agreement nor its shipping restrictions can be enforced, in his district, unless the decision is reversed on appeal.

COURT ASKED TO 'RULE' ON CROP INSURANCE

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP)—Senator Schwellenbach, Washington Democrat, urged congress today to ask the supreme court for an advisory opinion on the constitutionality of the administration's crop insurance proposals.

He made the suggestion while senators leaders pooled their resources to drive through to early passage both the insurance bill and farm tenant legislation.

Senator Pope, Idaho Democrat, asserted that recent decisions of the court cast doubt on the constitutionality of his legislation to create a $100,000,000 federal crop insurance corporation.

SENTENCED IN SLAYING.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 25.—(AP)—A criminal jury today convicted Charles Gervin, 28-year-old plumber, of voluntary manslaughter in the poolroom slaying of Jess Vandergift last August, and fixed a six-year prison sentence.

ELECTRIC TRAIN DERAILED.

PHILADELPHIA, March 25.—(AP)—The electric engine and four cars of the third section of the Pennsylvania railroad's Liberty Limited, Chicago for New York, were derailed at Forty-fourth street in West Philadelphia today. No one was reported injured.

ATLANTA THEATER NEWS

Holt in 'North of Nome' Opens at Rialto Today

"North of Nome," a Columbia production with Jack Holt in the star role, is one of the most thrilling action romances seen here in several weeks. It is the kind of picture that will hold patrons of the Rialto theater, where it opens today, on the edge of their seats in suspense and excitement.

A story of the seal trapping industry in the islands of the Alaskan sea, it depicts in dramatic power the struggle there between the old-style trappers who, many of them, turned to poaching on the islands owned by huge corporations, when they believed these great companies had no moral right to deprive them of their hunting grounds.

Holt is one of these trappers, with his mortal enemy, Guinn "Big Boy" Williams, a fur hijacker who steals Holt's pelts and leaves the poacher with no recourse in law. Holt establishes himself on a corporation owned island and, to foil Williams, destroys the only means of approach, narrowing himself. A ship is wrecked and Holt rescues an official of the big company, his lovely daughter, Evelyn Venable, her wealthy fiancé and others.

Williams reappears and from this point on the picture develops, in fast sequence, into a marvelous melodrama and at the same time a heart-warming romance.

Owing to the roadshow engagement of "Lost Horizon," for the Rialto starting on Monday, "North of Nome," though a top-ranking feature, can only be shown three days, today, Saturday and Sunday. Excellent short subjects complete the program.

"Swing High, Swing Low" With Lombard, at Fox

Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray, the romantic team of "Hands Across the Table" and "A Princess Comes Across" are together again in "Swing High, Swing Low," a romance with music which opens today at the Fox theater.

"Swing High, Swing Low" is a story of night club life in Panama and New York. Miss Lombard plays the role of an entertainer in a Panama cabaret who makes a famous musical tour of MacMurray, who has been very much on the loose in the canal port

Market Outlook

MAX BUCKINGHAM.
(Copyright 1937, by United Press.)

NEW YORK, March 25.—(UP)—The stock market poised uneasily tonight while awaiting the outcome of the Chrysler labor conference. Operators agreed the discussions between C. I. O. Leader John L. Lewis and Walter P. Chrysler hold the answer to the next director of the market.

The Street was bullish on stocks, believing that the next major trend is upward, but the buying power still holds to the sidelines so long as "lateral" moves of the major valued concerns are idle. Trading today dropped to the smallest level of the year because of caution and the Good Friday suspension.

Prices advanced at the start on announcement that the sit-down strikers would leave the Chrysler plant. But it was only a brief buying movement. The list later drifted and closed irregular, with the market maintaining some gains, with the day's turnover only 1,250,000 shares.

There was some concern over legal situations and the possibility of further monetary moves. The inflation sentiment has not died down. The fears over some action on "hot money" continue. The latter was emphasized today in announcement that the Federal Reserve Bank that gold received at the port of New York in the week ended March 24 totaled $21,822,000, of which $16,028,000 came from England, the balance from Canada. The bank's gold reserve in England for shipment to New York, bringing the total engaged from England since September 26 to $322,700,000.

Against these uncertainties were steadily improving business statistics. Major items were:

Steel production rapidly nearing previous level. In February, production was 22 weeks delayed. There was no indication of a lessening in demand despite the higher prices for finished products.

Automobile Daily News placed automobile production this week at 103,293 units compared with 102,211 the previous week and the total was 5,000 better than the corresponding 1936 week. General Motors output was placed at 50,000 units, a gain over the previous and 1936 weeks, and Ford output at 35,000 units, a gain of 9,000 over the corresponding week.

Steel scrap at Chicago sold at $22 a ton, the highest level in 14 years.

Farm buying power is increasing. Cash receipts in February were placed at $504,000,000 compared with $449,000,000 in February, 1936. In addition farmers received $53,000,000 from the government in the month.

Statisticians believe that buying power of industrial workers likely will show even a "rearter improvement as result of recent wage rises.

Engineering production awards this year were $49,006,000, second highest of the year, compared with $34,569,000 in the previous week and $32,611,000 in the corresponding 1936 week.

Private estimates for carloadings in the week ended March 20 were around 760,000 cars, the highest for the year.

Expensive Gifts Easter Feature In Windy City

CHICAGO, March 25.—(AP)—The Easter bunny is going to leave more expensive gifts this year than last, a survey of Chicago's shopping district disclosed today.

He arranged for a $2,500 single silver fox scarf at one State street store. At another a $1,000 cloth of gold "gentleman's robe" was under consideration. A $250 shaving brush was another choice item.

Larger sized diamonds, and more of them, were being purchased, one jewelry concern said. The demand for larger bottles of expensive imported perfume also was on the increase.

Even the Easter bunny's stock in trade, eggs, were larger. That was the word of one large bakery concern.

TARZAN'S QUEST No. 83

Quick as a cat, and with surprising strength, Annette tore herself from Prince Sborov's grip. "Help, Tibbs!" she screamed. Tibbs had not gone far, and now he came running. "If you tell on me," Sborov whispered, "I'll kill you—as I killed her!"

Annette gazed into his cold eyes, as Jane had, and she was frightened. "What's wrong?" Tibbs demanded as he came near them. "Why are you—nothing," Alexis laughed. "Annette thought she saw a snake." "I did see a snake," the girl added meaningly.

At that moment, Brown came racing out of the forest. "What's going on?" he cried excitedly. "I heard someone scream. Was that you, Annette?" "She saw a snake," Prince Sborov declared, with a shrug. "Where is it?" the aviator demanded. "Did you kill him?"

"I had nothing to kill it with," the girl replied. "But if it frightens me again, you will kill it." "You bet I will, girl. Where is it now?" "It got away," said Alexis. Annette looked into the prince's eyes and said: "Next time it will not get away!"

NEAR-ZERO WEATHER HITS MIDWEST STATES IN WINTRY COMEBACK

With 22 Inches of Snow in Dakotas, Storm Sweeps to Atlantic Coast.

By the Associated Press.

A brisk spring snowstorm moved into the east yesterday while mid-winter cold spread across the drifted west.

Thunder and lightning accompanied wind-whipped snow and sleet in upstate New York. The fall reached a depth of two to three inches there. Temperatures dropped below freezing. Snow gave an unseasonable touch to Easter shopping parades in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana. A heavy rain drenched Philadelphia.

Winter's comeback brought near-zero weather to the Midwest and clearing skies enabled plow crews to clear roads of a snow deposit that in some sections was the heaviest of the year.

22 Inches of Snow.

The blanket measured up to eight inches in Wisconsin, 17 in Minnesota and 22 in South Dakota, although drifts attained a nine-foot height.

County Agricultural Agent A. R. Carr, of Fairmont, Minn., evaluated the blizzard as "a billion-dollar snowstorm for the northwest." It provided much-needed moisture for spring planting in fields dehydrated by last year's drought.

Low temperatures evoked wry remarks at many points as spring's delayed entry. Belle Fourche, S. D., reported a minimum of 12 below and Owl's Head, N. Y., an unofficial five below. Other readings, all above zero, included Miles City, Mont., 2; Sheridan, Wyo., and Bismarck, N. D., 4; Duluth, Minn., 2; Park Falls, Wis., 4; Valentine, Neb., and Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., 6; Minneapolis and Burlington, Vt., 10.

Meteorologists predicted unseasonably cold weather through today (Friday) at least.

REHEARING CALLED IN JUDGESHIP ROW

Disputed Cherokee Bench To Be Supreme Court Issue Again.

The Georgia supreme court ordered a rehearing yesterday of the legal dispute over the Cherokee superior court judge's bench.

Previously the court ruled in favor of Judge Claude C. Pittman, against whom William Ingram, of Cartersville, brought removal action.

The court ordered briefs filed by Saturday, but gave no reason for its action.

Controversy over the court post began following the death of James McFarland, of Dalton, elected to succeed Pittman in the primary last September.

Following the death of McFarland before he took office, former Governor Talmadge appointed Ingram McFarland's successor, but Pittman declined to vacate the bench.

A special primary was recently ordered for May 4 by the rules committee of the state Democratic executive committee to select a nominee for the judicial post to run in the June 8 general election.

At Calhoun yesterday Judge Pittman, terming the special primary "nothing more or less than a straw ballot," said he would not accept the result.

FRIEND SAYS GREEN RESIDED IN TEXAS

He Cautioned Witness To List Terrell as Home, Will Hearing Is Told.

DALLAS, March 25.—(AP)—Jovial, elderly F. B. McKay, long-time business associate and intimate of the late Colonel E. H. R. Green, testified at a special hearing in the $500,000 Green will dispute today that the financier had cautioned him "on several occasions" to list Terrell, Texas, as his residence.

Several states are involved in litigation over the vast fortune left to Colonel Green's sister, Mrs. Sylvia Wilkes, of New York, by the son of Hetty Green, the railroad queen. All seek inheritance taxes while his widow, Mrs. Mabel Harlow Green, seeks to establish his residence as Texas to share in community property and earnings listed after their marriage.

McKay, now district freight agent for the Southern Pacific railroad, said Colonel Green, after being listed on affidavits presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission as a Terrell resident, "cautioned me on all occasions to use Terrell—and Terrell only—as his official headquarters." He later said by "official headquarters" he meant residence.

12 GIVEN SENTENCES IN $3,000,000 FRAUD

Jacksonville Man Is Among Defendants in Alleged Utility Scheme.

NEW YORK, March 25.—(AP)—Wallace C. Garland was sentenced to two years in federal prison today by Federal Judge John C. Knox as the result of his conviction on charges of mail fraud and conspiracy in connection with sales of stock of the Public Service Holding Corporation.

Eleven other defendants, convicted under the same 43-count indictment, were sentenced to terms ranging from a year and a day to three and one-half years each.

Judge Knox stayed execution of the sentences until next Tuesday because of the Easter holidays.

The government charged the investing public lost between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000 through the activities of the defendants.

Among others sentenced was Harvey W. Sieg, of Jacksonville, Fla., a year and a day.

ONE KILLED, TWO HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

WYTHEVILLE, Va., March 25.—(AP)—Parr Hooper McQueen, 19-year-old student at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., was killed and two fellow students seriously injured in an automobile accident today as they were en route home for Easter holidays.

McQueen, whose home was in Silver Springs, Md., was in the rumble seat of a roadster which left the Lee highway 15 miles west of here and overturned after hitting a fence post and concrete culvert.

Writer of Threat Dying, Released

Charged with writing a letter threatening the life of the mayor's son, William B. Hartford Jr., a man listed as Marvin S. Reeves, 35, of a Glenwood avenue address, was released yesterday when police learned he was in a dying condition and Mayor Hartford, to whom the case was reported, said he did not wish to prosecute. Reeves admitted writing the letter, according to police reports, and promised not to do so again. He has been confined to his bed.

SOFT COAL PARLEY SEEKING COMPROMISE

Solution of Dispute Over Wages and Hours Expected Before Strike Date.

NEW YORK, March 25.—(AP)—Hoping to avoid a soft coal strike next week, miners and operators negotiating a new wage and hour agreement decided tonight to work tomorrow despite the Good Friday holiday.

Unless a new contract is signed or the present one is extended, 400,000 miners will stay away from work Thursday.

Negotiations now are in the hands of a six-man joint committee. The committee's decisions are subject to routine approval by the full Appalachian joint wage conference made up of about 300 miners and operators. The pay and hours scale this conference approves determines the pay and hours of all the country's soft coal miners.

Usually well-informed sources disclosed hints of willingness to compromise had come from both miners and operators.

When the negotiations started, the miners demanded a 30-hour work week, a 15 per cent day increase, two weeks vacation with pay and a guarantee of 200 days work each year. The operators demanded an increase in the work week from 35 to 40 hours with no change in the base pay rate of $5.50 a day.

AIR MAIL OVER WORLD IS VISIONED BY FARLEY

Cabinet Member Dedicates Postoffices in Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS, March 25.—(AP)—Postmaster General James A. Farley visioned here today an American air mail service connected with the entire world.

The President's adviser spent a busy day in this section, dedicating new postoffices at Arabi and Gretna, La., and meeting Louisiana officials.

He said that in the past year the transatlantic air mail service had been inaugurated with the far east and that a similar service across the Atlantic to Europe will be started this year.

"The domestic air mail system has been entirely reconstructed and is the most efficient in the world," he said. "The schedules are faster, the equipment the latest and best, and the annual cost for this vastly improved service is $7,000,000 less than the cost of the service in 1932."

"Our foreign air mail system, like our domestic air mail service, is the finest and most extensive in the world. These foreign routes encircle and serve the countries of South and Central America," he said.

MOTHER PAROLED

Tennessee Woman Was Convicted in 1935.

NASHVILLE, March 25.—(AP)—General John J. Lively, secretary of the state parole board, said that Mable English, former deputy clerk and master of Hamilton county, was paroled today, effective April 15.

The president of the mother of several children, was convicted of grand and petit larceny in 1935. A. W. Neely of the state penitentiary said, and sentenced to from three to five years in prison.

She entered prison, he added, on April 15, 1935, and under the parole laws will be eligible for parole on April 15.

General Lively said action was taken on Mrs. English's case because the board did not meet again before she became eligible for parole.

SEAMAN'S CARD ACT KILLED BY ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt signed a bill today permitting seamen to quit carrying "continuous discharge" books, if they so desire.

The measure amended the Copeland safety-at-sea act, making it mandatory for seamen to carry the books containing a record of their employment.

Under the new law, seamen can choose between the discharge books or identification certificates bearing their signatures, photographs, fingerprints and similar data but no reference to service or ability.

Sadie To See New York After Hitch-Hiking Trip

NEW YORK, March 25.—(AP)—Twenty-year-old Sadie Burns, who dressed herself as a man and hitchhiked from Houston, Texas, to see New York, is going home—dressed as a woman.

But first she'll be shown the sights of the city where she hoped to get a job. Brigadier Ames McKernan, of the Salvation Army, said the sightseeing trip would continue from today until Monday or Tuesday.

A loose strand of hair brought a climax to the girl's long trip yesterday. Patrolman Capolongo noticed the male-garbed figure leaning dejectedly against a building in the B'way. The clothes didn't seem to go with the long wisp of hair sneaking from under the figure's brown fedora.

She pleaded guilty to vagrancy charges; was given a number and turned over to the Salvation Army.

STEPHENS LETTERS GIVEN TO U. S. LIBRARY

Extensive Collection of Confederate Leader's Writings Presented by Baruch.

Approximately 7,000 letters written by Alexander H. Stephens, ex-congressman and ex-governor of Georgia, have been given the library of congress by Bernard M. Baruch, New York financier, it was announced in Washington yesterday.

The letters were purchased for $6,000 by Baruch from Mrs. Horace M. Holden, of 925 Virginia avenue, a grand niece of the statesman.

Historians on the library staff said the letters were of great value because there is a scarcity of southern material for the period from 1830 to 1900. This collection was found in the basement of Dr. Robert Simpson, in Washington, Ga., about 12 or 13 years ago and were then given Mrs. Holden. They have been in her possession since then until their recent sale. For 30 years they had remained in the basement and were decayed, moth eaten, rain-soaked when discovered by Mrs. Holden.

Included in the collection given the library of congress are very few of Stephens' important letters, Mrs. Holden said. The majority are letters written by Stephens' secretaries which bear only the initials of the famous southern statesman. The letters to the dignitaries of the period had been taken out of the collection years ago by other relatives, Mrs. Holden revealed.

Letters to Robert Tombs, various chancellors of the University of Georgia, and important men throughout the nation however are among the collection. The letters relate to his years as a congressman, to his term as Confederate vice president, and to his post-war years in congress.

Like a present-day congressman's mail, many of the letters are concerned with patronage, preoccupation planning and sponsorship of bills. A few of them speak of efforts to avert the war. One told in detail of Stephens' conference early in 1865 with General Grant and President Lincoln in an effort to end the war. Lincoln and Stephens met at Fort Monroe, Va., but their discussions were made in vain.

THREE TIMES AN UNCLE.

CAPE TOWN, Africa, March 25.—(UP)—Adrien Pic, assistant mayor of the village of Chazelet, who records births, deaths and marriage, greeted his three brothers-in-law today, listened in amazement and then marked down the birth of three children, making him an uncle three times.

COLLEGE SWEETHEART FREED IN TORCH DEATH

Sheriff Lacks Clues in Slaying of Girl, Former Teacher.

NEW CASTLE, Ind., Mch. 25.—(AP)—Groping for a solution to the torch death of blonde Mabel Sutton, 28, whose body was found in a woods near here Tuesday, authorities questioned and released today a village schoolmaster who, they said, had been her sweetheart in a college romance.

Sheriff Zornes said he was convinced Elbert Williams, 30, the teacher, knew nothing about Miss Sutton's death. Williams was a classmate and suitor of the young woman at Ball State Teachers' College at Muncie, the sheriff said.

Miss Sutton's body, charred and mutilated, was identified by her father, Elmer Sutton, a farmer and blacksmith at Cadiz, five miles west of New Castle.

Sutton said his daughter formerly was a school teacher, but lost her job because a factory worker at Anderson, Zornes said Miss Sutton appar-

Nazi Racial Office Issues New Edict

BERLIN, March 25.—(AP)—Matchmaking by properly qualified Nazi officials soon will be placed on a legal basis in an effort to secure healthy offspring from sound parent stock.

A training course for the aspirant matchmakers in eugenics and heredity laws will be started April 7 under the auspices of the labor front and the Nazi racial office. A final examination will qualify practitioners.

TERMS SUSPENDED FOR AIDING ESCAPE

One year suspended sentences were given Alethia and Lucile Whitmore yesterday in Fulton superior court on felony charges of harboring an escapee.

Both had been indicted for sheltering Bill Whitmore, who recently escaped from the Pierce county chain gang while serving a sentence from Fulton county on larceny of an automobile charges.

PREACHER-POLICEMAN RETURNS TO PULPIT

BETHLEHEM, Pa., March 25.—(AP)—The Rev. Fred T. Trafford, Bethlehem's crusading superintendent of police, will return to the active ministry.

Called to head Bethlehem's police department in 1930 by Mayor Robert Pfeiffer, Trafford reorganized the department and inaugurated a drive to purge the city of vice. He conducted his own raids.

WIND TOO STRONG FOR WEAK HEART

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., March 25.—(AP)—Amos A. Haseley, 58, died from an encounter with the wind, a coroner's report said today.

Haseley was found dead this morning on a country road. Coroner Harry R. Eames said he died from a heart attack brought on by the exertion of bucking a high wind last night.

Haseley, he said, had to buck the wind while walking from his house to church.

Things you'll need for EASTER

Your Easter Cake

Ready Baked Each 39c

This is the kind of cake you'd make yourself—at twice the cost—if you were to spend long, hot hours in the kitchen. A round, three-layer butter cake, iced with white icing and on the sides thick, creamy chocolate. A nest of toasted long-thread coconut filled with Easter Eggs decorates the top. Differently delicious... and so rich! Approved by Mrs. Dull!
